10% Boost In Income Tax Wins Support Of Harrison

Passage by Senate of Couzens "Recovery" Levy Held Sure.

House May Balk, Facing Elections

Treasury Expected to Gain $55,000,000 During 1935.

By Franklyn Waltman, Jr.

Adoption by the Senate of a proposal to add 10 per cent to payments due from all individual Federal income taxpayers on incomes for the current calendar year was forecast yesterday by Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, in charge of the pending revenue bill.

This additional sum would be known as a "recovery tax," and, it was estimated, would increase Treasury receipts by $55,000,000 during the 1935 calendar year. The tax would not only apply to corporation income tax payments.

Sponsored by Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, wealthiest member of the Senate, the levy would be superimposed on the regular normal income tax and surtaxes imposed.

Senator Couzens has not yet offered his amendment, which may apply also to incomes from trust estates. He discussed its terms with Senator Harrison, who later announced he regarded it as a "fair" proposal and would support it. Since he is in charge of the bill and speaks for the Administration leaders, his support should assure adoption of the amendment.

Higher Estate Taxes Loom.

Harrison previously announced he was ready to accept, with a modification, the amendemnt by Senator La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, boosting higher than the Finance Committee's proposal, the Federal tax on estates. This proposal would make the maximum tax rate, on estates in excess of $10,000,000, 60 per cent compared with 45 per cent in existing law and 50 per cent proposed by the Finance Committee.

In view of Harrison's willingness to accept the Couzens and La Follette proposals, it appeared last night that when the Senate finishes with the tax bill it will contain provisions estimated to produce $477,000,000 additional revenue for the Treasury. When the House passed the bill its additional revenue was estimated at $258,000,000. The Finance Committee approved amendments which it was estimated would produce $72,000,000 more, or $330,000,000.

Senate amendments expected to

Yacht Murder Suspect Held

Benjamin Collings' Death Still Being Probed by N. Y. Police.

New York, April 6 (AP).—Nassau County detectives today arrested George Hutley, 53, an unemployed sailor, for questioning in connection with the slaying of Benjamin Collings aboard a yacht in Long Island Sound September 10, 1932.

Two men bound Collings, after beating him over the head with a milk bottle, and then threw him into the water.

Mrs. Collings, wife of the slain man, was aboard the yacht Penguin with her husband and their daughter, Barbara, then five. She was carried in a motorboat several miles and marooned.

Nassau County police have been working on the case ever since. Five months ago Inspector Harold R. King ordered Sergt. John Kearney and Detective Lester Pearsall to make a vigorous hunt for the slayers.

Hutley was accompanying detectives to Mineola, Long Island, where he will be questioned.

Mrs. Collings is expected to go to Mineola, officers said.

Visitors' Day Finds Insull in Seclusion

Stays in Bed as Friends Chat With Prisoners.

Istanbul, April 6 (AP).—While other prisoners in the House of Detention chatted with visitors, Samuel Insull remained secluded in his room today.

Because of a Moslem holiday visitors were allowed. Insull, however, spent much of the day in bed, writing his memoirs. He is attended by a valet, obtained from among the prisoners at a salary of about 12 cents a day.

A formal decision is expected by the Penal Court tomorrow on the 74-year-old fugitive's plea that he be released pending an appeal of the decision that he must return to the United States for criminal trial.

"Black Tom" Blast Guilt Laid to Nazi

Irish Radical, Collins, Signs Affidavit; New Hearing Sought.

New York, April 6 (AP).—An affidavit obtained in Ireland from James Larkin, labor leader who was deported in 1922, may play an important part in deciding whether Germany should pay for the famous "Black Tom" blast that helped push the United States into the World War.

The blast destroyed 300 carloads of ammunition in a railroad-water terminal at Jersey City, N. J., on July 29, 1916, besides killing four persons and injuring hundreds.

American claims for $40,000,000 damages from Germany as responsible for the explosion were mixed in 1932 by the American-German Mixed Claims Commission.

A petition for a rehearing was filed last May by the American agent, and last December Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts, umpire of the commission, decided the case might be reopened because of new evidence and charges that Germany had introduced perjured testimony.

Larkin's affidavit, as revealed today in the World-Telegram, names a man now high in the Hitler regime in Germany as one of the agents "with knowledge" of the Black Tom explosion.

He tells of hearing, in a restau-

30,000 Watch War Display On Army Day

Big Parade Is Marred by Legion of Honor's Withdrawal.

Washington had a real military parade yesterday, celebrating Army Day and the seventeenth anniversary of the Nation's declaration of war against the Central Powers.

For 40 minutes, approximately 30,000 persons watched the 4,157 in the parade march to the roll of drums along Pennsylvania and Constitution avenues. But the Legion of Honor was not represented.

Believing the position assigned them in the parade a slight to their decorations, members of the Legion of Honor, composed of men holding the Congressional Medal of Honor and the Distinguished Service Medal, withdrew from the march. When the parade was about to start members of the group discovered that theirs was an insignificant position in the last division, composed of veterans and patriotic groups, instead of being immediately behind the massed colors of the various organizations.

When Regular Army officers in charge of the make-up of the parade refused a change in position, the Legion of Honor withdrew. Members blamed the position assigned them on Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, Third Corps Area commander, who was grand marshal.

Later the ceremonies concluded at the Mayflower Hotel, where Sec-

5 States Track Killer Barrow And Aid as 2 More Are Slain

Miami, Okla., April 6 (AP).—Machine guns fired by two gunmen believed by officers to have been Clyde Barrow and Raymond Hamilton, Texas killers, rattled out death again today.

Caught mired in a mudhole, two outlaws shot down Cal Campbell, 63-year-old constable, wounded and kidnaped Percy Boyd, Commerce, Okla., police chief, and sped away, believed accompanied by Barrow's cigar smoking feminine accomplice, Bonnie Parker.

Officers ran down several reports the fugitives had been seen later in the day but did not gain sight of the fast car in which they were riding.

Campbell was felled by a single machine gun bullet in the chest and died almost instantly. By his side was found his revolver, three exploded cartridges showing he had tried to reply to the deadly blast from the outlaws.

Boyd, wounded in the face and shoulder, was forced into the outlaws' car, while blood streamed down his face. An hour later A. N. Butterfield, a farmer who had been forced to help the outlaw car out of a second mudhole, reported the two men boasted of having killed two officers.

This led to fears that perhaps Boyd had died also or had been killed and his body thrown out of the car.

The theory that the killers were not the Barrow gang, but Jim Clark and Frank Delmar, fugitives from the Kansas State Prison at Lansing, was advanced by Perry Porter, Ottawa County attorney. Sheriff Dee Wetters, of Miami, and other officers who took part in the chase, however, held to the belief that the two were Barrow and Hamilton.

Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma officers armed with machine guns, rifles and shotguns raced over the roads of the Kansas-Oklahoma border country throughout the day, many of them concentrating southwest of Chetopa, Kans., where the outlaw car was reported seen shortly after noon.

Stock Mart Rule Faces Modification

Defense of 60 Per Cent Margin Plan Breaks Down in Senate.

Security Act Also Yields to New Demand for Liberalization.

By Robert C. Albright.

The securities act of 1933 and Administration proposals for stock exchange control yesterday yielded before renewed demands for liberalization, as departmental experts and Congressional committees tackled the task of revision.

In the Senate, defense of rigid 60 per cent margin requirements in the stock market control bill virtually collapsed last night, as Ferdinand Pecora, hard-boiled counsel for the Senate Banking Committee, threw his support behind the Untermyer plan for complete Federal Reserve Board jurisdiction over margins.

In the House, the Rayburn Interstate Commerce Committee turned down the Administration's redraft of the Fletcher-Rayburn bill and submitted the entire stock market control measure to a special subcommittee for revision.

Mining Bloc Acts.

Meantime, the strong House mining bloc appointed a sub-committee to sit with Commissioner James M. Landis, of the Federal Trade Commission, in a drive to work out modifying amendments to the securities act of 1933.

This move was followed in the Senate by a group under leadership of Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, who began the draft of a bill to limit powers of the Federal Trade Commission over interstate traffic in securities.

Coincident with these developments, it was learned a special departmental committee, of which Landis is a member, already has worked out some modifications of the stringent securities act, which are in written form, awaiting return of the President.

Demand Increases.

Unless Administration concessions toward securities act modification go a long way toward meeting increasing demand from business and industry for liberalization, it appeared likely congressional hearings on specific relief measures will be sought by proponents of liberalizing bills.

Pressure for modifying amendments to the Fletcher-Rayburn stock market control bill came to a head yesterday before the Senate Banking Committee, where members voted to authorize the Federal Trade Commission in its discretion to exempt small securities exchanges from drastic provisions of the control bill.

The committee delayed action on an amendment by Senator Alva B. Adams (Democrat), Colorado, to strike out much of the language of section 2, regarded as the constitutional saving clause of the bill. He consented to redraft his amendment and a vote will be taken Monday.

Pecora Favors Plan.

Following a two-hour session of the group, Pecora, speaking for the committee, indorsed a plan proposed Thursday by Samuel Untermyer, to set up a special agency within an enlarged Federal Reserve Board, to fix margin requirements, free from any formula in law.

His proposal, differing only slightly from the plan outlined by

Cougars Give Up Hides to Help Pay Expenses of CWA

Cougars, the big cats that roam mountains in the State of Washington, are helping pay the Nation's bill for the CWA, Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, disclosed yesterday.

Hopkins displayed a check for $1,800 made out to the Treasurer of the United States. It was sent to him by Leo Couch, leader of the predatory animal and rodent control project of Washington, a CWA project.

The project, Hopkins explained, resulted in the hunting down of a large number of cougars, whose hides are valuable. Sale of the skins collected netted the $1,800 forwarded to him.

Hopkins disclosed that the "control" wanted to keep the cougar hide money, but under the law the proceeds of the work had to go to the United States.

"At least it shows that some of our CWA projects are self-liquidating," Hopkins asserted.

Strife Perils Government Policy; 15,000 Quit in Coal Fields.

Row Flares Anew In Auto Industry

Court Enjoins Johnson Against Pay-Hour Enforcement.

Labor difficulties breaking out simultaneously yesterday in various parts of the country challenged the Government's policy in dealing with employers and employes.

Neither the automobile controversy nor the coal mine controversy, both of which President Roosevelt and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson hoped were settled, is staying settled.

The mine settlement, based on a 7-hour, 5-day week, with compensating increases in wages, was upset in one field when word was received that Judge C. B. Kennamer, United States District Court at Birmingham, Ala., had issued a ten-day injunction restraining Johnson from enforcing the new arrangement. A hearing on petition for a permanent order will be held April 16.

Gen. Johnson was busy attempting to untangle the labor controversy. He canceled a scheduled press conference and was in communication with Edward F. McGrady, his labor adviser, whom he sent to Detroit Thursday, when automobile labor troubles flared up.

Viewed as Supreme Test.

The automobile situation is looked upon as a supreme test of the Administration's labor policy, because it was in the attempted settlement of this difficulty that this policy was first enunciated, providing for proportionate representation of company unions and outside unions.

Labor developments reported yesterday by the Associated Press included:

Miners and pickets clashed in the West Virginia coal fields, leading to the use of tear gas bombs and the movement of more troops into the Logan coal field.

Alabama coal operators shut down their mines, throwing 15,000 men out of work, and holding they could not afford to meet the Government's demands. They were upheld by the injunction order.

Tool and diemakers in Detroit threatened to strike for higher wages. The Automobile Labor Board, having just settled an automobile strike at Racine, Wis., planned to meet today to consider the new strike threat and to consider charges of discrimination.

Hosiery Workers Strike.

Hosiery workers, numbering 3,000, walked out in three mills at Indianapolis, demanding higher wages.

Part of the Illinois coal miners were idle, while company officials tried to iron out difficulties surrounding the new wage and hour agreement.

At Bridgeton, Conn., 200 farm workers employed at Seabrooks

Victim of Jungle Crash Guarded Riches 2 Weeks

Bolivar, Valle, Colombia, April 6 (AP).—How he stood guard over a fortune in gold for two weeks after his airplane was wrecked and then fought his way on foot out of the steaming jungles was told by Newton C. Marshall, Milwaukee mining engineer, who was brought to this village today.

Weak from his thrilling experiences, Marshall related what happened after the crash of his airliner near Uribe River, March 10, while over the famed Choco mining district.

Two of the passengers of the plane were killed. Marshall, the mechanic named Hancke, and the pilot were injured, but the mechanic was sent to obtain aid. He was never seen again. Capt. Walter Geck, the pilot, died in fighting through the jungle and Indians have found his body.

Mrs. Massie Slashes Wrists; Regrets Reno

Jumps From Top Deck of Ship; Injuries Not Serious.

Genoa, Italy, April 6 (AP).—Mrs. Thalia Fortescue Massie, the center of an attack and murder case in Honolulu more than two years ago, tried to kill herself while en route here because, she said today, "I wanted to die; I regretted having got a divorce."

Officers of the S. S. Roma disclosed that she slashed both wrists and threw herself from the top deck four days ago on a voyage from New York.

Prof. Darrio Borelli, director of the nervous ailments clinic in Genoa, where she was taken after the Roma's arrival yesterday, said the numerous contusions suffered in the 20-foot fall were not serious, but would require 30 to 40 days for complete recovery.

Mrs. Massie and Lieut. Thomas Hedges Massie, U. S. N., were divorced in Reno February 23. She had planned a Mediterranean cruise.

Tonight she entered a period of deep sleep and restful quiet, under orders of Dr. Borelli that nothing should be allowed to disturb "the natural effort of a normal and healthy body to throw off the effects of an attempted suicide."

The young woman, who entered the hospital in a hysterical condition, was reported calm and will-

Milk Control Plan Verges On Collapse

AAA Nears Hands-off Policy as Farmers Voice Protest.

Collapse of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's milk control plan appeared imminent last night.

A storm of criticism from dairymen, it was learned, has virtually reconciled Government officials to a hands-off policy toward the industry. Federal planners insisted milk production should be curtailed, but informally agreed it would be futile for the AAA to take the initiative in a cooperative movement without the support of a majority of dairy farmers.

AAA economists still hoped against hope that producers would agree to some plan of production curtailment for fear another crisis would arise this summer and bring a revival of dreaded milk strikes comparable to the disorders which lashed several Western States about six months ago.

Half a dozen brain trusters evolved the plan under fire. It called for a net 10 per cent Nation-wide reduction in dairy production below the peak averages of the last three years. The program would involve imposition of a processing tax beginning at 1 cent per pound of butterfat and increasing later to a maximum of 5 cents. As in cotton, wheat and other crop reduction schemes, benefit payments would be paid to all farmers participating.

Each dairyman complying would promise to cut his production by 15 per cent. Authors of the program believed individual reduction of 15 per cent would be necessary to make possible a Nation-wide 10 per cent decrease as some farmers would not cooperate with any plan, regardless of its popularity with the industry as a whole.

The plan stipulated methods of production curtailment would be recommended later by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Approved methods probably would include changes in feeding and limited slaughtering, with precautions to prevent unfavorable price reaction on the beef market.

An ultimatum was hurled at the producers when the AAA called 15

Cities Service Billion Stock Juggle Bared

A. T. & T. High Salaries to Officers, Growth of Power Scored.

Two corporations, each with many thousands of small stockholders, came in for criticism from official sources today.

The Senate Banking Committee had before it testimony charging that Cities Service Co. sold more than $1,000,000,000 in stock to small investors, and then used nearly all the money to buy its own stock in the open market, thus maintaining the price. This testimony was given the committee by Robert E. Healy, chief counsel of the Federal Trade Commission.

The House Interstate Commerce Committee received a report charging that the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. paid overgenerous salaries; that it was more powerful than some of the States with which it deals, and that huge profits were made by J. P. Morgan & Co. in floating bonds of the company. The report was made by Dr. Walter M. W. Splawn, special investigator.

Healy told the Senate committee that in a high-pressure sales campaign the Cities Service Co. collected a total of $1,146,518,000 from investors, and that it spent during the same period, $965,000,000 to buy its own stock.

Hundreds, and perhaps thousands, of salesmen were vending Cities Service stock, Healy told the committee. At the same time, the company was conducting huge operations on the New York curb. He said that during some months the company bought 95 per cent of all the stock transferred on the curb exchange.

"They were keeping the shares off the market on one hand, and on the other creating a demand for the stock," Healy said. "The result was that the stock had the appearance of great activity."

Healy testified that prices ran as high as $80 and $65 a share. The stock now sells around $2 a share.

Healy also told the committee that the Cities Service Securities Co. used $20,500,000 to buy stock from Henry L. Doherty, president of the company, on which Doherty made a profit of $19,000,000. After that, Healy testified, the company cre-

Roosevelt Accepts Challenge Of Press to Probe 'Fish Libel'

By Leon Dure, jr.

Miami, Fla., April 6.—Waiving immunity, President Roosevelt accepted the offer of ten White House correspondents to serve as a special committee to investigate the Presidential fishing and set Monday for a rendezvous at sea.

"Fishing data on hand," he declared confidently in a message replying to the correspondents' proposition to meet him on the Nourmahal and thus settle, for all time, whether his son Elliott had committed a "gross libel" by intimating the President's luck had not been all it should have been.

As this long-distance joking went on between Mr. Roosevelt and the newspapermen who cover the White House by wireless, to and from the Astor yacht, the Nourmahal moved on to another anchorage off Anguila Island, at the southernmost tip of the Bahamas, only a few miles to the north of Cuba.

The President first heard Elliott's "gross libel"—a statement that Mr. Roosevelt had fished all day and caught nothing—over the radio. Mock pride swelling within him, he protested and suggested the appointment of a committee to clear his record. With this as an excuse for an interview, at sea, the correspondents addressed to him this message:

To the President of the United States.

Sir:

With deep concern we have noted that it is the desire of the President to have a fair-

18 Hurt in Effort To Bomb Building

Night Sticks, Tear Gas Disperse Mob After Second Attack.

Minneapolis, April 6 (AP).—A mob of 6,000 unemployed rioted over blood-spattered sidewalks today as authorities battled them beneath hidden muzzles of machine guns mounted in the City Hall-Courthouse, which the chief of police said was the reported target of a bomb plot.

No shots were fired, but tear gas lingered in the air for hours after 18 persons, including 13 policemen, were taken to hospitals with injuries suffered in twice quelling the throng within three hours. The militia was not requested by the police although demanded by several judges.

Thirty persons were jailed and many had bruised faces and cracked skulls.

New Attack Feared.

Hours afterward, the building was surrounded by a cordon of police, warned by Chief Johannes to be on the alert for an attempt to bomb the structure, rumors of which he said he received. He said it was reported 25 men armed with revolvers were ready to march there.

As an aftermath to the melee that started at 10 a. m., with a bombardment of paving blocks, chunks of coal, bottles, stones and scrapiron, Alderman A. G. Bastis demanded immediate ouster of Chief of Police Michael Johannes by the city council unless rioters under arrest were freed.

The demand was shelved temporarily, Chief Johannes declaring, "There is going to be law and order as long as I am master of ceremonies."

An aged woman on crutches, screaming invectives, and hundreds of men and women disporting red arm bands, moved on the City Hall, demanding continuation of the CWA at union wages, increased relief allowances, and no investigation of former CWA workers demanding relief.

Mob Defies Police.

When speakers climbed atop parked automobiles around the City Hall, and refused to obey police orders, the bombardment began. At the time, the council was debating the Farmer-Labor party's platform for a sweeping program of public ownership, which some councilmen branded "communistic."

Jeering police, the throng resisted efforts to disperse them while a

Pecora Sought In Thayer Quiz

Famed Prosecutor Asked to Handle Probe of Gas Letters.

Albany, N. Y., April 6 (AP).—The Senate Judiciary Committee late today authorized Senator William T. Byrne to ask Ferdinand Pecora to serve as counsel for the committee in the State Senator Warren T. Thayer probe.

Byrne, a Democrat, is chairman of the committee. Thayer, Franklin County Republican, asked to have his connections with the Associated Gas & Electric Co. investigated as a result of letters read to the Federal Trade Commission.

Senator Byrne said he would telephone Pecora immediately and ask him to take charge of the investigation, which is scheduled to begin Monday afternoon.

He also announced the investigation's scope would not be broadened, as requested by Gov. Lehman and Attorney General John J. Bennett, jr.

The committee's decision to draft Pecora followed refusal of Bennett to take charge of the inquiry. He charged the investigation as outlined would be "merely a gesture to mislead the public."

Senator Byrne said the committee considered the present scope broad enough to determine whether Senator Thayer was guilty of misconduct.

Plan of Stock Control Faces Modification

Security Act Also Yields to New Demand for Liberalization.

President Richard Whitney, of the New York Stock Exchange, would expand membership of the board by three members. An amendment embodying the change will be offered to the committee Monday.

Following yesterday's banking committee meeting, Senate Democratic Leader Joseph T. Robinson told newspapermen he thought it "imperative" that some bill for stock market regulation be passed this session.

He said he did not necessarily mean the bill as now drafted should pass, adding that he personally considered the present statutory margin proposals "extreme."

Voicing a conviction that the bill will be further revised to overcome principal objections, Senator Robinson, who, up to yesterday, declined to forecast action this session, said some legislative steps should be taken to remedy stock market abuses of 1929, but still not restrict legitimate trading.

Draft to Be Revised.

Chairman Sam Rayburn, of the House Banking Committee, named a special sub-committee to revise the House draft of the stock market control measure. The group will comprise Mr. Rayburn, Representatives Huddleston, of Alabama, and Lea, of California (Democrats), Cooper, of Ohio, and Mapes, of Michigan (Republicans).

Under a resolution previously adopted by the full committee, the sub-committee is compelled to bring back a "statutory formula for fixing margins," but Representative Cooper, ranking minority member, predicted any fixed limit arrived at will be held to a minimum. Another effort will be made in the full committee to extend full authority to the Federal Reserve Board.

Minority members said a revised draft of the measure, completed this week by Thomas Corcoran and Ben Cohen, Government lawyers, embodying some modification of the original bill, failed to overcome their objections to each of the drafts made to date.

Representative James G. Scrugham (Democrat), of Colorado, who sponsored the mining bloc meeting which Thursday won from the Administration promises of some moderation in security act provisions hampering mine financing, yesterday named a committee of three to carry forward negotiations with Commissioner Landis.

Representative Abe Murdock (Democrat), Utah, will serve as chairman of the group, assisted by Representative Compton I. White (Democrat), of Idaho, and Representative Harry L. Englebright, (Republican), California.

Plan Meeting Tuesday.

Murdock said last night he will call his sub-committee together Tuesday in an effort to determine specifically what they want in the way of security act modification. He said representatives of mining companies, some of whom already have suggested amendments, will be invited to sit with them. Later they will confer wth Landis, who played a large part in drafting the original securities act.

Before leaving yesterday on a Congressional junket to West Point, Representative Scrugham said he would insist that such liberalization as might be agreed to should apply not only to mining, but industrial financing as a whole.

Senator King said last night he will introduce Monday a bill to curb stringent liability and penal provisions of the securities act, and restrict the broad administrative powers of the Federal Trade Commission.

"I opposed the bill when it passed, and predicted many of the injurious consequences which resulted," he said. "I am opposed now to the assumption of power which has been practiced by the Federal Trade Commission in this instance. I think its administration of this act has been harsh, arbitrary and capricious."

Michelangelo's Work Damaged by Restorers

Rome, April 6 (AP).—Two priceless frescoes painted by Michaelangelo in the Pauline Chapel of the Vatican—"The Conversion of St. Paul" and "The Crucifixion of St. Peter"—"have been damaged if not irremediably ruined" by a recent restoration, says the art critic of Giornale d'Italia today.

His view was supported in a statement by Pietro de Praj, the former technical director of the Vatican Restoration Library, who said 1,000 holes had been made in the frescoes, which measure 20 by 21 feet.

Men's Neckties Reflect Trend, Says Clothier

Cincinnati (U.P.).—Neckties reflect the economic trend, in the opinion of Harry D. Liebschutz, president of the Men's Apparel Club of Ohio, Inc., which recently held its annual convention here.

An optimistic outlook brings the call for more pattern and brighter tones," he pointed out. He added that "the outlook this season is unusually encouraging and the call for happy style effects has increased."

'Barber Jake's' Legal Aid Dies Suddenly Here

Heart Attack Proves Fatal to David Strausbury, Chicago Lawyer.

David D. Stansbury, 51, noted Chicago lawyer, who is believed to have come to Washington in an effort to stave off extradition proceedings against his client, John "Jack the Barber" Factor, wanted in Great Britain on swindling charges, died suddenly in his room at the Willard Hotel yesterday. His death was attributed to heart disease.

Stansbury arrived in the Capital yesterday morning, and went directly to the Willard, where he took a room with a friend, Frank P. Parish, also of Chicago. He complained of being ill and remained in hsi quarters. He was stricken a few hours later. Hotel officials said Parish was with Stansbury and summoned aid.

The fire rescue squad responded. A private physician, Dr. E. J. Ernest Mitchell, pronounced Stansbury dead. He expressed belief that the attorney had been the victim of angina pectoris, and notified Coroner A. MacGruder MacDonald.

Stansbury had a long and distinguished record as an attorney and a prosecutor in Chicago.

He formerly was an assistant U. S. district attorney, and in 1928 was called to assist Frank J. Loesch, the veteran president of the Crime Commission, in a long investigation of election terrorism in Chicago's "bloody twentieth" ward which culminated in a two months' trial of several politicians and hoodlums alleged to have carried the election for Morris Eller's faction by slugging, kidnaping, shooting and dumping ballot boxes into the Chicago River. Several were convicted on charges of conspiracy.

Recently Stansbury had been engaged in private practice, one of his clients being Factor, whose defense against extradition to England he was aiding.

Historic Names Found In National Forests

Portland, Oreg. (U.P.)—Names of historic National forest landmarks in Oregon reveal records of human history and migration.

Typically historic names are Mount David Douglas, in the Willamette National Forest, named in honor of the famous Scottish botanist who, in 1826, first classified the Douglas fir tree for science.

Tomahawk Island, in Multnomah County, marks the vicinity where Capt. Clark's pipe tomahawk was stolen by Indians in 1895.

Temporary Air Mail Bids Asked On More Lines

U. S. Action Shows Intent to Continue Letting 90-Day Contracts.

Evidence of the Postoffice Department's intention to go through with the letting of temporary air-mail contracts, despite the imminence of permanent legislation, was seen yesterday when bids were advertised for four additional temporary routes.

With the larger private carriers apparently determined to refrain from bidding on the three-month contracts, it had been thought Postmaster General Farley might withdraw the advertisements and await Congressional action.

Yesterday, however, the Postoffice Department announced specifications for four additional routes, calling for service between Detroit and Milwaukee, Newark and Chicago, Fargo, N. D., and Seattle, and Fort Worth and Los Angeles. Bids will be opened April 27.

Army Adds Eighth Route.

At the same time, the Army Air Service, now flying the mails over eight routes, announced a ninth—Chicago to St. Paul—will be added tomorrow. The Army also took step to relieve from air-mail flying duty all pilots who have not had 18 months' experience since graduation. Members of the last three graduating classes at Kelly Field were taken off the air mail routes.

A loan of $10,000, made by Paul Henderson, vice president of United Aircraft, to Chase C. Gove, assistant superintendent of railway mail service in the Postoffice Department, resulted in the latter's suspension, it was revealed yesterday.

Harlee Branch, Second Assistant Postmaster General, said Gove was relieved from duty last month, pending completion of a departmental investigation of the transaction, after which Gove will be given an opportunity to present his side of the case.

Henderson Tells of Loan.

During the Senate Air Mail Committee hearings, Henderson testified to loaning Gove, a friend of long standing, $10,000 in 1930. At the time, Gove was deputy to W. Irving Glover, Second Assistant Postmaster General, in charge of ocean and air-mail contracts.

Henderson testified the loan was necessitated by Gove's stock market losses, and that notes covering it had been destroyed. It was said by Henderson's friends here yesterday that the United vice president is in extremely poor health.

A canvass showed that of 3,888 families living in Missoula, Mont., 2,036 owned the residences they occupied.

10% Increase In Income Tax Wins Support

Harrison Gives Backing to Couzens' Plan for "Recovery."

raise the estimate to $477,000,000 are as follows:

|---|---|
| Increased surtax rates, already approved | $7,000,000 |
| La Follette estate tax amendment | 85,000,000 |
| Couzens recovery tax | 55,000,000 |

La Follette estimated his schedule of estate taxes would add $92,000,000 to receipts from that source during the first full year of operation, but the increases proposed by the Finance Committee would have raised an estimated $7,000,000, leaving $85,000,000 as the net increase.

House Action in Doubt.

Whether the Couzens amendment will appeal to members of the House who must seek reelection this year is problematical. It is a tax which falls in proportion on all Federal income taxpayers, whether they are millionaires, professional men or clerks. Each would be required to make a contribution to pay for recovery.

It is possible that when the tax bill reaches conference, these Senate amendments may be somewhat modified. Possibilities are the House may refuse to accept the Couzens "recovery" tax and the La Follette estate rates in their entirety, or might reduce the estate tax rates and cut the Couzens rate to 5 per cent.

There is a wide sentiment in the Senate that as long as the Federal Government continues the heavy expenditures for recovery purposes it is now undertaking there should be increased taxes to pay as much of the bill as possible at this time.

The progressive movement, led by Senator La Follette, to make the normal tax rate 6 instead of 4 per cent and to run surtaxes up to a maximum of 71 per cent attracted unusual strength. That proposal was a drastic one and was designed to "soak the rich;" nevertheless, the vote Thursday defeating it was 47 to 36, a margin of only 11 votes, Senator Couzens supported that amendment.

Party Lines Face Split.

All those who voted for the increased La Follette income tax rates may be counted in favor of the Couzens proposal. In addition there will be several Senators, irrespective of party influence, who feel taxes should be higher but not as high as proposed by Senator La Follette. These, without the support of Administration spokesmen, might be able to carry the proposal.

The estate and Couzens proposals will not come before the Senate until next week. Slow progress was made on the bill yesterday and in order to permit action on the legislative appropriation bill the revenue measure was laid aside early. The Senate recessed until Monday noon.

The proposal of Senator Louis Murphy (Democrat), Iowa, to increase sharply the tax on "exceptional" capital gains was defeated 36 to 42. The Iowan's amendment was a technical one and discriminated between capital gains accruing from ordinary business operations from those resulting from speculation.

Gains Set at $30,000,000.

Subsequently the Senate approved the capital gains and losses section in the bill, which provides that for tax purposes 100 per cent of the gain or loss shall be taken into account if the asset has been held for not more than one year; 80 per cent if held between one and two years; 60 per cent between two and five years; 40 per cent if held between five and ten years, and 30 per cent if the asset is held for more than ten years.

It is estimated that this new method for computing capital gains and losses will increase Treasury revenue by $30,000,000 annually.

New Pennsylvania Park To Commemorate Well

Titusville, Pa. (U.P.).—The Drake Well Memorial State Park will be dedicated here within the next few months. The park is a monument to the first oil well drilled in this country and is on the site of that well.

An attempt is being made to secure a fund of $10,000 by public subscription so that the dedication ceremonies may be appropriate to the park's importance and widespread interest in it. A four-day program, starting on Drake Day, August 27, is being planned.

More Leaders Censure Act

Captains of Industry Continue to Swell Roster of Those Whose Opinions Challenge Rayburn's "Lack of Securities Market" Statement.

Printed below are additional replies, belated but none the less interesting, in response to The Washington Post's inquiry concerning the securities act. Leaders of business, industry and banking in all sections of the United States were asked for such comment as they cared to make on Representative Sam Rayburn's statement that: "It is not true that the securities act is preventing sale of securities. It is the lack of a market."

The overwhelming response, from a notable array of prominent heads of industry, business, insurance companies, savings banks, commercial and investment bankers, has revealed complete unanimity. Without exception, the extraordinarily large number of those replying agree that the securities act is retarding recovery, that large amounts of funds are accumulated which would flow into industry, with consequent creation of jobs for the unemployed, but for the act, and that reasonable modification of the act, to make it workable, is essential.

E. ASBURY DAVIS, president, U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., Baltimore:

"I am convinced that present securities act is greatly interfering with sale of new issues and also the refunding of maturing obligations of unquestioned merit. Under the present bill, no responsible board of directors will act for fear of the liability provisions in the bill. The price of high-grade bonds and the absorption of huge amounts of Government bonds is evidence of the present great demand for good securities. This act should be amended and greatly liberalized at once so as to invite private capital back into business channels."

M. A. LINTON, president, Provident Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Philadelphia:

"Am firmly of belief that securities act of 1933 is one of the important hindrances to recovery by discouraging the flow of private capital into long-term investment, and thereby retarding the absorption of the unemployed in the durable goods industries."

FRED PABST, vice president, Pabst-Premier Brewing Co., Milwaukee:

"I consider Chairman Rayburn's statement on the securities act to be unsupported by facts. The present extreme strength in the bond market and inquiries for offerings by potential buyers show the demand there would be for sound securities of high quality if these were available. Responsible executives are obviously unwilling to assume the liabilities inherent in the registration requiremnts of the law as it now stands. Believe elimination of obnoxious features would result in resumption of capital expenditures and consequent increase in employment of those engaged in the capital goods industries."

ROLLAND J. HAMILTON, president, American Radiator & Standard Sanitary Corporation, New York:

"The country will not enjoy prosperity until there has been recovery in the durable goods industries. The movement of such goods is dependent in very considerable degree upon borrowed capital. The securities act, in my opinion, not only restricts the free flow of investment funds, but undermines confidence on the part of both the potential lender and borrower."

CORCORAN THOM, president, American Security & Trust Co., Washington:

"In my opinion, the very large amount of money belonging to both individuals and institutions which is simply awaiting investment, indicates that there would be an excellent market for new investments. I am confident that the securities act of 1933 is a considerable factor in preventing the issue and sale of new securities of a sound nature."

Labor Charge Is 10 Per Cent Of Retail Cost

Johnson's Ruling Settles Merchants' Problem; Effective April 19.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, yesterday settled the troublesome problem of the part played by the cost of labor in determining retail prices. He ruled that merchants must include 10 per cent for labor in arriving at the cost of their goods.

The retail code provides that no merchant shall sell below cost and that the use of "loss leaders," that is, merchandise sold below cost to attract customers who might buy other merchandise, must be stopped.

The new order providing that labor charges of 10 per cent be included in cost figures becomes effective April 19. Costs, other than labor, are defined as "the actual net delivered cost, less all discounts, or current replacement cost, whichever is lower."

Drugs, medicine, cosmetics, toilet preparations, drug sundries and allied items are not subject to the regulation, but will come under an order to be issued in the future. Food and groceries already have been given a 6 per cent minimum charge for labor.

The effect of these rulings is to establish uniform cost accounting among merchants in similar lines of business.

Meanwhile, the District Retail Code Authority announced that it had obtained a special ruling from NRA that maximum working hours in retail business may be exceeded in "extreme emergencies." This may be done by obtaining special permission of NRA and by paying time and a half for overtime.

The ruling was caused by the fact that merchants had difficulty in obtaining enough experienced employes during the Easter rush.

Policeman Who Arrested Gambler's Pal Chided.

"An adage is all right in its place," Judge Isaac R. Hitt, sagely observed yesterday, "but its place is not in Police Court."

With this reference to the old saying that "a man is judged by the company he keeps," he freed Willie Howard, 38. According to Policeman G. V. Moore's testimony, Howard was arrested because he was talking to a known gambler at Fourteenth and E streets northwest.

In closing, Judge Hitt delivered a spirited rebuke to Moore for haling Howard into court on such flimsy evidence.

Bell, Fredericksburg, Files for Reelection

Fredericksburg, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—W. A. Bell has filed notice for reelection to the city council in June. There are now six candidates, including three incumbents, in the race for the six seats.

Mr. Bell has been a councilman for ten years.

Larger Parole Board Is Urged

Separation From Penal Institutions Also Is Asked by Bride.

A staff of six additional parole officers and enlargement of the clerical force was asked of the District Commissioners yesterday by William W. Bride, chairman of the District Board of Parole and Indeterminate Sentence. The men are necessary, he said to handle the functions of the board adequately.

Recently Dr. Loren B. T. Johnson resigned from the board because the Commissioners failed to propose legislation which would provide funds to carry on the board's work. At the time of his resignation, he said the board was carrying on a "useless and probably harmful task," because of the lack of funds.

Mr. Bride also asked that the board be separated from the penal institutions.

"Under the present set-up, employes of the board are on the pay roll of the penal houses and necessarily are subservient to officials of the institution," he said. "This does not make for the independence of action which the board feels is necessary."

Right at Home

Man Chalks Up Visit No. 73 in Police Court.

Irving Thomas Flaherty yesterday celebrated his twentieth anniversary of strict law "observance" by his seventy-third appearance in Police Court.

Brought before Judge Isaac R. Hitt on a vagrancy charge, he was asked:

"Ever been here before?"

"A coupla days ago, your honor."

"Ever before that?"

"A coupla times, I guess."

"Hm," said Judge Hitt, scanning two closely typewritten pages handed him by a court attendant. "The record says that you have been here 73 times."

"I guess that's right, judge."

Flaherty was ordered to post a vagrancy bond of $500 or spend five months in jail.

The record was begun in April, 1914, and convictions in the interim have resulted in more than $1,000 in fines being assessed. Most of the fines were expiated in jail. More than half the time between 1914 and the present time has been spent in jail.

Hatchet Buried As Long, Clark End Word War

Savage Remarks Taken From Record; Kingfish Looks Surprised.

(Associated Press.)

Huey Long and one of the Senate Democrats with whom he has warred on the Senate floor yesterday buried under a thin covering of repentance the verbal hatchets with which they chopped each other in public Thursday.

The two intraparty feudists, Long and Clark, of Missouri, agreed that they used language and charges in their window-shaking debate Thursday that did not befit Senate rules and they asked that such portions of their remarks as violated those regulations be expunged from the record.

This development, coming at the opening of yesterday's session, was contrary to what had been anticipated. Clark Thursday served notice he would reply to Long's attack on the Democratic leadership and the galleries leaned forward expectantly when the Missourian rose to his feet. But——

Long Looks "Surprised."

"Upon reflection," Clark said, while Long looked surprised, "I realize I made remarks which were infractions of the rules of the Senate. Having these facts in mind, I ask unanimous consent that my remarks and those of the Senator from Louisiana be stricken from the record."

"I was not prepared," said Long, as he rose slowly, "for the statement my friend from Missouri has just made. It comes rather suddenly.

"I desire to assure the Senator from Missouri that I go a great deal more than half way to meet him and that I fully reciprocate his attitude.

"I desire to say further that while I have not looked over the record very carefully, if anything I said is in violation of section 2 of rule 19 I should like to have the same unanimous consent to eliminate it from the record. I ask that consent."

Long sat down, Clark leaned back in his chair and Vice President Garner said, "There being no objection heard, the motion is carried."

The rule says: "No Senator, in debate, shall, directly or indirectly, by any form of words impute to another Senator or to other Senators any conduct or motive unworthy or unbecoming a Senator."

The Congressional Record appearing yesterday morning, put into the hands of the Congress members and mailed throughout the country, carried a dozen solid pages of the argument, featuring the sharp-tongued comment of Long and Clark. Expunging it from the record will be hardly more than a formality, since the remarks can be erased only from the permanent, bound record volumes.

Louisianan Is Tired.

Long, who in the two previous days of the Senate Finance Committee hearing on his opposition to the confirmation of D. D. Moore as collector of internal revenue in Louisiana dashed into the testimony with vigorous words and fiery manner, displayed a tired mien in his two hours yesterday.

Had not some of the testimony served to shed light on the more personal feelings and conversations of Long and his Louisiana political foes, the packed hearing room would have been disappointed.

Former Gov. John M. Parker of Louisiana, called to the stand by counsel for Moore as a character witness, had such a lively exchange of personal comment with Long that Chairman Harrison felt moved to say:

"I suppose the committee would take cognizance of the fact that they both don't like each other."

Edward Rightor, Moore counsel, led the gray-haired, wiry 72-year-old former governor into his testimony by saying:

"Now, Governor, just identify yourself for the committee, with the limitations a becoming modesty places upon you."

Parker, it developed, had in 55 years of his public and business career, been nominated for the Vice Presidency on the Progressive ticket with Theodore Roosevelt, been governor of Louisiana, a Federal food administrator and president of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange.

Gets Titles Mixed.

As he talked, Parker, in a room full of colonels, inadvertently termed Long "Col. Long."

"Col. Long?" Harrison queried suddenly, removing his cigar with an air of astonishment.

"Senator," corrected Parker.

Parker, after testifying he knew nothing detrimental to the character of Moore, found himself involved in a review of the political history of Long in Louisiana.

The two skipped around through Louisiana political happenings until they came to another incident, an early meeting of the two—Long asked Parker if he recalled this.

"Surely, I recall it," Parker said. "You told me you wouldn't vote for any living man who wouldn't make pledges and promises to you, and I told you I'd be damned if I would."

retary of War Dern told guests at the annual dinner of the Military Order of the World War that the American Army is "maintained for defensive purposes only."

The Secretary urged the group, which each year sponsors the celebration, to keep working for peace, adding, "Let us not forget that we are living still among human beings with all their passions and imperfections."

Urges Best Defense.

"I also believe," Secretary Dern declared, "that the quality of our limited defensive establishment should be at least as modern and efficient as any other in the world."

In the reviewing stand at Constitution avenue were Secretary Dern, high ranking Army, Navy and Marine officers, and military attaches from several legations.

President Roosevelt, who was Assistant Secretary of the Navy when America declared war, wired from his fishing trip that the celebration indicated the gratitude of the Nation for the Army's splendid service.

When the roll of drums started the procession at 1:30 p. m. at the Peace Monument it found two Confederate soldiers as well as several from the Union Army riding in its long line. The men in gray were Gen. Homer Atkinson, of Petersburg, Va., commander in chief of the United Confederate Veterans, and Gen. William McK. Evans, of Richmond, Va.

Make-Up of March.

Shortly before the parade reached the reviewing stand, Secretary Dern, in a brief address, outlined the history of Army Day and paid tribute to the organization which sponsors it.

First to turn past the reviewing stand was Maj. Gen. Malone. He rode on the heels of the official police car and a vanguard of motorcycle policemen.

Then came the first division, led by Brig. Gen. Perry L. Miles. It was composed of cavalry and field artillery units from Fort Myer, infantry and machine gunners from Fort Washington, tank corps units from Fort Meade, and small units of sailors, marines and Coast Guardsmen.

Other Reviewers.

The second division was of National Guardsmen and Organized Reserves headed by Col. John W. Oehman. Then followed high school cadets and Reserve Officers Training Corps members led by Capt. Thomas Holmes. Brig. Gen. William E. Horton headed the last group of patriotic and veterans organizations.

With Secretary Dern in the reviewing stand were Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Ickes, Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Woodring, Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, chief of staff; Admiral William H. Standley, chief of Naval operations; Maj. Gen. John H. Russell, Marine Corps commandant, and Rear Admiral Harry G. Hamlet, Coast Guard commandant.

Bands were scattered throughout the line of march. Music from the Marine Band, the Cavalry Band of Fort Myer, the two high school cadet bands and the Washington Gaslight Co. Band were augmented by American Legion and other veterans' drum and bugle corps.

Wareham, Mass. (U.P.).—Voters of this town have appropriated $100 to finance a clam farming experiment.

In view of the opinions of shell fishermen that clams can be grown commercially, as are quahaugs and oysters here, instead of depending on nature to supply them, citizens voted the money to buy two acres of salt marsh for use as an experiment station.

Hopkins Maps "White-Collar" Aid Program

Need of Class Increased, Survey Shows; Jobs to Be Sought.

An intensive effort to provide emergency jobs for white-collar workers will be made through the new Emergency Work Administration, Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, said yesterday.

Recognizing the plight of the jobless white-collar workers as one of the most serious problems confronting his organization, Hopkins revealed he is planning a specialized organization to interview such workers and to attempt to find suitable relief for them.

He stipulated, however, that whatever aid is extended will be strictly on the basis of need.

"We've got to find something for these people to do," Hopkins declared. "We want to put such persons to work on jobs they are fitted for, and not assign them to work utterly foreign."

Hopkins suggested that perhaps specialized offices could be established in relief centers where professionatl persons could act as interviewers and advisers to find out what work applicants for aid could do best. He pointed out large numbers of white collar workers are finding their way to the relief rolls, and that thousands were employed by the Civil Works Administration.

Hopkins asserted that the longer the depression lasts the more higher type workers are forced to relief.

What the new emergency work program and the white-collar aid will cost has not yet been determined, Hopkins said. He released figures yesterday showing that the Federal Government granted $49,503,000 for relief work in the Nation during March. From May 23, 1933, through March, 1934, the figures showed, $447,315,000 was granted. In the latter period, $1,647,174 was advanced to the District.

The report also showed that families receiving relief in the District increased from 6,965 in January to 11,543 in February.

Colored Groups Seek Recognition

Share in Administrative Posts of City Urged. . .

An appeal on behalf of colored organizations was made to the District Commissioners yesterday for the purpose of having colored persons appointed to administrative posts in the District government.

A delegation asked that colored persons be given administrative posts with the emergency works program, with the Emergency Relief Administration to handle work programs in colored sections and that a colored administrative assistant be appointed as aid to Capt. Howard F. Clark.

The delegation, headed by Campbell C. Johnson, representing the Federation of Civic Associations and other colored groups, requested that an equal proportion of white-collar jobs be given to colored persons in the EWA.

Alert and poised, we are about to take off. But, seriously, when would the President suggest that we arrive? We want to see you. How about a rendez vous at sea Saturday or Sunday?

Waives Immunity.

Replying in similar vein, the President took up the offer and immediately set about catching the fish he is to exhibit as refutation of his son's charges. His messages, addressed to Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre, "for White House correspondents," read:

Your generous, unselfish suggestion received with pleasure. Because of anticipated shifting position believe most convenient we meet Monday noon, vicinity Cat Kay. Will wire Sunday exact position. Trust you can make arrangements safe arrival and return Monday afternoon. Fishing data on hand. Witnesses will waive immunity. Regards to all.

University Has Jobs, No Students for Them

Philadelphia (U.P.).—The University of Pennsylvania is in the unique position of having more jobs than undergraduates to fill them.

The department of student aid reported recently that although there is a shortage of work for women students, it has 147 positions for men still unfilled.

The jobs include research into causes of bank failures, translation of Polish journals, painting outdoor signs, typing statistics, X-ray research work, cataloguing the trophy collection, numbering the stadium seats and raising animals for experimental work.

Hollywood Diet Gets Blame for Breakdowns

Ithaca, N. Y. (U.P.).—The much-publicized "Hollywood diet" was responsible for many nervous breakdowns among women who wanted to reduce, according to Mrs. Ruth Bennett White, of the New York State College of Home Economics.

The best diet for any purpose, she said, is the standard diet, modified in quantity for the thin person who wants to gain, for the fat person who wants to lose, or the sick person who wants to get well.

Any diet should not reduce calories to less than 1,400 a day, she said. The Hollywood diet, she pointed out, provided for as little as 500 to 800 calories a day.

84 Women Admitted To Oregon State Bar

Salem, Oreg. (U.P.). — Eighy-four women have been admitted to the bar to practice law in Oregon since 1885, records of the supreme court show.

The Legislature of 1885 passed a law admitting women to the bar, although suffrage was not granted until many years later. Mrs. Mary Leonard passed the bar examinations in 1886, first of her sex to do so. Four women passed the last examinations.

Senate, House Committees Hear Big Companies' Methods Scored.

ated a new class of stock, which Doherty bought out of his profits. He declared that as a result of these transactions, Doherty made a huge profit from the sale of stock and completed the coup by controlling a higher percentage of the company than ever.

Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the Banking Committee, disclosed during the course of Healy's testimony that he had intended at the beginning of his activities with the committee to make an investigation into Cities Service, but that he feared such an investigation would result in serious consequences to the National economic structure.

The Splawn report to the House committee was made in connection with that committee's consideration of the Rayburn bill creating a Federal communications commission. Splawn is now a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Hearings on the bill will open Tuesday.

Recommends Enactment.

The report recommended enactment of the bill and strict Federal control over wire and radio company officials' salaries, as well as over holding companies.

Splawn pointed out particularly that the holding company "has been found as a result of this investigation to be as prolfic of abuses in the field of communications as in other utilities already studied."

"The American Telephone & Telegraph Co.," he said, "which is both a holding and an operating company, is more powerful and skillful than any State government with which it has to deal."

Splawn declared a regulatory bill will fall short of being effective if it does not limit the use of the holding company to what is absolutely essential, and if it does not regulate holding companies in the same manner as it regulates operating companies.

The first step, Splawn recommended, should be an investigation of the Bell telephone properties. He estimated such an investigation would take a year and would cost from $500,000 to $1,000,000. The average per capita contribution to telephone service in the United States in 1932 was $7.93, Splawn said. He said the American people "are entitled to know whether they are being overcharged."

"This report shows a very liberal scale of salaries for the officials of the A. T. & T.," he continued. "The generosity with which the management rewards itself, the importance of the industry, and the magnitude of its operations call for actual and not nominal regulation."

High A. T. & T. Salaries.

A. T. & T. salaries were listed by Splawn as follows: W. S. Gifford, president, $206,250 salary, and $5,920 in director's fees and other compensations; C. P. Cooper, vice president, $74,250 and $4,160; C. M. Brecelen, vice president, $61,875 and $360; B. Gherardi, vice president, $61,875 and $320; A. W. Page, vice president, $49,500 and $1,470; F. B. Jewett, vice president, $45,000; E. F. Carter, vice president, $41,250; K. W. Waterson, assistant vice president, $41,250; C. A. Heiss, comptroller, $41,250; E. S. Wilson, vice president, $33,000; G. E. Folk, attorney, $33,000, and H. P. Charlesworth, assistant chief engineer, $32,083.

The report said 104 other officers receive between $10,000 and $30,000 a year.

"During the years 1923, 1925 and 1930 the A. T. & T. issued $375,000,000 in debentures, of which $225,000,000 were sold to J. P. Morgan & Co. and associates, and $150,000,000 to J. P. Morgan & Co. as underwriters. On these transactions the discount amounted to $21,125,000."

The report declared that the Associated Telephone Utilities Co. of Delaware, not a Bell property, made dividend payments in 1931 that caused a deficit in earned surplus that year. The report said that this company's investment and income accounts "were greatly overstated."

Splawn expressed the opinion that telegraph by wireless or radio would likely be consolidated with the wire companies if Congress would permit.

Splawn also said that "some of the big companies are very much interested in being permitted to consolidate with other corporations." He added that "back of the immediate urge for consolidation are the financial difficulties of the Postal Telegraph Co."

Would Be Rid of Deficits.

The International Telephone & Telegraph Co., Splawn said, is "anxious to be rid of the deficits being accumulated by Postal," adding, however, that the Western Union Telegraph Co. "does not appear to be particularly interested."

Discussing the proposed telegraph merger, Splawn said "it is perhaps true that the Western Union could immediately take over all the business of the Postal without adding appreciably to the number of its employes—that is, employes in the service of the Postal could be spared without any noticeable impairment in the service.

"Such a proposal, however, is contrary to the spirit of the times. If such a consolidation were to be authorized, Congress would no doubt take measures to protect the present employes of existing telegraph companies against summary and arbitrary dismissal."

3 Bureaus Act To Strengthen Utilities Curb

Trade, Power Commissions and NRA to Enforce U. S. Position.

(Associated Press.)

The Administration moved along three fronts yesterday to bring public utilities under stricter Governmental supervision, although no Congressional action was expected at this session. The movements were:

The Trade Commission set about preparing its report for Congress, recommending drastic legislation for Congress at its next session.

The Power Commission, already moving to regulate more closely the Construction of power dams, was preparing, under Congressional authorization, to investigate rates charged the public by the utilities.

NRA, at work for several weeks on a code for the utilities industry, was seeking to eradicate controver- with municipal.

sial points involving competition with municipal plants.

Trade Commission Officials, meanwhile, arranged for hearings next week into propaganda activities of several companies, including Associated Gas & Electric Co., about which testimony was given last week linking it with political activities of State Senator W. T. Thayer, of New York.

Work on the commission's report, the product of more than five years' inquiry, has disclosed capital stock write-ups of more than $1,250,000,000 by public utility companies. These write-ups were said to have the effect of increasing rates, since the utility companies were permitted to make a certain percentage return on their capital, and the larger the capital, the larger the return.

Some officials said the commission'ns investigation had already saved the public hundreds of millions of dollars by causing companies under investigation to cut rates.

farm, struck, demanding 30 cents an hour for men and 25 cents for women.

Employes' representatives of the Nation's largest steel companies told the Senate Labor Committee they opposed passage of the Wagner bill and denied they were influenced by their employers.

Congressional leaders have decided to put directly up to President Roosevelt the question of 30-hour week legislation this session.

Solution Considered Vital.

It is known that the Administration looks upon successful solution of labor problems as one of the most important steps now necessary in the recovery program. The recent automobile, mine and railroad controversies were looked upon as constituting a major crisis in the affairs of the country. Officials are plainly worried over indications that they are not permanently settled.

The automobile settlement, which was intended to be a pattern for all employers and employes, is now being put to the test. The general policy of the Administration is to work toward still shorter hours and higher wages in industry, but there will be no blanket arrangement of this kind, the steps to be taken according to conditions within individual industries.

Pleased by Wage Raises.

NRA officials have been heartened considerably by the recent announcements of wage increases in various industries, but they have been somewhat disappointed that these increases were not accompanied by corresponding shortening of hours so that employment may be spread.

One of the purposes of the 30-hour week bill is to bring about the results desired by the Administration, but it is doubtful whether the President will push its passage. It is feared that such a blanket provision would lead to serious hardship and large financial losses in some industries. The inclination of the Administration now is to let the industries themselves work out these problems as far as possible.

Chairman William P. Connery, jr., of the House Labor Committee, said the question of whether he would press for adoption of the 30-hour bill would depend on the President's attitude. He estimates the measure would return 3,000,000 persons to work.

Unions Called Rackets.

Appearing for steel workers before the Senate committee on the Wagner bill, John Madden, Wierton Steel Co. employe, declared, according to the Associated Press, that "the coercion is coming from a handful of Amalgamated (Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Plate Workers) men who are trying to get members by calling at the homes of workers and scaring their women so the men will join the union to protect their homes and families.

"The Amalgamated Association is a racket," he said. "The American Federation of Labor is a racket; the United Mine Workers is a racket. In fact, they are all racketeers, preying on the poor laboring man, who is a sucker, for their living."

Another witness, William Conn, also representing Weirton workers, said the National Labor Board is "dominated by the American Federation of Labor."

No Confidence in Board.

The existing board, he said, "doesn't inspire confidence on the part of those who know what treatment was accorded our men when they appeared before it last December."

"If the money were taken out of the organizing game," he said, "Weirton would soon return to its former status of a busy industrial community where peace and harmony reign."

The individual is completely lost sight of, he said, under the Wagner bill.

"The only difference in our organization," he said, "as we see it, is the fact that we strive for our ends by peaceful settlement and cooperation, whereas the American Federation of Labor strives to accomplish its ends by everlasting threat of strikes."

Judge Refuses Stay Of NRA Injunction

New York, April 6 (AP).—Federal Judge John C. Knox today refused to extend the 10-day stay of his pending order which would restrain the Spotless Dollar Cleaners from violating the NRA dyers and cleaners code.

Attorneys for the cleaning firm asked that a stay of the injunction be granted pending an appeal before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Judge Knox ruled that since an appeal would not likely be heard before the middle of summer, such a stay would mean "the injunction is going to fail."

He advised counsel to prepare papers for presentation to the Circuit Court next Monday.

'Father of Oregon's' Citizen Papers Found

Oregon City, Oreg. (U.P.).—Naturalization papers of Dr. John McLoughlin, "Father of Oregon," were discovered in vaults of the county recorder's office here.

Dr. McLoughlin, factor of the British Hudson Bay Fur Co., befriended American settlers in Oregon in early days. When the fur post was discontinued, after Oregon was ceded to the United States, Dr. McLoughlin remained and took a farm.

The naturalization papers were issued by the Second District Court of Oregon Territory, September 5, 1851.

Private Hospitals Urged For Emergency Cases

Salt Lake City, Utah (U.P.).—Curtailment of city emergency hospitals, followed by an educational campaign to promote public good will toward private hospitals, was advocated by Dr. William T. Ward before the conference of the American College of Surgeons here.

"Under the present system taxpayers' money is wasted providing emergency services private hospitals are well equipped to handle," Dr. Ward said.

rant in New York's German colony, a group of German agents laying plans for exploding a loaded barge alongside the Jersey City munitions terminal.

A German agent told Larkin, the paper says, of having "direct orders from Berlin" to stop the shipment of heavy gun ammunition and TNT.

German agents took him to the Hoboken waterfront, Larkin is quoted, and showed him a liquid explosive called "Feuerwasser" and which could be carried in little bottles like scent.

Larkin asserts that the Germans offered him $200 a week if he would take part in sabotage operations. Though he was living the hand-to-mouth life of a radical in wartime, Larkin "told Boy-Ed that I would have nothing to do with such matters," he said.

During the war a Capt. Karl Boy-Ed, German naval attache at Washington, was suspected of espionage and expelled from the country. He is now dead.

High Germans Named.

The World-Telegram said Larkin named a score or more of well-known Germans, some now in high positions in Germany, as directing sabotage operations here. He said that though the Irish revolutionists had "an understanding" with the German agent they took no part in sabotage.

For 17 years, investigators for several nations have been trying to fix responsibility for the explosion. Larkin was among those accused.

Larkin was deported after Gov. Alfred E. Smith pardoned him when he had served two years in Sing Sing Prison for criminal anarchy. In the war years and later, he was active first in Socialist, then in Communist circles.

The Irish labor leader's affidavit was obtained, the World Telegram says, by Casimiar P. Palmer, a former agent of the British Intelligence Service in the United States.

A rough giant of a man, Larkin is now Secretary of the Irish Workers Union in Dublin.

Fraud Allegations Basis of Petition

Decision of the American Government to reopen the investigation into Germanys alleged responsibility for the "Black Tom" explosion was based upon allegations of fraud in preparation of German testimony, it was revealed yesterday.

The fraud was alleged to have been committed by the German agent of the Mixed Claims Commission. The decision to reopen the case was made even before the affidavit attributed to James Larkin, Irish labor agitator, was filed, it was explained here.

The allegations, it was understood originally were raised by representatives of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Co. and the Canadian Car & Foundry Co., the chief material sufferers in the explosion.

The Mixed Claims Commission twice previously had investigated but never fixed responsibility upon Germany for the explosion.

The present Mixed Claims Commission comprises U. S. Supreme Court Justice Owen D. Roberts, umpire; Chandler P. Anderson, American commissioner, and Dr. E. W. Meyer, of the German Embassy, German commissioner. The commission is without funds to continue its activities, the last appropriation having expired on December 31.

Harold H. Martin, assistant to the American agent on the Mixed Claims Commission, said, "Our petition was based on allegations that certain witnesses had furnished fraudulent information and that we have now new proof to show the previous evidence presented to the commission was erroneous."

Martin said the commission had not been advised whether the German government intended to present evidence to discount the new allegations.

ing to submit to the ministrations of nurses.

Whereas officers of the Roma declared she was in a state of intense mental depression during the voyage here, Dr. Borelli said tonight "hardly anything remains of yesterday's mood" when, the director asserted, she insisted "I will do it again at the first opportunity."

"She will need careful watching during the next several weeks," the doctor added, "and ought to be looked after even after she has been discharged."

Dr. Borelli refused everyone permission to see her, except attendants, because "her recovery depends on absolute quiet."

Since yesterday, he said, "her general state and even her humor apparently are better.

"Last night she said she would repeat the suicide attempt at the first opportunity, but today she hasn't spoken of suicidal intentions.

"However, it may be she is simulating indifference."

He said no one would be allowed to see her except the American consul, John R. Putnam, who will call tomorrow.

Dr. Borelli diagnosed the mental state of the patient as one of deep melancholy and acute sadness. Several relatives, he said, had cabled from the United States.

delegation of their number was appearing before the council, and fists flew. A coal truck was stopped, its load seized and used as missiles. A policeman fell. Blood spurted from his ear, reddening the sidewalk as the thousands screamed and milled about. Traffic in the vicinity was paralyzed.

Windows crashed in the mayor's office, and throughout the City Hall on the first floor, maddened at the sight of blood and with officers beating on their skulls with night sticks, the throng ransacked automobiles in a nearby parking lot. Anything at hand was seized and the air was filled with missiles.

Bombs Hurled Back.

Amid the screech of approaching ambulances and the fire department, police hurled tear gas bombs. Rioters snatched them up and flung them back. Juvenile and municipal courts were closed as the fumes spread through the building. Telephone girls stuck to their posts with tears streaming down their faces. The mob howled and fought.

Fire Chief Earl Traeger refused to turn water on them, fearing they would wreck the equipment.

"They might wreck civilization if you let them continue," Municipal Judge Paul S. Carroll replied. No water was used. Several firemen were treated roughly when they tried to connect hose lines to hydrants.

The second disorder started when leaders learned the mob's delegation, appearing before the city council to present its grievances, had been thrown in jail.

Alleged Leader Held.

"The double-crossers. The dirty double-crossers," was yelled from all sides and the throng pressed forward. They had jeered an unidentified man who suggested they sing "America."

A solid line of policemen met their thrust. Fists were swung, nightsticks wielded and missiles thrown. But almost as quickly as it began the second outbreak was put down. An hour later most of the rioters had disappeared.

The mob, police said, was led by S. K. Davis, known to them as a professional agitator, one of those under arrest.

Fifty Jobless Men, Women Fight Police

Scranton, Pa., April 6 (AP).—Fifty unemployed men and women fought with police and detectives today in Scranton's City Hall.

An argument concerning an appointment to see Mayor Stanley J. Davis precipitated the disorder. Ten policemen and detectives went into action against the crowd and a number of arrests were made before quiet was restored.

Members of the crowd went to city hall, police said, to complain about the action of several patrolmen during a recent unemployed protest march.

from four States and two foreign countries.

Announcement of her selection came as a surprise to many Virginians. Their surprise, however, was mixed with pride that after four years fete officials had returned to Old Dominion for their sovereign. The last Virginian to occupy the blossom throne was Miss Suzanne Pollard, now Mrs. Herbert Lee Boatwright, jr., of Washington, a daughter of former Gov. John Garland Pollard, queen of the 1930 fete.

Mrs. Whitney, member of the socially prominent Altemus family, of Philadelphia, has been a resident of Virginia since 1930. In that year she married Mr. Whitney, known in sporting circles as "Jock," who presented his bride with the Llangollen estate, near Upperville.

At Llangollen, where 2,300 acres of fine bluegrass at the foot of the Blue Ridge Mountains offer abundant opportunity for fine horse production, Mrs. Whitney has raised stock which have carved a personal niche for her in the equine world. Thoroughbreds and hunters under Mrs. Whitney's colors have not only shown on every major race track of the Eastern United States, but also on the gruelling course of the English Grand National at Aintree and on all horse show circuits of Virginia and nearby States.

Llangollen has equally been famous since the Whitney tenure as the scene of social affairs of national flavor. One of the outstanding events at Llangollen, an annual affair, is the Llangollen steeplechase meet each fall.

Mrs. Whitney will be crowned Queen Shenandoah XI on the first day of the fete, when she will be officially raised to the throne which was occupied last year by Miss Francoise May, daughter of the Belgian Ambassador to the United States and Mrs. Paul May, of Washington. She will be widely feted during her two days' reign, the festivities to be brought to a conclusion the second night of the fete with the queen's ball at Shenandoah Valley Academy here.

40-Hour Week Ruled for Navy Yard Employes

42,600 Workers Are Affected by Decision of Cummings.

Washington Navy Yard employes will go on a 40-hour five-day week at once as result of a ruling by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, it was learned yesterday.

The ruling affects about 42,600 workers in the United States and its territories, and 6,300 workers in the Navy Yark here. Special classes of workers will continue to work four hours on Saturdays temporarily here, but this practice will be discontinued as soon as possible.

Navy yards have been working an average of a 44-hour week, taking off Sundays and alternate Mondays. The ruling of the Attorney General, it was learned yesterday, does not apply to technical and professional employes.

The interpretation of the so-called Thomas amendment, attached to the independent offices bill, brought up the question of the 40-hour week. Doubt arose at that time whether the Thomas amendment, which approved the 40-hour week for Navy Yard employes, with 48-hour pay, could become effective until July 1, when the new fiscal year begins.

The five-day week is in conformance with their wishes to harmonize official ship building as nearly as possible wth private yards, which operate under NRA codes, Navy officials said yesterday.

At the Navy Yard here it was explained that the men who will work four hours each Saturday temorarily are clerks, draftsmen and messengers.

Optometrists Meet Here Tomorrow

Strides in Restoration of Sight to Be Told.

Restoration of sight to hitherto hopelessly blind persons is one of the recent accomplishments of optometry, to be explained at the congress of the Middle Atlantic States division of the American Optometric Association, tomorrow and Monday at the Raleigh Hotel.

Experts in correction of subnormal vision, including Dr. William Feinbloom, of New York; Dr. John C. Neill, of Philadelphia, and Dr. E. Le Roy Ryer, of New York, will describe latest developments.

The congress will convene at 2 p. m. The division dinner will be held at 6 p. m. Among the speakers will be Dr. John W. Jarvis, regional director; Dr. Thomas McBurnie, president of the American Optometric Association; Mark Plavnick and presidents of the member State associations.

Schoolchildren Get Baked Food

Mrs. Roosevelt's Criticism Changes Lunch Menu.

Baked food will be included in the meals of free school lunches beginning Monday, it was announced yesterday.

Lack of the baked food was criticized by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt when she visited the central kitchen Easter Monday. As there are no facilities at the central kitchen for baking, Earl E. Harrington, restauranter, will have charge of this cooking.

A third of the children entitled to the free lunches will be served each day. The baked food will be sent to the central kitchen by Mr. Harrington and distributed from that point. Lunches served yesterday totaled more than 5,300.

Dental Diagnosis Set For Store's Employes

Washington's first diagnostic dental clinic will open today under the management and auspices of the District Dental Society, in the Palais Royal.

The clinic is the second of its kind in the United States, and Dr. Henry A. Swanson, former president of the society, will outline its plans at 8:30 a. m.

The institution is strictly a health measure to improve the condition of employes with tooth troubles.

Have you started your spring housecleaning? You will find many odd pieces of furniture, rugs and bric-a-brac that can be quickly sold with Post Classified Ads. Just phone National 4205.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Ductless Glands and Personality.

In a book entitled "What We Are and Why" Dr. L. H. Mayers presents the theory that the contagious diseases of childhood have great influence on success and happiness in maturity. He includes all of the group in his charge, but he places emphasis upon mumps. Rapidity of succession, such as chicken pox, diphtheria and mumps in a single winter, or some other combination within a few months, increases the effect. A considerable amount of fever, and especially complications of the diseases, are important factors in the bodily changes they produce.

It seems a far cry from a rather unimportant disease occurring early in life, and located in some region distant from the brain, to the changes in personality, behavior and mentality, running through later life, and which Dr. Mayers holds are caused by the childhood diseases. How is the gap bridged?

That is accomplished by the ductless glands. The toxemias of the early contagions affect the cells of the ductless glands and these in turn affert all parts of the body. If they affect the pituitary there may be alterations in the growth pattern, resulting in giantism or dwarfism. Pituitary headaches may be one result and obesity another. If they affect the thyroid there may be myxedema or cretinism, on the one hand, or some form of goiter on the other.

However, Dr. Mayers especially emphasizes changes in personality, behavior, and attitudes due to the effects of mumps and, in lesser measure, other contagious diseases on the gonads of both males and females. We read: "The ductless glands create every personality. Emotion grows and develops under glandular regulation and functions under the same direction." He especially emphasizes infantilism, an arrest of emotional development, at a stage short of full maturity. This defect is largely responsible for exhibitionism and unreasonable desire for the spotlight. The men who wear broad brimmed hats fancy vests, or diamond cravat pins, or who affect long hair, go bareheaded, or trim their whiskers in a way to attract attention are the subjects of infantilism. It is Dr. Mayers' theory that they become abnormal because of the contagions of childhood.

The poser may do little harm. He may influence a few unthinking people, but that is his nuisance limit. Dr. Mayers contends that many of our school teachers, both male and female, from college presidents down, are misfits as trainers of boys and girls because of the same disorders. Their infantilism made them so they could not understand or really fraternize with boys and girls, nor even with people of their own age. But it did not affect their studiousness nor their mental ability. By making them less social it made them better students. This capacity, in turn, often leads to school teaching, lecturing, and managing institutions of learning.

Gall Bladder Symptoms.

L. B. W. writes: I have trouble with my gall bladder, but I do not have stones. I have gas all the time and headaches. Could this be caused by gall bladder trouble?

REPLY.

Many people with infected gall bladders get along with very few symptoms so long as they live properly. The diet that suits most of them contains no condiments, sauces, or pepper, and no alcoholic beverages. It is low in fats and oils, eggs, meats, stuffings, dressings, and rich foods. It is composed principally of fruits, vegetables, breads, cereals, and milk. Meat once daily generally suffices. There are to be no heavy meals. Most of them eat no supper or a very light one. Constipation is not allowed. Infected gall bladder may be a cause of headache.

Catarrh.

R. H. writes: Just what is catarrh?

REPLY.

Catarrh is an old and loosely used word now almost obsolete. It included chronic infected sinuses, chronic infections of the nose, nasal polyps, and ozena.

Pimples.

B. H. writes: Please tell me what to do for pimples. Lately my face broke out. People tell me what to do to prevent them, but none say how I can get rid of them.

REPLY.

I have a booklet on pimples which you can get by sending ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BLACKIE BEAR

By D. SAM COX

Blackie Sidesteps Trouble

ONE night when Jay Bird was sitting on Blackie's step, telling about where all he had been that day, Blackie asked him if he had ever seen any wild turkeys when he went away up the creek. Jay Bird told him that he had that very day seen a whole drove of them near an old thrown-away goat house away over the other side of Bob White's house. He said he saw them down on the ground eating acorns and berries, and he didn't think Blackie would have much trouble in catching one. Blackie was mighty glad to hear about the turkeys, and so next morning pretty soon after breakfast he galloped off towards the old goat house.

He hadn't gone very far before it began to rain, and he stopped for a minute and thought he would go back home. Then he said to himself: "No, I won't go back. I started out to get a turkey, and I am going to have one if there are any in the woods." So he kept on, but by the time he got to the old goat house he was awfully wet and tired, and, as he didn't see anything of the turkeys, he thought he would go into the goat house out of the rain and rest for a while.

There was a lot of nice, dry straw and leaves on the floor of the house, and so Blackie laid down for a little nap. He was soon asleep, and he slept a good long time. After a while, he rolled over and stretched, and listened to see if it had stopped raining. He didn't hear any rain, but he heard something that was a lot worse. He heard two voices just outside the door, and they were talking almost in a whisper. Blackie listened hard to hear what they were saying and this is what he heard:

"I tell you, Ram Sheep, it was Blackie Bear. When I put my head in the door I saw him lying there fast asleep." Then the other voice said:

"All right, Billie Goat, if you are sure it is Blackie Bear, we will certainly get us one good bear skin. And, while I don't think much of bear meat, we could make soup of one of his hind quarters, and I guess I might worry a little of that down. So you run home and get your knife and pot, and while Blackie is asleep I will get up some wood, and start a fire to cook him. Now, hurry, before he wakes."

Then Ram Sheep went out back of the goat house to try to find some dry wood to make a fire with. That was Blackie's chance, and he didn't miss it. He tip-toed to the door and peeped out. Billie Goat was clear out of sight, and Ram Sheep was behind the house and couldn't see him. So Blackie trotted out, and kept out of sight till he got to the edge of the creek, and then he climbed up in a big tree and watched to see what was going to happen.

Wirt to Name Brain Trust's 'Reds' Tuesday

Accepts "Invitation" of House Probers to Testify.

Dr. William A. Wirt, of Gary, Ind., yesterday notified the special House investigating committee that he would appear before it Tuesday, ready to be questioned on the identity of the "brain trust" members he says are plotting to overthrow the Government, and to tell of conversations with these members.

Wirt's acceptance of the committee's demand that he appear came as the members were discussing ways and means of forcing his appearance. When first asked to appear, Dr. Wirt requested that he be given ten days to prepare his testimony. In answer to a second telegram, Mrs. Wirt told the committee her husband was out of town.

The final message from the Indiana educator said:

"Accept telegram April 5 as service subpena for hearing as a witness before select committee, House of Representatives. Will be present at committee rooms, 10 a. m., April 10."

Relieves Committee.

Members of the committee were plainly relieved that Wirt finally had accepted their "invitation" without a struggle. Committee members and Representative Byrns, Tennessee, Democratic floor leader, had said that if Wirt failed to appear he would be cited for contempt of the House. Alfred L. Bulwinkle (Democrat), North Carolina, chairman of the investigating committee, said he had planned to delegate someone to serve Wirt directly with a subpena.

Under the rules adopted by the three Democratic members of the committee, over the opposition of the two Republican members, Wirt will be asked on the first day of the hearing to state only the names of the "brain trust" members with whom he talked and to repeat the conversations. The Republican members insist that he should be permitted to open his testimony with his own general statement.

Meanwhile, Representative Raymond J. Cannon (Democrat), Wisconsin, issued a statement in which he characterized the Wire investigation as "clownish."

Hits Useless Probes.

"All of this feverish excitement and hullabaloo on the part of Congress on the Wirt accusations is very disgusting to me," Cannon said. "There are altogether too many useless costly investigations which make laughing stock of the people's representatives in Congress."

Cannon charged that many of the investigations were publicity stunts.

"I am told that more than 200 pictures have been taken of members of a committee recently appointed to make an investigation," he said.

"Every time some clown from Kokomo or Schenectady, seeking publicity makes a remark that the country is going to the dogs or that communism begins under the dome of the Capitol, the wheels of Congress stop, notwithstanding the fact that 123,000,000 people anxiously wait for constructive action to relieve the poor, the suffering and the hungry of the Nation.

"How long does Congress think the American public will stand for such horseplay and clownish tactics?"

Academy Poll Shows Roosevelt Landslide

Wayne, Pa. (U.P.).—It's a bad year for the "outs," and apparently even George Washington and Abraham Lincoln together couldn't prevent Franklin D. Roosevelt's reelection, if he were running this fall.

In a poll of 300 students at Valley Forge Military Academy here, 202 voted for President Roosevelt, 44 for Washington and 43 for Lincoln. Mickey Mouse, a dark horse entry, was fourth, with 11 votes.

Asked to name the most important event in history, one student named repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and another "the day I was born." A brilliant youngster said he planned to be a lighthousekeeper, because "the future will always be so bright."

British Will Broadcast 5-Mile Parachute Leap

London (U.P.).—A British parachutist, John Tranum, is to broadcast his experiences over the radio while actually falling 5 miles from an airplane.

Some time this month Tranum will ascend over Southport Beach, near Liverpool, and jump out of the plane when it is 5 miles high. After pulling the ripcord of his parachute he will broadcast his impressions while falling at the rate of 20 miles an hour. A special amplifying microphone will be fitted inside his oxygen mask, and the running—or rather falling—commentary will be picked up by the wireless station at Moorside Edge and transmitted through a nation-wide hook-up.

One hundred American Indians will be taken to the 1935 international exposition in Brussels by Clarence Schultz, formerly of the 101 Ranch circus.

Wirt Finishes His Revelation On Radicalism

Stresses Importance of Foreign Exchange Stand of U. S.

"I am urging that we make a beginning in our National money-economy thinking by making our Nation aware of the importance of what happened on April 19, 1933.

With these words, Dr. William A. Wirt, who is to appear before a Congressional investigating committee next week, concludes today his 10,000 word memorandum, "America Must Lose."

Charges, contained in the memorandum, that members of the "brain trust" are fomenting an American revolution, will be inquired into by a special House committee.

The date to which Dr. Wirt, head of the Gary (Ind.) school system, referred throughout his pamphlet, is the one on which the United States ceased pegging the dollar in foreign exchange. This, the Indiana educator maintains, was the day of real American economic independence.

"Friends Failed Roosevelt."

"I wish to repeat," he says at the start of his concluding installment, "that the real friends of the President failed him. The friends of the 'New Deal' in Government established in America only a century ago deserted him. The so-called radical group is in reality the reactionary group who want to take us back to the Old Deal of the Middle Ages.

"Today the real movement in Washington is clear to anyone who will look. No better statements of the situation can probably be made than those that Gen. Johnson made at the recent code objectors' hearing: 'You hain't seen nothing yet!'

"I tell you that we are fighting a war. Billions in resources must be wasted and countless homes must be destroyed and millions of hearts must be broken because we are engaged in what is to him a glorious war! We are creating war heroes! The Blue Eagle propaganda was in charge of newly created generals, colonels and majors in every community. All hail the approach of the American Hitler in the offing!

"Awaiting Chance."

"Is our future American Hitler now in the limelight proclaiming that he is our dictator? No, indeed! He is now modest and democratic. He is watching the mob formation and saying to himself: 'They do not know that I am their leader. I will study their moods so that when the time is ripe I can catch their emotional fervor. Then they will ask me to be their leader. Thrice did the great Caesar refuse the crown.'

"War, too, is a part of the Dark Ages. Our failure to understand our money economy is the cause of our wars. Would it not be better for us if we established an additional independence day? We need an independence day that will enable us to celebrate annually our gaining independence from the depression caused by our failure to understand our money economy. Then we may learn to understand our money economy. Then we may be able to avoid war. Then we will not need dictators.

Debt Contract.

"Many sincere, able and well-meaning citizens would oppose celebrating April 19 as a second independence day. They say that this date was a day of shame. They say that on this day our Government repudiated its solemn obligations to pay its just obligations. They say that we should by all means forget this date rather than celebrate it.

"But our Government has not obligated itself to pay in 'gold dollars of the present weight and fineness.' Many private contracts have used this clause but our Government has not. The clause in the contract with our Government is to pay 'dollars of the present value.' That is something entirely different from 'present weight and fineness.' 'Present' can mean only the time of entering into the contract. 'Value' can mean only purchasing power. Therefore, what our Government has solemnly agreed to do is to pay dollars of the purchasing power that dollars had at the time of entering into the contract. That is exactly what our Government is doing.

"Our Constitution has always provided that Congress is to provide us with money 'and regulate the value thereof.' 'Value' can mean only purchasing power. Our Congress is supposed, therefore, to regulate the purchasing power of our money. Certainly our Constitutional Fathers did not expect Congress to regulate purchasing power by making it vary up and down as widely as possible. Certainly they meant 'regulate' to mean to keep as uniform as possible.

"Of course it is true that few people know these simple facts. But that does not alter the facts.

"Welcome Deflation."

"From January, 1933, to August, 1933, I had several conferences with the editor of one of the great newspapers of the country concerning the desirability of that paper's publishing prominently the fact concerning what happened on April 19 and during the four months following. At our final conference this editor said to me: 'Is it because they do not understand, or is it because they do not want to?'

"I very much fear that just as some people welcome a war because they expect to take advantage of the demoralization and destruction of war to make money for themselves, so some people welcome a terrible price deflation. They expect to get the equivalent of two dollars for one by robbing the masses.

"But what of the masses? Are they going on forever and suffer their misery in order that the gamblers may continue to make their great fortunes? No! Legitimate and reasonable fortunes and incomes will not be endangered by eliminating speculative stock control. But, if speculative stock control is not eliminated, 'emotional fervor' directed by the propaganda of our politicians may attempt to divide up the wealth, not only of the gamblers, but of everyone else. Guided only by 'emotional fervor' there may be only misery to divide. The masses need to be protected from themselves.

Urges a Beginning.

"For four years during this depression our masses were stunned by the very enormity of their misery. They were praying for someone to save them. They were willing to leave the matter with their supposed business leaders. Many times, however, I heard the following remark made by business leaders: 'If we do not do something about it, the man in the street will.'

"Well—the leaders did not do anything about it As a result, the man in the street is trying to do it with 'emotional fervor.' It is true that 'self-righteousness and emotional fervor are not stubstitutes for thought, and accordingly frequently lead to undesirable consequences.'

"It is also true that the self-righteousness and utterly selfish fervor of our business leaders often lead to 'undesirable consequences.'

"I do not want selfish fervor any more than I want 'emotional fervor.' I do want thought. I am urging that we make a beginning in our National money-economy thinking by making our Nation aware of the importance of what happened on April 19, 1933.

Administration Reduced Debt, Avers Rainey

771 Million Better Off Now Than End of Hoover's Term, He Asserts.

The Government is $771,000,000 better off now than it was at the end of the Hoover Administration, Speaker Rainey declared last night.

He arrived at this figure by offsetting the various relief expenditures with the Treasury's gain from devaluation of the dollar.

Speaking at the fourth annual Army Day dinner of the American Legion at Alexandria in the George Mason Hotel, the gray-haired Illinois Democrat also took occasion to answer Dr. William A. Wirt without mentioning his name.

There Is No Revolution.

"There is no revolution; there will be none," he said. "We are moving out of the depression, and we are moving surely toward the better times which are ahead of us."

Under the subhead in his typewritten address of "A New Method of Approaching the National Debt," the Speaker explained how he reached the deduction that the National debt has actually been reduced by the Roosevelt Administration.

"Attention is being called, apparently for partisan purposes, to the alleged enormous increase in our National debt," he said, "but the gross public debt of the United States increased in a little over a year of operations under the New Deal only $5,223,000,000.

"On March 31 our gross public debt amounted to $26,158,000,000, but we had in the Treasury at that time $2,008,000,0000. On February 28, 1933, when our National debt was $20,935,000,000, we had in cash in the Treasury only $221,000,000.

"Therefore, deducting from our gross public debt as of March 31, 1934, the amount of cash we had in the Treasury on that date, we are face to face with the fact that during the interval from February 28, 1933, to March 31, 1934, we have as a matter of fact, increased our public debt only $3,436,000,000.

Two Billion Increase.

"Under the new method of approaching the National debt, I might call attention to the fact that on February 28, 1933, our public debt, less the cash and securities the Federal Government controlled, amounted to $6,225,000,000. On March 31, 1934, our public debt, less cash and securities, amounted to only $8,264,000,000. It had increased $2,039,000,000, and this is all.

"But in giving these figures I am giving them to you exclusive of the $2,810,000,000 of increment on gold we have obtained by revaluating the gold dollar—a perfectly legitimate item to include in this estimate—and when you do include this item you reach the inevitable, startling conclusion, in view of all the unfavorable comment the Administration has received from partisan newspapers and magazines, that today our public debt, less cash and securities, is $771,000,000 less than it was at the end of the Hoover administration."

The figures, it is understood, were furnished to him by the Treasury Department.

Turning to social conditions, he asserted: "There is no room for Communism in the United States. There is no revolution in progress except the revolution which is leading us out of the slough of despondency toward better times.

"'The Good Old Days' will never come back again. After all, they were 'good' only for a few. Our capitalistic form of government is not in danger.

"All talk of a 'deliberately planned revolution,' preparing for a dictator, and Communism is silly and absurd, and the Congressional investigation on that subject which will soon start will fully demonstrate, I predict, in a short time the mean, partisan, unpartiotic motives which inspire statements of that character."

Zoo Nurses Rare Bird With Diet of Minnows

Philadelphia (U.P.).—Elton Horpel went skiing one morning, and found a bird lying in the snow. He took it home, where it thawed out and was identified by his high school biology teacher as a Holboell's Grebe, rare in these parts. The Grebe made himself at home, but refused to eat.

"We tried, him on milk toast, corn, and mother even made him some bran muffins," Horpel told his classmates. "I guess he must eat reindeer or something." After lengthy investigation it was learned that Holboell's Grebe eats nothing but minnows. The whole family turned out on a minnow hunt, without success, so the arctic visitor was turned over to the Philadelphia Zoo.

"They have minnows there all winter," Horpel said. "I could catch minnows for him in the summer time, but I'm afraid they won't let me have him back."

Radio Waves and Ripples

GUTTURAL explosions and muffled cheers were heard yesterday behind closed doors at local studios. It was like an urchin saying: "My dad can lick yours." So what? Only this:

When Variety, organ of the stage, screen and radio, burst out on Tuesday with the first attempt to rate individual broadcasting stations according to their standing with advertisers and their general popularity measured by showmanship, WJSV was rated number one in Washington.

"It is generally agreed WJSV stands out head and shoulders," the survey says. "WOL has some good local stuff. WMAL-WRC are strictly N. B. C. network with little local push."

Put that in your tin container and shake it!

Concerning itself with 103 stations in 33 key cities where competition exists, these finds are necessarily arbitrary. "Of much importance," the survey continues, "is the tendency of high-powered stations to be overshadowed in showmanship and popularity by less-blessed stations. Strength derived from network programs, mechanical advantages and other passive elements are given due allowance in placing the stations."

In formulating the list, Variety combined its own information and knowledge of local situations with expert comment of authorities within the radio advertising field whose competence to judge is as unquestionable as their integrity and freedom from bias. These authorities cross-checking each other reached a remarkable unanimity in a majority of cases.

No attempt was made to rate New York, it being felt that networks dominated the situation there.

THE man with the nose whom you've recognized blazing forth from our art layout this morning is that timid little fellow, Jimmie Durante . . . the barber's delight.

Arriving here Thursday to much fanfare of trumpets played feelingly by Lou Brown, publicity chief at Loew's Fox, Jimmie opened there yesterday with a stage show which he says will be "hot stuff" . . . all depending on the audience. His act may run for 10 minutes, but he is scheduled to stop the show if he pulls some of the antics he did the other night surrounded by admiring women and the local press.

He has no preference between radio, stage or screen, and likes to try them all for the sake of variety. While women fought to stroke his wavy locks, Jimmie mounted a table and showed them his "Inka-Dinka-Do" number.

His technique as a sweetheart is acknowledged, so Jimmie announced that he wants to try out his "mike appeal." This he will do beginning April 22, when he replaces Eddie Cantor on that regular Sunday night show.

Bob Trout will interview Durante over WJSV, probably Monday or Tuesday.

A SAGA of grain requiring the services of 600 traders and seven announcers will be heard today amid much confusion, ringing of historic bells and the shouts of triumphant brokers as the first broadcast from the Chicago wheat pit goes on the air over a C. B. S. chain at 12:30 p. m.

"The Romance of the Wheat Pit," presenting scenes from the Board of Trade observatory, the railroad yards, grain elevators, storage bins, brokerage offices, will reach a mad climax with the ringing of the historic Chicago Board of Trade bell which announces an end of trading for the day.

This bell was originally used to sound warnings at a Confederate camp during the Civil War, later being recast as the fire bell for the Chicago Town Hall, which was destroyed in the fire of 1871. It was first used by the Board of Trade in 1872.

Whitecaps.

WRC—"Pelleas and Melisande," Metropolitan Opera, featuring Lucrezia Bori, Ina Bourskay, Ellen Dalossy, Edward Johnson, Ezio Pinza and Leon Rothier. Entire opera being broadcast, 1:45 p. m.; "Economics in the New Deal," "The New Deal and Transportation," Jules Bogen, professor of finance, New York Unicersity and Amos Pinchot, New York attorney, 5:30 p. m.; "Shuffle" of the Senate, 7:15 p. m.; hundredth anniversary of National Democratic Club, speakers: Attorney General Cummings Senator Copeland and Gov. Lehman, of New York, 10:30 p. m.

WMAL—Army Day program, talk by Brig. Gen. John Ross Delafield, 12 (noon); "Pelleas and Melisande," Debussy's opera, from Boston, 1:45 p. m.; "The Child and the Kingdom," Page Etchison, religious work director, Y. M. C. A., 5:30 p. m.; "The Salesman Recovers under the NRA," talk by Dan S. Hickey, commercial counselor, 8:45 p. m.; "Use and Growth of State Parks," discussed by Assistant Director Conrad L. Wirth and Herbert Evison of the State Park Emergency Conservation Department, 10 p. m.

WJSV—All-Rachmaninoff recital, Abram Chasins, composer-pianist, 12:15 p. m.; Hirosi Saito, Japanese Ambassador, discussing cherry blossom festival, 1:15 p. m.; Jacques Jolas, concert pianist, playing Mozart's concerto in E flat, 3 p. m.; Raegen McCrary, former Yale star, describing with Ted Husing, rugby game between Cambridge and Harvard, 4 p. m.; Henry T. Rainey, Speaker of the House, speaking at Jefferson Day dinner, 8:30 p. m.; "The Doll in the Pink Dress" drama by Leonard Merrick, 9:30 p. m.; Vice President Garner discussed by H. V. Kaltenborn, concluding "Leaders in Action" series, 10:30 p. m.

"Shuffle," the colored bootblack who adds luster to Senatorial shoes, boasts that he has been "in Congress for twenty-fo' years." You who listen in over WRC tonight at 7:15 will hear him explain the brain trust in simplified English.

"Shuffle's" inside information comes direct from orators as he shines their shoes in the Senate barber shop. Parts in this program will be played by members of the Clifford-Brooke Academy of Dramatic Arts, all Washingtonians. "Shuffle" will be portrayed by Eugene Stevens.

When the Washington Senators, led by Joe Cronin, pile out of their train arriving here Monday afternoon, Bill Coyle, WMAL announcer, will coax some of the boys near a microphone long enough to tell the waves about their period of training at Biloxi, Miss. They will tell how glad they are to be back and all that . . . at 4:30 p. m.

Bill Coyle, incidentally, has just been chosen as WMAL's new sports announcer on a new series to go on the air every evening at 6:30 p. m. and 8 p. m. on Sundays. He will give a play-by-play resume of out-of-town games and comment on other current sports. That makes two sports announcers for you to choose from . . . Arch McDonald started the same thing over WJSV at 6:45 p. m. a week ago.

Jimmie Durante and Johnny Pierotti, The Post's sports cartoonist, found that they both knew the same people. Jimmie told Johnny that he had given up boxing because his bulb got in the way. Meanwhile Pierotti, surrounded by admirers, knocked out the above sketch. Pretty swell, eh? Durante replaces Cantor on the air on Sunday nights beginning April 22.

Milk Control Plan Verges On Breakdown

AAA Nears Hands-off Policy as Farmers Voice Protest.

regional conferences for discussion of the plan. The last of those meetings will be held April 17. The program has been criticized at the trade gatherings already held.

An inkling of the volume of protest came from an official who attended one of the regional round-robins. He reported "there were 500 people present and 501 different plans."

Perhaps the most vociferous opposition was voiced by leaders of milk cooperatives. They centered their fire on the processing tax proposal, contending the tax would be paid by distributors, already financially harassed.

Agreements Form Obstacles.

AAA officials, however, believed the attitude of the irreconcilables dated back to new marketing agreements placed in force by the Administration February 1. Many cooperatives favored original marketing agreements, sponsored during the regime of George Peek as Farm Administrator and later abandoned. Both marketing programs provided for fixing of the price to be paid to milk producers, but the existing plan failed to contain a retail price minimum as did the Peek scheme.

As the opposition swelled, AAA experts conceded there seemed little prospect of obtaining sufficient signatures on contracts by dairy farmers to assure success of the plan. They attributed partial responsibility for the situation to inability of the average farmer to comprehend full meaning of the complex proposal.

The unexpected turn of events found Federal farm authorities predicting dire results for milk producers unless a sudden change of sentiment should put the plan over. One official predicted failure to attempt organized reduction in production would lead to a dangerous shortage in dairy products. He reasoned many farmers would find they were selling for less than the cost of production and would turn to some other business.

A different picture was seen by other AAA officials. They argued the chief reason for low dairy prices was a direct result of the average American's reduced financial capacity. They considered National buying power on the up-swing and looked forward to a greater demand for milk, butter, and other dairy products, with consequent price increases.

World Sends Philadelphia Its Students

Youths From All Parts of Globe Are Studying in Institutions.

Philadelphia (U.P. — Philadelphia gradually is becoming the educational crossroad of the world.

Young men and women from all sections of the globe are coming here to avail themselves of courses offered at the many institutions of learning.

While the number of foreign students is less this year than in former years, evidently due to the depression, there are more than 300 natives of other countries matriculated at local colleges. Some are maintained at the cost of their government; some are exchange scholars, while others are studying under international fellowships.

Haverford College has a young man from Assuit, Egypt; Jefferson Medical School is instructing a student from Punjab, India; at Pennsylvania, a young Puerto Rico woman is studying dentistry; Drexel has a student from the Holy Land taking a course in engineering; the Hahnemann Hospital was selected by five Hawaiians for its medical course; Bryn Mawr has girls from China, Canada, Germany and France.

Other institutions have attracted the youth of Arabia, Hungary, Siam, Panama, Colombia, Japan and Korea. Several Jewish students who fled from Hitlerism in Germany are recent arrivals.

Most of the students from the Orient take science courses, while those from South and Central America concentrate on business.

Every Friday night, the foreigners assemble at the International Students House, where forums on issues of world importance are discussed.

Virginia Power Firm to Delay Rate-Rise Fight

Utility Expected to Await Action by Corporation Commission.

Richmond, April 6 (Spl.).—The Virginia Electric & Power Co. will delay pressing the State corporation commission for increased electric rates until June, when the new law takes effect authorizing the commission to make temporary increases or decreases in schedules in emergencies.

This appears to be the impression at the corporation commission's offices here, and the Virginia Electric & Power Co. petition for restoration of approximately one-half of the reductions made effective January 16 will not be set down for a hearing at this time. The original application has been amended to cover several rate classifications, but the amount of the increases sought is approximately the same so far as its income is concerned—$170,000 annually.

The company takes the position its right to this increase is based on the increased taxes it will have to pay on its gross earnings as a result of the enactment of Gov. Peery's tax program, under which the State tax on gross earnings of utilities over the first $100,000 was increased from 1½ to 3 per cent..

The law as to emergency rates the commission is authorized to put into effect without formal hearings and pending investigation becomes effective the latter part of June, just before the Governor's tax program becomes operative for the new fiscal year opening July 1.

Filing Delayed By Candidates

Only One Town Lists Names for Election in Rockingham.

Harrisonburg, Va., April 6 (Spl.). Although next Friday is the deadline for candidates to file for the June municipal election here and in the seven incorporated towns of Rockingham County, only office-seekers from Elkton have listed themselves so far.

Mayor J. R. Early, of Elkton, seeks reelection. Councilmanic candidates are J. L. Deal, S. K. Lough, Hansford W. Powell, B. F. Offenbacker, C. L. Gaynor and J. E. Watkins.

Four councilmen will be elected in Harrisonburg, the terms of J. O. Stickley, L. T. Flick, C. C. Conrad and Pearl Sumption expiring. The city council recently established two precincts in each ward to avoid congestion at the polls and delay in making known the returns.

Mission Society Elects Officers

Baltimore Conference Ends Session in Alexandria.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Baltimore Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church South, elected Mrs. W. H. Ballengee, of Harrisonburg, Va., president yesterday at the final session of their annual convention, held at Alexandria.

Other officers are: Vice president, Mrs. E. L. Woolf, Harrisonburg, Va.; recording secretary, Mrs. N. R. Neal, Roanoke; treasurer, J. Havener, Staunton, Va.; corresponding secretary, Miss Emma V. Peppler, Baltimore.

The installing official was Dr. H. M. Canter, pastor of the Epworth Methodist Church, of Washington.

Funeral in Harrisonburg For John Henry Glick

Liquor Board Names Sexton

Former Head of Virginia State Police Will Aid Enforcement.

Richmond, April 6 (AP).—The Virginia Alcoholic Beverage Control Board has announced the appointment of T. K. Sexton, of Richmond, former superintendent of State police, as head of the board's division of investigation and enforcement. He will be assisted by Maj. S. Buford Rose, Richmond, and R. Y. Naille, Berryville.

John Q. Rhodes, director of the division of motor vehicles, named Lieut. H. B. Nicholas, ranking officer of the police unit, acting superintendent. Sergt. J. R. Nunn became acting lieutenant.

Announcement was made that automobiles seized under the now obsolete prohibition laws will be used by the board. One such machine has already been turned over to the liquor marketing organization.

Mrs. Gardiner Heads Pilgrims

Group Plans to Celebrate Mass at Memorial to Father White.

Leonardtown, Md., April 6 (Spl.). At a meeting held here by the Pilgrims of St. Marys, Mrs. Audrey Gardiner was reelected president, John Brisco, vice president; Mrs. A. F. King, secretary, and Mrs. J. Fenner Lee, treasurer.

Plans were completed for the celebration of mass at the memorial to Father White and his missionaries on May 8 at 11 a. m., the celebrant being the Rev. Richard Blackburn Washington, of Fort Monroe, Va.

A plate luncheon will be served by ladies of the society and the parochial school children of St. Marys County will sing the "Mass of the Angels." The memorial, dedicated to Father White and his missionaries in memory of their work among the Indians and first colonists of Maryland, is located on St. Johns Creek, within sight of St. Marys City.

E. A. Shaffer Heads Oakland's Council

Oakland, Md., April 6 (Spl.).—Edward A. Shaffer was named president of the new city council, and Arthur Lawton, Lloyd Shaffer and C. Milton Sincell were installed as new members.

The following appointments were made by Mayor Grover C. Stemple: Charles F. White, police magistrate; B. B. Nethkin, chief of police, and W. H. Byrd, weighmaster. Mrs. Anna Dixon, treasurer-elect, has not filed bond. Appointment of a city attorney was deferred. The council named James Compton water superintendent; Michael Maroney, street commissioner, and H. P. Stuck, clerk.

Council committees were appointed as follows: Water, Arthur Lawton, William R. Browning and Edward A. Shaffer; street, William Glotfelty, Lloyd Shaffer and C. Milton Sincell; finance, William R. Browning, Edward A. Shaffer and Lloyd Shaffer.

Lieut. Phillip A. Rodes Will Be Buried Today

Lieut. Phillip A. Rodes, 35, retired naval officer, of Bristol, Va., will be buried in Arlington Cemetery this morning with full military honors.

Lieut. Rodes died Thursday at Kings Mountain Memorial Hospital, Bristol, Va., from an ailment incurred in 1926 in the Philippine Islands. Surviving are his widow and one son, Preston Rodes, and his parents in Tennessee.

Services Conducted For Stabbing Victim

West Union, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.). Rymer Fletcher, 21, of Troy, victim of a stabbing near Hazard, Ky., was buried today at the Dunkard Church cemetery on Bears Fork.

Fletcher was stabbed last Friday, allegedly in an argument with a fellow truck driver of Huntington, and died two days later at Saco, Ky. His assailant was jailed at Hazard to await trial.

Carroll Group Urges Survey For ERA Jobs

County One of Two in State Not Taking Up Program.

Westminster, Md., April 6 (Spl.). Discussion of Carroll County's participation in the Emergency Relief Administration work plan to finish CWA projects was held here yesterday.

Members of the CWA committee said 21 counties had already taken advantage of the plan. Carroll County was not included because a survey of the relief requirements had not been made.

Under the work plan, the Carroll County commissioners must appropriate approximately one-third of the money needed to complete the projects. Mrs. Frank Myers, president of the Children's Aid Society, will petition the commissioners to approve the necessary appropriation. Edward Harner, a county commissioner, was present at the meeting, but did not intimate what action would be taken by the board.

Should favorable action be taken by the board, a survey will be made of the number of families in need of relief, now estimated at about 200.

Stressing the importance of immediate action to establish the work plan, Mrs. William H. Thomas, member of the CWA committee, said 60 persons applied for relief at the office of the Children's Aid Society yesterday. Practically all were self-supporting under the CWA, Mrs. Thomas asserted.

James Stuart, county CWA coordinator, presented a statement showing that $122,319.69 had been spent on CWA projects in the county. Of this sum, $84,858.38 was used for labor, while $37,461.31 was contributed by towns, fire departments, the Board of Education, Western Maryland College and the county commissioners for material.

Tax-Free Gas Sale Is Denied

All Civilians Pay Virginia Levy at Naval Posts, Says Cheatham.

Norfolk, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Rear Admiral Joseph J. Cheatham, supply officer for the Fifth Naval District, of which Norfolk is headquarters, denied today that civilians are supplied gasoline at the Norfolk Naval Operating Base without paying the Virginia tax of 5 cents per gallon.

The denial came after he was informed that J. Warren Topping, counsel for the Virginia Motor Vehicle Division, had charged in Washington that Virginia was losing $75,000 a year because of the sale of taxless gasoline at naval posts in this district.

Senator Byrd has said he is preparing a bill compelling Army and Navy men to pay the gas tax the same as civilians and providing that the Navy Department investigate the gas sale at the Government posts.

Admiral Cheatham said taxless gasoline is only sold to officers and enlisted men.

Road Bond Issue Carried to Court

Danville, Va., April 6 (Spl.—Taxpayers in Dan River district of Pittsylvania County have instituted mandamus proceedings against the board of supervisors, seeking payment of approximately $50,000 on $100,000 in road bonds issued in 1912.

A hearing will be held before Judge Turner Clement April 12.

The board of supervisors, meanwhile, has returned to Dan River district a $60,000 debt which it assumed on a school program.

John Page Simpson Norfolk Leader, Dies

Norfolk, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—John Page Simpson, 49, prominent in Norfolk business, church and fraternal circles, died here today after an illness of one week. He was associated with the Eastern Wood Corporation.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Fannie Will Simpson, Mr. Simpson, son of the late John C. and Mrs. Fannie Meade Simpson, is survived by two sons, J. Page Simpson, jr., and Howard Johnson Simpson; one sister, Mrs. W. Perry Moore, all of Norfolk; a step-mother, three half-sisters and a half-brother.

Lynchburg Services Held for W. D. Grant

Lynchburg, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Funeral services were held here today at the home for William Douglas Grant, 45, who died yesterday. The body was taken to Richmond for burial.

Mr. Grant is survived by two half-brothers, C. M. Hughes, of Washington, and R. G. Hughes, of Richmond.

Peery Puts Name On Kentucky Quilt

Richmond, April 6 (AP).—Gov. George C. Peery's signature, which adorns hundreds of bills passed by the General Assembly as well as other imposing documents, was affixed today to a 6-inch square of blue silk, destined to become part of a patchwork quilt.

The square, with an outline of the State of Virginia worked on it in white, was mailed to the governor by a group of Kentucky women who explained they were collecting similar squares for a quilt. The governor scrawled "Geo. C. Peery" with a soft pencil and returned the bit of fabric to its senders.

Mrs. Jackson's Hunters Annex Blue Ribbons

Farmington Hunt Show at "Windsor" Attracts Strong Field.

Charlottesville, Va., April 6 (Spl.). Entries from the stables of Mrs. Cary Jackson, of New York and Keswick, annexed blue ribbons in two of the classes at the spring hunter trials of the Farmington Hunt Club, this afternoon over the beautiful rolling country at Windsor, estate of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. York, 5 miles west of Charlottesville. A big gallery witnessed the program and remained until the ribbons were pinned on winners in the final event, finished in a thunderstorm.

There were an even dozen entries in the first event on the afternoon's card, that for green hunters. The silver platter, offered by Mrs. William Luke 2d, of Covington, went to Mrs. Jackson's Merry Prince, by Meridian, out of Fairy Legend. The 4-year-old, piloted to victory by Charles Mergler, of Warrenton, won three blue ribbons at the Orange Horse Show last year, his first season. Other entries in this event outside of the ribbons included Greenwood, owned by James Andrews, of Somerset; Louis Toros' Barlette, Mrs. Clarence Gentry's Dream Boy, Louis Hanckel's Falcon, and Barrietome, shown by Fox Brothers, of Greenwood.

A field of 20 horses competed for the Broomley Trophy, offered by Dr. and Mrs. Stephen H. Watts, of the university, in the class for half-bred hunters.

The blue ribbon was awarded Mrs. Jackson's Shere Khan, a black gelding by Gordon Russell, and a consistent winner last year at the Devon, Wilmington, Bryn Mawr and Washington horse shows.

See-Me-Go Is Third.

Second prize went to Alonza Rinehart's Sonny Girl, and the yellow ribbon was pinned on See-Me-Go, a gelding owned by Grover Vandevender, of Ivy. Other competitors in the event included Golden Slippers, owned by Mrs. William Luke; Don Snellenberger's Peggy, Escape and Raggedy Ann, shown by Mrs. Russell Mott, of Farmington; Fox Brothers' Linday, and Hesitation, owned by Mrs. A. M. Keith, of the university.

Wild Drake, owned by Jouett Todd, of New York City, walked off with the Westover trophy, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Faulconer, in the event for registered thoroughbred hunters. The winner raced until he was 10 years of age on the principal tracks in this country and Europe. Second prize was won by Mrs. J. P. Jones' Grenadier Guard.

A number of clean performers in this event were eliminated from consideration by the judges for not riding the course as flagged and for failing to shut the gate at one of the jumps, as prescribed in the rules.

Variety of Obstacles.

A pretty sight was provided in the final event, when pairs of hunters went over the 1½-mile course in tandem, taking two jumps abreast and then changing lead. There were ten obstacles on the course, including stone, plank, rail, picket; pole, hedge and ditch, a gate to be opened and closed while mounted, and a load jump. The obstacles were not over 4 feet high.

The trophy in this class, donated by university students who follow the hounds of the Farmington Hunt Club, was won by Decanter and Brandy, owned by Jack Rineheart. The second prize went to Nesbit and Silk Socks, from the Happy Creek Farm Stables of Mrs. Allen Potts, near Gordonsville. Grover Vandevender's pair—See-Me-Go and Chat—with Mr. Vandevender and Miss Gay Johnson up, were given the yellow ribbon.

Many Girl Riders.

Other trophies awarded second and third place winners were donated by Mr. and Mrs. Cary Jackson, of Keswick; Mr. and Mrs. W. Alonza Rinehart, Harry George and Miss Betty Walker.

Among the lady riders who piloted some of the entries over the course were Miss Page Lewis, daughter of Mrs. Robert Stranahan, of Toledo, Ohio; Miss Shiela Finerty, of Washington; Mrs. A. M. Keith and Miss Ellie Wood Keith, of the university; Mrs. Cary Jackson, of Keswick; Miss Betty Walker, Miss Sue Bolling and Miss Mary Crews.

The events were judged by Otto Furr and Arthur White, of Middleburg; Hamilton Somerville, of Montpelier, and Maj. Minor Lewis, of Lynchburg.

Lodge Head on Visit.

Charles Town, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.).—The Stotler's Cross Roads Camp of the Patriotic Sons of America was visited last night by H. N. Bradley, National president, and W. X. Arey, State secretary. The officers will inspect the Hedgeville Camp tonight.

Science Bodies Slate Meetings For Next Week

Virginia U. to Be Scene of New Deal Social Work Outlines.

Charlottesville, Va., April 6 (Spl.). The Virginia Conference of Social Work and the Virginia Social Science Association will discuss the "New Deal in Virginia" at their annual sessions next Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the University of Virginia.

Prominent economists, sociologists, historians and social workers from over the State will speak.

Thursday night, Alan Johnstone, assistant Federal relief administrator, will explain the State recovery program. William A. Smith, Federal emergency relief director for Virginia, will preside.

Others to address the conference are Prof. Frank W. Hoffer, of the University of Virginia, who will lead a discussion of Virginia jails; Dr. David C. Smith, professor of psychiatry at the university, who will discuss mental hygiene in the State during the recovery program, and Dean Raymond B. Pinchbeck, of the University of Richmond, who will speak before the Friday evening joint session of the societies. The final joint session Saturday will hear as principal speaker, Linton B. Smith, executive secretary of the Family Welfare Association of America.

Thursday morning, the Virginia Conference on Social Work, meeting for its thirty-fourth year, will meet jointly with the Virginia Orphanage Association to discuss the care of dependent children under the New Deal. Friday, the Virginia Social Science Association will inaugurate its eighth annual meeting with a review of research in Virginia social sciences, and the relation of recreation and social legislation to recovery.

Both societies will adjourn at 11 a. m. Friday for the University of Virginia's Founder's Day exercises, at which President Robert M. Hutchins, of the University of Chicago, will speak.

Two Poisonous Snakes in State, Says Professor

Morgantown, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Contrary to popular belief, there are only two poisonous snakes in West Virginia, the rattler and the copperhead, says Dr. A. M. Reese, of the biology faculty of West Virginia University.

Poisonous snakes have slit-like eyes, the harmless kind having round eyes, he says. A snake can not strike more than three-quarters of its own length, he reminds, adding that water snakes, which sometimes curl around one's leg are harmless.

He deplores killing of hawks and owls, included in the numerous vermin-killing contests now under way. They may kill an occasional hen, but they make up for that, Dr. Reese says, by consuming large quantities of more harmful pests.

Slide Wrecks Lighted Buoy at Clifton Beach

Norfolk, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—A landslide in the Potomac River at Clifton Beach destroyed a lighted buoy at that place, it was announced today by Supt. L. H. Hopkins of the lighthouse district.

The river bank at Clifton Beach slid into the river and carried the lighted navigation aid with it.

13 Realty Men Face Charges On "Tide Lots"

Grand Jury Acts After Women Complain in Land Deals.

Baltimore, April 6 (Spl.).—Presentments were returned by the grand jury here today against 13 real estate salesmen on charges involving the alleged victimizing of women in connection with the sale of property, particularly unimproved waterfront lots in Anne Arundel County.

Numerous complaints had been placed before the State's attorney's office during the past two months regarding the methods of sale of the county property.

Those accused are Barry Philpot, four charges, total bail $23,000; R. A. Brown, two charges, bail $5,000; William C. Raley, two charges, bail $5,000; Galvin Douglas, two charges, bail $5,000; Alcova Wainwright, two charges, bail $6,000; Claude K. Hill, William H. Blackburn, Howard O. Walbeck, Frank M. Byrd, Samuel Beck, Ray K. Lechthaler, Benjamin S. Hill and J. A. Epling.

Most of the charges involve waterfront property at three locations in Anne Arundel County, and certain property in Baltimore. The sum involved is said to approximate $20,000.

According to statements by State's Attorney O'Conor, some of the accused salesmen promised "investors" in the lots a quick turnover with a substantial profit.

Complaints were made by approximately 75 women, Mr. O'Conor said.

Court Upholds Suit on Doctor

Woman in Orange County Wins Right to Seek Damages Again.

Richmond, April 6 (Spl.).—Virginia Lee Armentrout, who lost a $15,000 suit against Dr. J. P. Hankins in the Circuit Court of Orange County, will get another chance to present before a court her claim for personal injuries allegedly received while under treatment of the physician.

The State Supreme Court of Appeals today granted her a writ of error.

Miss Armentrout fell while attending a dance at Rapidan and dislocated her elbow. She asserts that Dr. Haskins was negligent in his treatment and that her arm was made practically useless.

The court also granted an appeal to Ashby Williams and the Heston Land & Improvement Corporation from a decree of the Circuit Court of Arlington County, in favor of Ashton C. Jones, trustee, and others. The judgment in issue confirmed a sale of appellants' real estate under a deed of trust.

Leesburg P.-T. A. Names Delegates

3 Placed on Committee for Nominations.

Leesburg, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Mrs. F. M. Yellott and Mrs. John Kincaid were appointed to represent the Leesburg Parent-Teacher Association at the district meeting of the Virginia branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, in Purcellville, April 25.

The meeting here was addressed by Miss Lydia M. Stewart, summer round-up chairman of the Parent-Teacher association of Virginia, who urged members to have preschool children examined in an effort to correct physical defects before they enter school.

A nominating committee for the election in May was appointed as follows: Charles S. Monroe, Mrs. G. H. Musgrave and Mrs. George Ward.

$62,986 Expended By Caroline CWA

1,000 Men Worked on 31 Projects, Check Shows.

Bowling Green, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—The Caroline County CWA spent $62,986.46 to hire more than 1,000 men on 31 projects, L. E. Martin, county administrator, announces, following a survey of the CWA program.

More than $26,000 of this sum was spent on schools. Approximately $11,000 allotted for Caroline projects was not used, because of lack of time in which to complete approved work.

About 60 per cent of the total spent was for county projects, including schools; the remainder was spent in Bowling Green, Milford and Port Royal. Of the sum spent here, $44,132.75 went for wages.

Murat Williams Third Editor in His Family

Charlottesville, Va., April 6 (Spl.). Murat W. Williams, of Richmond, Va., who has been elected editor in chief of College Topics, University of Virginia newspaper, is the third son of Lewis C. Williams, alumnus and member of the board of visitors, to hold this post.

Peyton R. Williams, who edited College Topics for the session of 1929-30, was succeeded by another brother, John Page Williams, who was editor for 1930-31.

Carroll County Granges Plan Banquet Tuesday

The granges are at Berrett, Medford, Melrose, Mount Airy and Union Bridge.

$716 Interest on $300 Loan Calls Halt in Foreclosure Suit

$569 Actually Paid, Court Told, With $62 Credit on Principal.

Baltimore, April 6 (Spl.).—Interest, amounting to $716, claimed on a loan of $300, led Judge Eugene O'Dunne, of Baltimore, to issue an order today preventing the firm from foreclosing on a house pledged as collateral.

Under the Maryland petty loan law, licensed loan brokers are permitted to charge 3½ per cent interest monthly on unpaid loan balances. This amounts to 42 per cent a year.

In the case today, three colored women had obtained the loan in December, 1927. Testimony showed that during the period between then and 1933, a total of $569.70 had been actually paid to the loan broker, but that only $61.84 had been credited to the principal, the remainder being credited to interest. Judge O'Dunne said:

"I do not think this case is within the spirit of the equity law to allow a loan to grow at a rate of over 36 per cent interest per year, and I can not go along with any such unconcionable application to equity to pay $716 interest on a $300 loan."

The loan company indicated it would appeal.

Ram Attacks Child.

Harrisonburg, Va., April 6 (Spl.). Lois Virginia Culpp, 3, was badly bruised and had a narrow escape from death when she was attacked by a ram on her father's farm, near Ottobine, 12 miles west of here.

Dr. Welch, 50 Years At Hopkins Today, Is 85 Tomorrow

Baltimore, April 6 (Spl.).—Two anniversaries will be celebrated tomorrow and Sunday by Dr. William H. Welch, of the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health, who has been called "the dean of American medicine."

Tomorrow Dr. Welch will observe the fiftieth anniversary of his association with Johns Hopkins.

Sunday will be his eighty-fifth birthday.

There will be no formal celebrations of the events. Dr. Welch is a patient in the Johns Hopkins Hospital, where he has been under treatment for about six months. He sees few visitors.

Dr. Welch's eightieth birthday was celebrated simultaneously in America, Asia and Europe. Many cities of the United States held ceremonies in his honor, and in Washington President Hoover took part.

Women Form Club To Back Conley

Baltimore, April 6 (Spl.).—Baltimore women have organized a "Conley-for-Governor" Club, and today are seeking recruits to back the Frederick man's bid for the Democratic nomination.

Forty women are charter members of the club, which met at the home of Mrs. E. A. Powers, in Roland Park.

The meeting was addressed by Daniel Sullivan, president of the Baltimore "Conley-for-Governor" Club, who said the women's group is the first of its kind in the State.

Benjamin H. Sewell, 70, Lee County Lawyer, Dies

Jonesville, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Benjamin H. Sewell, 70, Lee County attorney, died here yesterday.

Mr. Sewell, a graduate of Emory and Henry College and the University of Virginia, had practiced law here since 1885. He also was connected with many business houses and industries in Lee and Wise Counties.

John R. Turner Dies At Lynchburg Home

Lynchburg, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—John R. Turner, retired businessman died yesterday at his home here.

He was a native of Amhurst County and is survived by a sister, Mrs. D. L. Walker, of this city, and a brother, E. J. Turner, of Amherst County.

Home Workers To Meet.

Petersburg, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Chesterfield County home demonstration leaders will meet here April 16. Miss Exie Lassiter, county home agent, says demonstrations will be given on control of household pests and keeping fit.

PWA Approves Virginia Award For Dormitory

Fredericksburg Work to Start Soon; Radford Bid Indorsed.

Richmond, April 6 (AP).—The Virginia office of the Public Works Administration yesterday approved the award to J. F. Barbour & Sons, Roanoke, of the contract for a new dormitory at Fredericksburg State Teachers College. The building will cost $236,471.

Work will begin within a week, officials said. The project is the second of its type in the State, work having started on a new building at Harrisonburg.

The PWA also approved a low bid of $87,800, submitted by the Stone Lumber Co., Bristol, Tenn., for a new dining hall at Radford State Teachers College. Final approval by school officials is necessary.

Bids will be asked soon, it was stated, for a new swimming pool for the State school at Farmville. Other projects on which bids will be asked within the month follow:

Dormitories at Virginia State College, Petersburg, $235,000; water works at Amherst, $22,000; jail and firehouse at Buena Vista, $10,000; well at Gretna, $43,000.

Park Road Bids Are Due April 25

Two Projects Scheduled in Battlefield Area.

Fredericksburg, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Bids will be received in Washington on April 25 for work on two road projects in the Fredericksburg and Spotsylvania National Battlefield Park.

The Bureau of Public Roads will receive bids on one road in the Chancellorsville area calling for 7.4 miles of roadway. Spotsylvania specifications call for 4.63 miles of roadway.

Guy M. Harbert, of the Bureau of Public Roads, will be in charge of the work, the first actual construction done in the park since it was taken over by the Department of Interior last June.

Washington Rites Told In Old Issue of Paper

Fredericksburg, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—An account of the funeral of George Washington is contained in an issue of the Ulster County Gazette obtained in New York by Karl Herr, proprietor of the Mary Washington Hotel, where the paper will be displayed from a frame.

Published in Kingston, N. Y., on January 4, 1800, the issue is filled mostly with details of Washington's life.

Behind His Legend.

Lawrence of Arabia has fought with the Arabs and translated the Odyssey. He has flown in the Air Force and rolled with the Tank Corps. Always he has disappeared when his identity has been revealed, only to turn up later at some even more outlandish outpost. Why? Liddell Hart, who has just published a biography of the enigmatic Englishman, says it is because Lawrence, or Shaw, or Ross, or whatever his name is, is akin to the medieval monk who renounced his lay name along with the lay world. But is that the only reason?

Col. Lawrence is one of the great romantics of our age. But he is also one of the age's supreme egotists. He found out long ago that as long as he cloaks himself in mystery and romance he can do just about as he pleases. Herein lies one of life's great secrets. Lawrence has so piqued the curiosity of the world that it rushes to buy his "wares." Well has he learned that the more one hides, the more one is sought. The less one says, the more his words will count.

This practice would not be easy for all. Most persons would want to savor the results of the publicity and bask in the warm light of adulation that comes always to the romantic. But Lawrence likes solitude and is never lonely. When he flees the inquisitive, he does it honestly, because mystery is the trade that gives him the wherewithal to finance his wanderings. Therefore he shuns the public, but not publicity, so that he may fight when he wants to fight, or rest when rest is his need.

The lesson in the mysterious life of Lawrence seems to be that he who makes the reporter chase him needs no press agent.

Unrest In France.

Reactions to Premier Doumergue's retrenchment decree indicate that the French people are still in a state of nervous agitation. M. Doumergue considers stern measures essential to save the franc from devaluation. But his proposal to dismiss 50,000 employes and reduce the salaries of all those retained in the government service has merely accentuated the widespread unrest. New strikes are threatened and further rioting is feared.

The feebleness of French governments within the past ten years, arising partly out of the bloc system in the Chamber, has made it necessary for any Premier to walk a tight rope in maintaining his majority. The French people have become tired of the consequent lack of authoritative and effective government. The Stavisky scandal in itself would not have brought down upon the parliamentary system such disrepute. It was a series of scandals, and the consequent revelations that parliamentary government had failed in coping with them, that made Paris and other cities a happy hunting ground for agitators of all sorts.

Manifestly, France is in political flux. And, certainly, the system of government needs to be overhauled. What the liberals fear is that in the process the country will go Fascist. There has been a drift toward that in recent months, a drift shared by all Europe. The recent riots at Toulon and Tours obviously were measures to counter what seems to be a rising tide of dictatorial sentiment.

The French Socialists have taken a lesson from their German and Austrian colleagues, who failed to use weapons at their command until it was too late. In Germany, they have been "liquidated" or put into prison camps; in Austria, they were shot down, driven across borders, or made to submit meekly to the new "corporative" state.

French Socialists have watched their Austrian brethren toppled, within a year, from the eminence of power to the status of pariahs. They can not be blamed for nervousness, rising sometimes to precipitation of civil strife, at the growth of Fascist sentiment in France, now one of the few strongholds of democracy remaining on the continent of Europe.

On The Way Out.

The fact that his opponents on the New York County Democratic executive committee lack only one vote to oust him as chairman indicates that John F. Curry is on the skids as leader of Tammany Hall. The leadership of the political organization carries with it the county chairmanship.

Mr. Curry went into office upon the backlash of the Al Smith tide, largely under the sponsorship, or at least with the consent, of Jimmy Walker. New York repudiated, in the election in which Maj. LaGuardia was made mayor, most of what Jimmy Walker and most of what Tammany under Mr. Curry had supported. The fight to put him out of office has been led by Edward Ahearn, a young leader, reputed to have vague reform tendencies.

Whether the anti-Curry faction in Tammany seriously advocates reform or not, it realizes that it must have an upheaval before it can hope for a return to power. For the next several months, at any rate, the element which is forcing Curry out will be talking as much about clean government as the Fusionists who put LaGuardia in. Outwardly, no doubt, Tammany will pant as hard after civic righteousness as Judge Seabury, its most effective enemy.

The Morning After.

Congress is beginning to take stock of the damage done during the turbulent days of the special session when it passed emergency measures and approved permanent regulatory laws without taking time to find out what it was doing. The legislative reign of terror is now over. Its end has been marked by a rising tide of opposition to the securities act and the closely related stock exchange bill. But for good luck, the latter measure also might have been enacted into law before Congress discovered its oppressive character and subversive aims.

So long as Congress was ready to treat important legislative proposals indorsed by the Administration as decrees that had to be accepted to save the country from ruin, the United States was in fact, if not in name, under the rule of a dictator. Some of the fruits of that brief period of legislative subserviency have a bitter flavor, as Congressmen have learned to their deep regret and open chagrin. That fact was brought sharply to public attention this week in a caucus of House members from Western States called to discuss the repressive effects of the securities act upon the mining industry. One Representative who had been especially vigorous in denunciation of the act was asked why he did not work to prevent its passage. He listened crestfallen to a colleague who hastened to reply that the House had passed the bill without understanding it, because everybody feared that the country "was about to blow up."

Fortunately terroristic appeals of this sort are no longer effective to prevent men in public and private life from expressing their views openly and freely. Our legislative machinery is working again and it is operating not only to prevent the passage of new laws without adequate preliminary discussion, but to force reconsideration of what has been done in the clear light of "the morning after." It is especially encouraging to find that private citizens are offering constructive criticism and are accorded a hearing from their representatives in Congress.

Hasty action results in ignorant and irresponsible law-making, brings Legislatures into disrepute and casts discredit upon democratic institutions. European countries would not be ruled by dictators at the present time if elected Parliaments had done their duty and resisted executive invasion of their powers.

The Modern Way.

The old-age pension bill is the most important measure that will be considered by the House on Monday when a full day will be devoted to District legislation. Various efforts to sidetrack this bill, in spite of its emphatic indorsement from many quarters, seem to have been abandoned. Chairman Norton has piloted it safely through a number of difficult situations that arose in the District Committee. If this measure becomes law she will deserve a large share of the credit for its enactment.

Old-age pensions are no longer a novelty. Twenty-seven States are now caring for indigent aged people in their own homes. From experience over a considerable period they have found that old folks who are unable to support themselves can be saved from the humiliation of going to a "poorhouse" without any additional expense to taxpayers. The average cost of old-age pensions runs from about $8 to $24 per month, depending upon local conditions and the terms of various State laws. The average cost of maintaining a person in the District Infirmary at Blue Plains is $22.50 per month, exclusive of interest on a large capital investment.

No one questions the need for some action to relieve aged indigents of Washington. Blue Plains is always overcrowded. The enactment of an old-age pension law appears to be the only alternative to the investment of more money in institutions of this kind. The principle that aged people without means of support must be assisted by the state is no longer open to question. The real issue is whether Congress shall adopt for the District the most modern as well as the most satisfactory system of discharging this inevitable obligation.

Details of the bill have been extensively considered by the District Committee. The House should have no difficulty in passing this measure and sending it to the Senate so that its enactment may be completed during the present session.

Spoils Vs. Planned Economy.

Another move toward entrenchment of the spoils system in the so-called emergency organizations created by Congress during the last year was successful in the House on Thursday. That body passed the bill guaranteeing the principal of bonds to be issued by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation after its Committee on Banking and Currency had struck out the Norris amendment forbidding political appointments. The House was not even permitted to vote on the amendment, but the debate furnished evidence of increasing resentment against the distribution of Federal positions as political spoils.

In the Senate the Norris amendment was adopted in spite of Democratic opposition. It would simply require officials of the HOLC to make appointments on the basis of merit and efficiency instead of political favoritism. No attempt was made to require competitive examinations, nor to bring this huge business organization under civil service regulations. President Roosevelt indorsed the principle of the amendment—when it was called to his attention—but it remained anathema to the House leaders who railroaded the bill through under suspension of the rules.

Representative Woodruff told the House:

> According to the best information we have, more than 46,000 Government employes were added to the pay rolls since the 4th of March, 1933, while thousands of experienced, capable civil service employes were walking the streets of Washington and other cities in the United States looking for work that was not to be had. But few of these have been given employment in the new activities, and it is common knowledge here that those who were employed found it necessary to secure powerful political indorsements.

Under these conditions it is not surprising that the Administration is accused of trying to "Tammanyize the entire United States."

This tendency to perpetuate the spoils system is especially disconcerting because the Government is extending its activities into business, agriculture, industry and banking. Instead of trying to secure the best talent available to carry on these momentous undertakings, the House concerns itself with "the privileges and prerogatives of Congressmen." Talk of planned economy is very thin, indeed, so long as Congress maintains this predatory attitude toward the Federal service.

German Gold.

The London Financial News, a sharp critic of Dr. Schacht's methods of debt negotiation, admits that the outlook for Germany's foreign creditors is distinctly gloomy. "Whatever may be the merits of present German policy, from the immediate German point of view," the paper says, "there is no doubt that it is inherently opposed to the claims of her foreign creditors."

It is undoubtedly true that Germany's ability to transfer debt payments due abroad is being steadily impaired. The evidence is found in the rapid shrinkage of Reichsbank gold and foreign currency reserves, in the declining value of exports and in stationary or rising values of imports which have converted a favorable merchandise balance into a currently unfavorable one.

Friends and foes may debate endlessly the question as to whether Germany might have transferred larger sums to her foreign creditors had she pursued different domestic policies. The controversy has become largely academic with the rapid disappearance of the exchange resources out of which payments have to be met. Germany's economic policies are designed to stimulate domestic business expansion by subsidies, quotas and high protective tariffs. These raise production and living costs and are obviously a deterrent to the upbuilding of her export trade. Then, she is further handicapped by efforts to keep the mark at its gold parity. Finally, there is the widespread foreign boycott on German goods, induced by the terroristic policies of the Nazi regime.

The drain on the exchange resources of the country is shown by Reichsbank statements. Its latest weekly report reveals a further loss of gold and bullion, bringing total holding down to 237,136,000 marks, as compared with 738,645,000 marks a year ago. The gold and foreign currency coverage now stands at the low figure of 6.7 per cent contrasted with 23.7 per cent on the same date last year. Although it is not known how much foreign exchange may have been transferred to the Gold Discount Bank preliminary to transfers, it is evident that Germany is desperately hard pressed to remain on the gold standard, while financing a domestic expansion program fostered by government spending on a large scale.

Her situation is aggravated, too, by the rise in prices of imported raw materials, while German exports have to compete with goods coming from countries with depreciated currencies. This again contributes to the shrinkage in foreign balances out of which transfers on foreign debt account have to be made.

Financial Contrast.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In Tuesday's Post Mr. Robey makes a statement and comparison of financial policies and results in England and in the United States. England has ended her fiscal year with a surplus of approximately $156,000,000 while the United States carries a deficit of $2,500,000,000—this awful deficit in spite of emergency receipts and the processing tax which is supposed to help the farmer.

Our financial management at Washington is on paper. In the country among small people, the rank and file, finance is an actuality! Budgeting is done with wages and bread. Brain savings and erratic theories can't make or buy a loaf of bread. A plant or factory goes to work, manager and men get wages, the food shops sell food, the landlord gets an installment on rent money. The rich man or big salaried manager in Washington can't understand the country viewpoint.

The "new deal" planning is a state of mind incidentally favoring only the hungry proletariat. But supply and demand make bread and butter, comfort and recreation and happiness. We of the small town believe that prosperity of the small people makes for National prosperity. We are concerned for our country's National and universal welfare and we may well ponder on the splendid and understandable reasoning on the $2,500,000,000 deficit story of Mr. Robey, who, in his comparison, says, "Quite obviously England will have none of the 'new deal,' for the records of the past leave no doubt as to where a continuing deficit must lead."

Mechanicsburg, Pa., April 3.

Bank Receiverships.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The "New Deal" has brought many blessings with it, revolutionizing special privilege customs and restoring many long-forgotten rights to the so-called common people.

However, at least one deeply seated, insidious custom still thrives, the bank receivership and conservation racket, so graphically illustrated in Philadelphia, and particularly so in Darby, Pa., where the hard-earned savings and rainy-day funds of approximately 8,600 depositors are tied up.

The most deplorable feature, however, seems to be displayed by the Federal Government itself, through the inertia of the Comptroller of Currency, who persists in ignoring appeals for action demanded by the 8,600 depositors, who have been rendered destitute by the prolonged closing of this bank.

Anticipation of the re-opening of the Darby First National Bank and thousands of others throughout the Nation, or at least some attempt to pay the depositors a portion, if not the full amount due them, appears to be the only hope now open for impoverished depositors of our closed banks. A. P. MARSHALL, Glen Olden, Pa., April 5.

Postoffice Decorations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There has been some discussion in the papers recently about the decorations to be used in the new Postoffice. The discussion seemed to be whether we should use copies from the French school, or something from our own country.

I can not imagine anything better than the use of ideas about our own mail service, how it started from the beginning, &c.—the horseback rider, with his mail pouches; the stage coach, with its dangerous rides over the mountains; the mail train and adventures that went with it; river packet and the airplane.

Let us hear from some others regarding this question. C. B. L.
Washington, April 4.

The Age for Poetry.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In regard to the best age for writing poetry, your letter-writing reader, Mr. Juan Donovan, might have gone on to add Goethe to his list. Goethe wrote excellent poetry at all ages and he knew what he was talking about.

In one of his talks with Eckermann, he said something like this: "No man who has not experienced vivid emotions will write good lyrical poetry; but no man who has experienced only his own vivid emotions will write much lyrical poetry." Here he does not specifically say anything about ages; but he does say something by implication. EDWARD PEALE.
New York, April 5.

A Secretary of Air.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Our aviation service is in a deplorable condition. Eleven of our best Army pilots have been killed, by suddenly putting them on work that their Army training did not suit them for. Even the planes that they are using are not built for carrying the mail.

The stopping of all this mismanagement can be easily accomplished, and millions of dollars saved, by uniting the Army and Navy air services into one unit, and having one man at the head of it. Mr. Roosevelt could then appoint a new Cabinet officer, the Secretary of the air.

All the countries of Europe adopted this method from the first.
HUGH L. WILLOUGHBY.

Mrs. Keyes on Charleston.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I read with much pleasure the altogether delightful article on Charleston, S. C., in a recent issue of The Post by Frances Parkinson Keyes, of our city.

The article was most interesting throughout. I hope she is writing other similar sketches.

Michelangelo's Task.

Why murals in fresco are not as common in this country as abroad is a question for which the Bureau of Standards offers an answer in its Technical News Bulletin. It recalls that Michelangelo was completing his frescoes in the Sistine Chapel at the Vatican about the time that Ponce de Leon was discovering Florida. Certain conditions are mentioned as possibly those which have tended to limit the use of true fresco work in the decoration of American buildings. Among these conditions, the Bureau of Standards says, are "the unusual artistic ability of the masters combined with the fact that they considered it necessary to complete the painting the same day the plastering was laid and do the work properly at the first painting—without retouching."

As one of the masters, Michelangelo himself may be consulted on the task which he undertook in the Sistine Chapel in 1508 and finished four years later. He wrote a poem on his labors during this period, in which, according to the translation by Symonds, he complained in part as follows:

"I've grown a goiter by dwelling in this den—
As cats from stagnant streams in Lombardy,
Or in what other lands they hap to be—
Which drives the belly close beneath the chin:
My beard turns up to heaven; my nape falls in,
Fixed on my spine; my breast bone visibly
Grows like a harp; a rich embroidery
Bedews my face from brush drops thick and thin."

The translator says that this poem was written about 1509, or in other words, when Michelangelo had worked on the Sistine Chapel only one year. Aspiring fresco painters of the present should keep in mind the master's complaint so that they may understand that the art of frescoing requires considerably more of a man than a knowledge of paints and plasters. The Bureau of Standards may be ready to offer suggestions on such technical problems, and to advise that frescoing is best done when the building being decorated is under construction, but the bureau can not be expected to tell artists how to muster the patience and good humor necessary to stand the ordeal which one great master found so severe.

First Greening.

By S. Omar Barker.
(In The New York Times)

Two deer came down the hill at dusk to browse
The willows, new-leaved, green, along the creek.
Last autumn I had seen them when the fat
Stood deep upon their loins, their haunches sleek.

The mark of winter was upon them now;
In shaggy coat and shrunken, gaunted thigh,
But in their step spoke springtime. Little tails
Twitched gayly, and their dainty knees swung high.

They came to feed—the winter had been long,
Deep-snowed and hunger-harried; yet they stood
A moment in the meadow as if poised
Upon some brink of magic in the wood.

Then, mincing-footed, neck-arched, there they played—
Two hungry deer—another moment more
Before they fed. The willow leaves were green,
And one, I knew, had not seen spring before.

Old doe and yearling, there they browsed an hour
Along the creek. The greening leaves were sweet,
But sweeter still the surety of spring
That brought them from their hill on tripping feet.

The Post Impressionist

Another Conference?

Postoffice, Saturday.

Some doubt seems to exist whether the next armaments gathering at Geneva is to be a new Armament Conference or a new phase of the old Armament Conference. In either case, the Post-Impressionist, who saw much of the elder affair, will miss certain names from the list of delegates.

• • • •

Labor's French friend, Albert Thomas, will be absent. Kindly Madame Thomas will never again say, as she so often used to: "If Albert comes home from a session so cool that I don't have to change his shirt, I know that he approves of what the session accomplished." For Albert Thomas, stout and bearded and a mighty trencherman, is dead.

• • • •

And another absentee will be August Zaleski, but only because he is no longer active in Polish politics. Once an international personage, with a flair for book-collecting, he is now a book-collector with no flair for international matters.

Will his Warsaw successor at Geneva, we wonder, be as lavish in his public entertainments, as ascetic in his private life, as was M. Zaleski? His plate was silver, yet when he dined alone his menu never varied: two soft-boiled eggs and a glass of milk.

"M. Zaleski is the most appreciative of gentlemen," said his appreciative Swiss doorman. "Every time I brush his coat, he gives me five francs. Naturally, he is the best brushed of all the delegates."

• • • •

And will the Soviets send Karl Radek? He, their enfant terrible, as militant an atheist as any of them, served as a temporary member of their delegation at the first conference, and had small faith in it. An American sought his opinion of what the negotiators would finally do.

"Oh," snapped Radek, "God only knows!"

He was even more distressed theologically than politically when the American countered: "God? Why, I thought He was 'out' with your Government."

• • • •

Possibly it is because of China and Japan that the proposed new conference would, as the dispatches hint, confine its activities to Europe. Those two Asiatic countries rather got in the way of the old armament gathering. Japan was at the height of her military operations against China, and the delegates of both nations lost no opportunity to interject into the most theoretical debates—and into every attending correspondent—specific pleas: the Chinese for help against their invaders; the Japanese for a policy of "let us alone."

Chinese delegate Dr. W. W. Yen spoke American perfectly. Why not? He graduated from the University of Virginia. Yet even he finally admitted that the Conference must be getting tired of Chinese delegates talking in any language at all.

"We Chinese," said he, "have a story about a superstitious ship-crew which mutinied because of a shark's persistent pursuit of their boat. They declared the shark must have a sacrifice.

"On deck, a Chinese diplomat was explaining China's case to a European diplomat. The crew tossed the Chinese diplomat overboard; the shark swallowed him, but continued to pursue. So the European diplomat was thrown over and also swallowed.

"Still the shark pursued! Desperate, the crew harpooned the monster. They cut him open. Inside, the Chinese diplomat was explaining China's case to the European diplomat."

• • • •

The Japanese explanations, though as frequent and as lengthy as their victims', were always official. Each was prefaced with "Our Government believes" and "Our Government is convinced." At length, the representative of a New York newspaper approached Naotake Sato:

"Mr. Sato, there's an increasing prejudice back home against Japan's Chinese policy. We've all heard your official reasons for that policy. But what would you, personally, advise me to write if I wanted to make those reasons popular with my American readers?"

For quite a minute, Mr. Sato regarded a lead-pencil that he twirled between his fingers. Then he murmured:

"That would be difficult to say."

Nor did he try to say it.

• • • •

It remained for Sir John Simon to end the American correspondents' curiosity concerning this Oriental interruption of armament talks. Sir John spoke in his dual capacity as British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs and head of England's delegation. But he also spoke with that amazing ignorance of the American tongue which once prompted another Briton to remark:

"England and America have everything in common—except, of course, the language."

What Sir John wanted to say was that, just then, the League of Nations had done all it deemed possible; it had ordered, into the field of Oriental trouble, a commission of inquiry, which would duly report to the League and was composed of several neutrals plus one officer from Japan and one from China. What, however, Sir John actually did say was:

"Not only have we now sent duly authorized observers out there, but we have also arranged to put a high Japanese authority and a high Chinese authority on the spot"

Carlisle Bargeron

YOU know, it may come out of the present fight on the securities bill that the measure was misapplied, at that. Maybe it should have been applied to the Government instead of the industrialists and bankers.

If there is one clear stream running through the plaint that is pouring into The Post against the bill it is that the measure has caused stagnation of the long-term securities market. On the question that there is a stagnation it is my understanding that there is agreement on the part of the financiers and the Government. I believe, in fact, that figures amply prove this.

BARGERON.

The difference between the Administration and the financiers is on the question of where the responsibility lies.

* * * *

The financiers say with the securities bill. The Administration replies that this is the bunk, that the reason there is no activity in the long-term securities marts is that there is no demand. We are, in short, overbuilt, contends the Administration. The situation would not be materially changed were the securities act to be altogether repealed.

There is this much to be said for the Administration's attitude: If this act does prevent our industrial and financial leaders from doing something they want to do it is the first one, in my ken, that does so. Whatever becomes of it then, it should be placed in the Congressional Library as unique in that respect.

All my knowledge and association with these gentlemen has taught me that while they made their bitter fights against what they considered inimical legislation—after it had been enacted—they, with the aid of their high-priced lawyers, readjusted themselves without any trouble at all.

If they can not do it in this instance it would seem to be quite an important matter for the American Bar Association because it strikes at the vitals of the legal profession. I mean to say that if three or more young brilliants of the Brain Trust here have written a law that the industrialists' lawyers can't get around, then the law business in this country is on the wane.

* * * *

Why, I have heard industrialists explain many times, before Congressional committees in some instances that they decided first upon what they wanted to do and then called in their lawyers to ask them how it could be legally done. In the matter of the antitrust laws this legal service was given free by the Government in the Coolidge administration through Mr. Bill Donovan, Assistant Attorney General.

It caused consternation in the lawyers' ranks and I suppose that is the reason it was cut out in the Hoover regime.

Looking at the present fight in this light, then, my sympathies lean toward the Administration.

But if we accept the Administration's contention, there would seem to be no need for the application of the law to industry. Mind you, the Administration says the situation would not be materially changed if there were no securities' act, that there would be no activity in the securities field. Well, if it isn't silly to have a law for something that doesn't exist, I'll eat my hat.

There is admittedly plenty of activity, though, on the part of the Government in the securities field. It floats new issues frequently; it lends money to banks, to railroads; it puts out money to the farmers, to FERA workers and for PWA projects. Just now it is preparing to extend its financial operations to private business.

And you have only to read any orthodox financial writer, or listen to any orthodox financial talker to appreciate that grave abuses are being practiced upon the investing public. As a matter of fact, I myself recall when the Treasury was issuing securities bearing the gold clause when we had already gone off the gold standard. I should think, too, that our two budgets must be deceiving to the poor innocent investor.

Perhaps it is the Treasury to which the securities act should apply.

Cumberland K. T. Install Officers

Cumberland, Md., April 6 (Spl.). New officers of Antioch Commandery, Knights Templar, have been installed, as follows:

F. Earl Kreitzburg, Frostburg, eminent commander; Frederick G. Dodge, generalissimo; Grant A. Weibel, captain general; Kinsey A. Wolfe, senior warden; H. E. Barbehenn, junior warden; William L. Morgan, prelate; D. H. Bauer, treasurer; Allan B. Spier, recorder; Henry Vogel, sword bearer; H. U. F. Piurhuts, standard bearer; M. E. Robinette, M. W. Grove and William E. Landefeld, guards; H. Loren Elliott, sentinel. Dr. G. Frank Malin is the retiring commander. The officers were installed by Past Commander Allan B. Spier, assisted by Past Commander C. W. Donnelly as marshal.

"Roanoke Day" Planned Again by City Groups

Roanoke, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—"Roanoke Day" will be observed by local merchants again this year May 8. The event is sponsored by the chamber of commerce, the Retail Merchants Association and the Merchants Protective Association.

Tear Gas Used In Mine Strike

Pickets Dispersed After Beating Miners; 3 Men Jailed.

Clarksburg, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.). Tear-gas bombs were used today by sheriff's officers to quell a fight between pickets and miners in the northern West Virginia coal fields, while a report of an attack on a mine superintendent led to additional State troopers being sent to the Logan coal fields.

Tear-gas bombs were hurled by sheriff's deputies in dispersing 400 pickets at the Consolidation Coal Co.'s Jordan mine in Marion County after they clashed with miners.

A number of pickets were beaten and three participants in the fight arrested. Jordan miners have been on a strike several days.

Operators assert that it is impossible to operate under the $5 scale agreed upon for the Appalachian field in recent Washington coonferences.

Sheriff Homer E. Toothman said the situation is under control.

Deputies Earl Watkins, B. B. Garrett and Felix Yanero were burned but not seriously, when wind blew tear gas on them. Arrested were John Ellison, fire boss; Michael Sabo and James Austin, colored.

On report that J. H. Ford, a mine superintendent, was beaten by strikers in Logan County, additional State troopers were moved there.

Burial Is Planned For Blast Victim

Alcohol Explosion Fatal to Baltimore Man.

Baltimore, April 6 (Spl.).—Funeral of Joseph T. England, jr., 23, a graduate of the Johns Hopkins University, who was fatally burned in an explosion in his apartment in New York last night, was being planned today by his family here.

His grandmother, Mrs. Mary Rhette Miller, 60, was critically injured in the blast, and is under treatment in New York. Young England's father is Joseph Townsend England, Baltimore attorney and chairman of the Olympic track committee. The son was living with his grandmother. Last night he attempted to seal a 5-gallon can of alcohol with wax. The hot wax ignited fumes from the alcohol and caused the blast.

Young England's fiancee, a young woman employed in a Baltimore bank, rushed to New York to see him before he died, but she was too late.

Methodists Open Session Tuesday

Moorefield District Parley Set at Cumberland.

Debt Figure False, Auction Canceled

Fairmont Owners Save Property.

Fairmont, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.). Orders have been received from the State Board of Control canceling a public auction of the old Fairmont State Normal School property on the South Side, considered one of the most valuable blocks of realty in the city.

The action followed detection of a bookkeeping error which listed a defaulted debt of $25,000 instead of $2,500. After construction of a larger school, the old normal square was purchased by a group of real estate men. The error resulted in advertising of the public sale on April 7.

After an investigation, M. E. Ashcraft, representative of the owners and the old First National Bank of Fairmont, showed the State board that the larger sum was not due and that the owners could raise the smaller sum.

Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Daughter

By Robert Quillen

My dear Louise:

This letter may seem premature, but it isn't.

Many an ornery husband and many a worthless wife are that way because they were insufficiently spanked at the age of six.

Early training is the kind that counts, for the sooner you learn a right way, the less danger there is of learning a wrong one.

Assuming, then, that you may in time attempt the great adventure of matrimony, I wish to give you a bit of equipment that will serve you well in the region of storms and shipwreck.

One marriage in each seven ends in tragedy.

The chief cause of failure is money, and that is another way of saying that a proper understanding and adjustment of the money question will do much to insure success.

I suppose the ideal arrangement is for young people to start out with nothing except health and ambition and together work their way up to independence and security.

But the first part of the plan is ideal only when the last part is sure to follow.

There isn't any fun in poverty, and a girl is foolish to marry a man who can't take care of her as well as she could take care of herself.

It is an old-fashioned idea, but still the most satisfactory arrangement, for the man to make the money while the woman makes the home.

It isn't a happy arrangement, however, unless the woman plays fair.

A man expects the worth of his money, in this as in other matters. He may not express the thought in words, but if his mate fails to do her part he is likely to say to his soul: "What am I getting for all I give? What did I gain by marrying? Life has cheated me."

And when he feels that way, he begrudges the money his wife spends and there is vulgar argument and strife.

Assuming that you get a man with a generous heart and the instincts of a gentleman, you have only to do as much for him as he does for you and there will be no talk of "mine" and "thine," but only of "ours."

Of course your kindnesses will bring no reward if he is a "tightwad," but that kind of creature is a selfish primitive, not a gentleman, and should be avoided as a pestilence.

Love,

DAD.

Daily Talk About Books and Authors.

America's Most Precocious Poet.

The fact that many poets have written great poetry before reaching the voting age is not a sign of precocity; if a man has not written great poetry early in life, he probably will not write it later. But a truly precocious poet is one who writes maturely when hardly more than a child. Thousands of little children write verses that have good meter and good rhyme; such an accomplishment is so common that it is not even worthy of comment.

Of all American poets to whom the word precocious can accurately be given, the most extraordinary is William Cullen Bryant. His career is one of the longest on record. He actually published poetry during the administration of Thomas Jefferson and of Rutherford B. Hayes. His period of productivity extended over 70 years.

When Jefferson was President, he and his policies were hated by the people of New England; and in 1808, at the age of 13, Bryant published a volume containing a long satire in verse on the President of the United States. To show the cheek of this boy, we find in reading the poem that he called on Jefferson to resign. Here is a specimen of his feelings and of his talent:

Go, wretch, resign the Presidential chair,
Disclose thy secret measures, foul or fair.
Go, search with curious eye for horned frogs,
'Mid the wild wastes of Louisianian bogs;
Or, where Ohio rolls his turbid stream,
Dig for huge bones, thy glory and thy theme.

Bryant was ridiculing the President's interest in natural history.

It is an interesting comment on the taste of the times in New England that this poem went into a second edition.

Only four or five copies of the first edition are known, and to show how rare books increase in value, in 1877 a copy was sold for $17 and in 1911 the same copy fetched $3,350. The second edition had a preface stating that Bryant really was the author, that he was 13, and that he lived in Cummington, Mass.

In later years Bryant became a Democrat, and an admirer of Jefferson, and cared as little for the ideas in his boyish poem as he did for their expression.

Bristol Will Get Fraternity Meet

Intermont Delegates Win Other Session Honors.

Bristol, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—The National convention of Phi Rho Pi, honorary forensic society for junior colleges, will bring 200 people to Bristol next spring.

Virginia Alpha Chapter of the society here presented the invitation to the National group at Independence, Kans., last Friday, Miss Elizabeth Goetchius making the address of invitation.

In addition to winning the meeting for Bristol, the Virginia Intermont delegation to Kansas saw its coach, Prof. Roy C. Brown, reelected National president; Misses Elizabeth Goetchius and Helen Gibberson win a cup for second place in the National debating tournament for women; Miss Goetchius take first place in extemporaneous speaking, and Miss Martha Flint, fourth in oratory.

9 Warrants Issued Under Sales Tax

New West Virginia Law Is Violated, State Charges.

Wheeling, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.). First prosecutions under the 2 per cent consumers' sales tax were started here today with the issuance of nine warrants against the Wheeling branch of the D. A. Schulte & Co., Inc., cigar store, its manager and a clerk.

Three different sales are alleged to have been made without collection of the tax, and each will be prosecuted as a separate offense, according to W. C. Piper, assistant prosecutor.

Shirley Expects Easy Gas Buying

Code-Law Conflict Called Little Handicap.

Richmond, April 6 (AP).—After an all-day conference with oil company representatives, Henry G. Shirley, State highway commissioner, announced yesterday that he expected to secure large quantities of gasoline for State use with little difficulty.

A hitch in the procedure of contracting for $300,000 worth of the fuel developed several weeks ago through a conflict between the oil code and the State law covering purchases.

The oil code forbids companies to contract for gas at a flat rate while the State law requires purchases to be made under competitive sealed bids.

Wythe County Pair's Slaying Trial Is Set

Bristol, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Held in the Bristol, Va., jail since their indictment in January by the Wythe County, Va., grand jury, Henry Bausell and his son, Bernace Bausell, will be removed to Wytheville prior to April 16, first day of the April term of the court.

The Bausells are charged with the murder of T. E. Cornett, Wythe County farmer, and his daughter, Virginia Bausell, the estranged wife of Bernace Bausell, in a shooting affray near Rural Retreat.

No End of Books

By

Theodore Hall

STEFAN ZWEIG, to whom "conciseness has always seemed the most essential problem in art," fills his latest volume—"Kaleidoscope" (Viking, $3)—with 13 garrulous and loosely woven stories.

Relativity makes the paradox. Compared with the run-of-the-mine mid-continental stories, these by the author of "Marie Antoinette" and "Amok" start hard and sure, hold clean and fast to their momentum. Yet in England and France, more certainly in this country, the structure he so fondly clings to was abandoned, roughly, about 1890. Type form of opening, which I paraphrase and condense: "I was in a little hotel in Vienna in the spring of 1918 when I met a most interesting character." Then the character tells the story. Type form of ending, which I quote: "He who has grasped the human in himself understands all mankind." Shade of Mary Wilkins Freeman and William Dean Howells!

STEFAN ZWEIG

* * * *

But for all his uneconomical prologue and high-flown epilogues, Zweig manages to get inside his characters. In a word which I had hoped never to use in a review, and use here only because it fits so precisely, he is sympathetic. Sometimes this sympathy with his characters is about as retiring and implicit as a 40-foot billboard. "Ah, little man," Zweig seems to say, and literally does say several times, "how well I, with my sensitive heart, understand you!" If you can forgive the mannerism, you will find he succeeds.

He is at his best with the young and the lowly—a dead give-away of his rather condescending literary pose. The 12-year-old boy, baffled by something he does not comprehend, trying to save his mother from the philandering baron; the two little girls perplexed by a time-honored difficulty which overtakes their governess; the shabby, persevering pickpocket; the gaunt, spinster maid-servant who is warmed by the mere kindness of her master—these are finely done. Even when his characters are more advantageously placed in life, Zweig finds no interest in them until they are oppressed, distraught, somehow entangled. Then the author comes forward, solves the complication (often with a flat O. Henry touch), and makes pious remarks.

* * * *

I seem to be showing more spleen than I intended. For while reading the tales, I was immersed and thoroughly convinced. Zweig is patient and artful enough to cover the reader with words: there is no rising for air. Yet from the vantage of dry land, the tales all appear of an obvious and not too distinguished a type.

Persecution by fate is their single and relentless theme. As if afraid that we might miss the point, he seldom refrains from stating it. The meteor, he ends one tale, plunged down, "driven by a blind force, as our lives are driven into the abysses of unknown destinies."

For that human "transitoriness and oblivion" he has the utmost sympathy. But it is the sympathy of a man who moves self consciously among his characters like Haroun al-Raschid, incognito, then goes back to his hotel, has a good dinner, and writes it up.

When a special act of Congress forbade Herbert C. Yardley to publish his sequel to "The American Black Chamber," a first rate exposition of the art of cryptography in war, he turned to fiction.

"The Blonde Countess" (Longmans, $2) tells of the plots and counterplots of the wife of the "Scandinavian Ambassador" and an American secret agent in war-time Washington. Local readers will find the tale rather ordinary. I wish Capt. Yardley could go back to his field, where he was unbeatable.

Lillian D. Wald, who ranks with Jane Addams in American social service work, founded the famous Henry Street Settlement in 1893. In "The House on Henry Street" she began her story. Now, in "Windows on Henry Street" (Little, Brown, $3), she continues the tale from 1915 to date. It is an important and moving record, written with the rare charm of sincerity.

That irrepressible yet always apologetic lay-preacher, Vash Young, tells how he learned to say "no" to the offer of a drink, how he learned not to think too much about money, and what religion means to him, in "No, Thank You" (Bobbs-Merrill, $1.50). You find the tone in this quotation: "The big thing is to get on the fine highway of constructive life." He's all set for you to take before each meal with a glass of water.

Col. E. Alexander Powell, war correspondent and political observer for 30 years, gives his balanced opinion of Nazidom in "The Long Roll on the Rhine" (Macmillan, $2.50).

The book hits hard at flabby, hysterical thinking on both sides. Conditions in Germany, he says, spring directly from blunders of the Allied statesmen at Versailles. Then he proceeds to settle more questions than I thought possible for one man.

Christ Exalts Children

Simplicity Idealized by Messiah in Holding Up Childhood as Example for Men; False Notes in Modern Life Traced to Pretenses.

By William T. Ellis.

What an upside down philosophy Jesus taught! I have just laid down the morning paper, to take up this lesson passage, and the contrast startles me. Pages and pages of the paper are filled with "society news." They chronicle the unimportant and monotonous doings of hundreds of "leading" persons of whom I had never before heard. The one consistent note is the effort to exalt the importance of the figures written about. Modern society's code is "He that is greatest among you is he"—or, usually, she—"who is mentioned oftenest in the society notes."

Down here in Florida, where I am writing at the moment, it is the daily usage for a procession of figures to march across the newspaper pages, each labelled "leading," "important," or "great." That is the world's way. "Assert yourself. Magnify your own importance. Boast of your claims to distinction. Show yourself superior to the common herd. Put up a 'front.' Dress like a million dollars, even though your meager bank account be overdrawn. Seem, seem, seem."

Entirely different was the Jesus way. When even His own followers contended for superiority and rank, He set a little child in the midst of them and said that childlikeness was the proof of greatness. What a complete reversal of the world's established notions! From the head-hunter of the jungle, whose distinction is the number of human heads hanging in his hut, to the bedizened emperor on his golden throne, the rule of life always has been self-exaltation, ostentation, pride. And Jesus dared to say that this philosophy is utterly wrong.

World Sickens of Tinsel.

Who is right, the society editor or the Nazarene? Which is really greater, simplicity or sophistication? Sincerity or affectation? Modesty or ostentation? Humility or pride? Teachableness or cock-sureness? Verity or vanity? Candor or cunning?

Of late, we have been rapidly revising our standards of what constitutes leadership. Perhaps we shall go all the way to the radicalism of Jesus, who proclaimed that the bedrock virtures on which life may best be built are those of the unspoiled child. "There is nothing so great as simple naturalness," a Vice President of the United States once said to me.

Men's eyes are being opened to the paramountcy of the eternal integrities and simplicities. Our tinsel times have satisfied nobody; why not try the Jesus way of genuineness, candor, teachableness and lovableness? The open mind of childhood, its natural democracy and freedom from prejudice, its trustfulness and guilelessness, have been carried on into maturity by the few really great ones of the race. There is a greatness in simple sincerity which no amount of worldly cunning can imitate. Not the "smart Aleck," but the genuine soul which has preserved the essential qualities of childhood, is the one who commands our confidence and esteem.

Liberator of Children.

In addition to establishing the childhood heart as the norm of greatness, Jesus proceeded to set forth a new Bill of Rights for children. No student of history, and of comparative religions, can deny that Jesus has been the emancipator of childhood and womanhood. Their place in society is different where Christian standards prevail.

One who knows, for instance, the child-labor of non-Christian lands—tots of 8, 10 and 12 years of age, toiling 12 and 15 hours a day—understands that even the most reprehensible conditions of child labor in America were far in advance of the usage of the Orient. And with the quickening of the Christian conscience which is so manifest today, it is becoming illegal for any child below the period of adolescence to be a toiler.

Over all the modern educational system might well be written, "Founded in the name and spirit of Jesus Christ." Educators who have led in the development and enrichment of child life have themselves been led by the ideals of childhood's best Friend. Child-health and child-recreation movements derive directly from the Master, who was first to set a child in the midst of men as their ideal, and who sensationally identified Himself with the welfare of little children.

"Heaven dwells about us in our infancy." Children are instinctively religious. Patterson Dubois tells, in his book, "Beckonings From Little Hands," how he found, crudely printed in a notebook kept by his 6-year-old daughter, the words "God is love. He loves lambs.' Many a profound sermon has not got so far into the divine truth as that.

Stern Words to Parents.

One of the favorite pictures on the walls of my home is the etching by the English artist, lately deceased, Edward Sullivan. It shows Jesus addressing a mixed oriental multitude by the Lake of Galilee.

His wind-blown figure, with hair and cloak flying, is singularly strong and assured. While He talks to the oldsters, a group of children are playing confidently and familiarly about Him. One holds each hand; another clasps His knee and another peeps from behind the shelter of His robe. The etching powerfully conveys the feeling of the intimacy of the children with this Teacher. They were His familiars. Of other grown-ups they might be shy, but Jesus they knew as their Friend.

Stern and stupendous were the words of Jesus about little children. No modern reformer or educator has ever matched His blazing zeal. He said, to officious adults who would hinder the bringing of little ones to His presence, "Suffer the little children, and forbid them not, to come unto Me: for to such belongeth the kingdom of heaven." As one child is reported to have given the verse: "Let all the children come to Me, and don't anybody try to stop them." Because of the dearness of children to Jesus, they have become more precious in the eyes of parents and the world. All of the great Sunday School movement, with its many millions of members, is but a concrete expression of the text, "Suffer Little Children."

A Key to Christ's Meaning.

Our minds nowadays incline to emphasize the radical social philosophy of Jesus, as the only adequate teaching for our troubled time; but I am not sure that He may not better be understood as the friend of little children. There is more significant truth in what the children thought of Him than in what the Scribes and Pharisees said. I once head the late James A. Worden declare: "That judgment which little children have of you may be taken as a slice of the great Judgment Day."

Normally gentle as a dove, Jesus was ferocious as a mother lion when He poured out maledictions upon the heads of those who despoil or debauch childhood. "It is profitable for him that a great millstone should be hanged about his neck, and that he should be sunk in the depths of the sea." I wonder if Jesus was looking ahead to the makers of foul motion pictures, to the publishers of obscene literature and pictures, and to the tellers of vile stories?

In a magnificent figure, Christ identified Himself peculiarly with childhood's cause. "Whoso shall receive one such little child in My name receiveth Me." And "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these, ye have done it unto Me." To serve childhood is to serve Christ; to acquire the childlike heart is to learn Christliness.

But man as man thy brother call,
And scatter like the circling sun
Thy charities on all.—Schiller.

Culbertson on Bridge

1007.

A Bad Blunder.

If universal perfection were achieved in the bidding and play of Contract Bridge hands, the game would lose much of its interest and glamour. For every difficult contract made by virtue of some brilliant squeeze, coup or end-play, there is another one that is made because of some bad blunder on the part of the opponents.

On today's hand, the play of which I recently watched in a rubber game at Crockford's Club, New York, the West player at Trick 2 made a very bad blunder which not only cost him a trick, but in addition gave the Declarer a very valuable card of reentry to Dummy, enabling him to fulfill a contract which should have been defeated two or three tricks.

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2NT (1) | Pass | 3NT (2) | Pass |
| | Pass | Pass | |

1—Not a good bid. Despite the possession of five honor-tricks, one diamond is the correct call on this hand. South, however, a very strong player, was playing with a weak, unaggressive partner, and for this reason decided to open with two notrump as the best method of getting to a game with himself as Declarer.

2—The possession of an Ace is sufficient justification for raising an original two-notrump bid to three.

West's Opening lead was the diamond Queen, a low card was played from Dummy, East dropped the nine and the Declarer unhesitatingly played the four. West fell for this play, hook, line and sinker. Because of his partner's play of the nine-spot and the fact that the deuce did not appear, he placed the King in his partner's hand. Therefore, to prevent Dummy's eight from providing an additional stopper in the suit, he continued with his six of diamonds, expecting his partner's King to force Declarer's Ace. The seven was played from Dummy and to the Declarer's great joy it held the trick, the missing deuce naturally being played from South's own hand. The nine of clubs was now led from Dummy and passed, and since East very fortunately held both the Queen and Knave, the nine won the trick. Another club was led, and although this time East split his equals, Dummy's Ace of hearts provided an additional reentry for a third club finesse. South therefore was able to fulfill his contract by taking four club tricks, three diamonds and two heart tricks.

Had West not fallen for the Declarer's false-card and holdup, the contract could not have been made. As a matter of fact, a heart shift at Trick 2 by West and perfect subsequent defense will defeat the contract not one trick but either two or three tricks.

Ricalde's Art Earns Praise From Envoy

Young Spanish Barytone Congratulated at Embassy.

Invited as Honor Guest to Latin-American Fete Tonight.

By Evelyn Peyton Gordon.

The Ambassador of Spain, Senor Don Juan Francisco de Cardenas yesterday received at the Embassy and congratulated the talented young Spanish barytone, Senor Orlando Ricalde, who has won great favor in Washington music circles.

Senor Ricalde was born in Santander, Spain, in 1908, the son of Senora Mercedes Ricalde and the late Senor Clement Ricalde.

All of the Ricaldes for generations had been known for their musical abilities, perhaps the most prominent being the elder Senor Clement Ricalde, grandfather of the young barytone, who was mayor of Santander and much sought after at day parties and all social gatherings for his amusing songs.

Student in Engineering.

Young Orlando attended the Industrial School of Engineering in Santander. There the students accorded eager recognition to his vocal talent.

At the death of Senor Clement Ricalde, near the close of the war, young Orlando and his mother came to this country to join an elder son, Senor Raymon Ricalde, who had already made a name for himself in Boston as a tenor—the first of the Ricalde clan to win fame professionally.

In Boston young Orlando, finally heeding the advice of his family and close friends, turned seriously to the study of music, and so was discovered by the famous David Lythgoe, who took a fancy to the young singer and gave him encouragement as well as lessons.

Honor Guest Tonight.

In 1932 Senor Ricalde won the Atwater Kent radio contest and now has put engineering definitely aside to devote himself to music.

This evening he will be the guest of honor at the Latin American night at the Indian Springs Country Club dance. Among the members of the Diplomatic Corps who have been invited to attend are the Ambassador of Argentina and Senora de Espil, the Ambassador of Spain and Senora de Cardenas, the Ambassador of Peru, Senor Don Manuelde Freyre y Santander; the Ambassador of Brazil and Senora de Lima e Silva, the Ambassador of Mexico, Senor Don Fernando Gonzalea Roa; the Minister of Panama and Senora de Alfaro, the Minister of Guatemala and Senora de Recinos, the Charge d'Affaires of Nicaragua and Senora de Bayle, the Charge d'Affaires of Costa Rica and Senora de Gonzalez, the Charge d'Affaires of El Salvador, Roberto M. Melendez; Senor and Senora Julian R. Caceres, of Honduras, and Dr. George Curtiss Keck, of Guatemala City.

Monday Senor Ricalde will sing at a tea to be given by Senora de Cardenas, wife of the Ambassador of Spain. He has selected for the occasion a group of Spanish folk songs which will have special significance for the Embassy guests.

Miss Learnard Becomes Bride

The wedding of Miss Catharine Florida Learnard, daughter of Brig. Gen. Henry Grant Learnard, U. S. A., retired, to Mr. Melville Monroe Menefee, son of Mr. Charles Menefee, of Warrenton, Va., took place yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the rectory of St. Margaret's Church. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate families and a few intimate friends by Dr. Herbert Scott Smith.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a smart tailored frock of royal blue crepe, made on fitted lines with long sleeves and a large black velvet bow at the neck. Her silk turban was of the same shade of blue and had a nose veil of black net. She carried a bouquet of talisman roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Beverly Kehoe, of Warrenton, was the maid of honor. She wore a spring suit of blue and yellow light woolen, and a small blue hat.

Mr. Russell Browning Edwards, of Culpeper, Va., served as best man for Mr. Menefee.

After the ceremony Mr. Menefee and his bride left for a motor trip through the South, after which they will return to Washington to make their home.

Many From Capital See Hunter Trials

Hundreds of members of Washington society will go to Bradley Farms for the Hunter trials today. The first class will start at 1:45 o'clock. Luncheon will be served from 12:30 on at tables on the lawn in front of the clubhouse.

Among those who will entertain at luncheon will be Col. and Mrs. Kenyon Joyce, Capt. and Mrs. J. S. Abbott, Capt. and Mrs. John P. Jackson, Capt. and Mrs. Henry T. Allen, jr., and Mr. Moran McConihe, who will have in his party Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hagner, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Eustis and Mrs. Robert Winmill, of Warrenton, Va., who has entered her hunt team.

Texans Will Honor News Men at Ball

The Texas Club announces a reception and ball to be held at the Shoreham Hotel Wednesday evening at 9:30 o'clock. Members of the Texas Press Association who will be in Washington at that time to call upon the President will be the guests of honor.

The receiving line will be headed by the Vice President and Mrs. John N. Garner, Senator and Mrs. Morris Sheppard and Senator and Mrs. Tom Connally. A program will follow the reception.

First Lady Will Speak at Fifth Book Talk Tea

Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt has accepted the invitation to speak at the fifth of the series of "Book Talk Teas" being presented by the Library Science Class of the Wilson Teachers College, at 4:30 p. m. next Friday. The authors of belles lettres will be the theme for the program.

The Library Science Class has invited Dr. M. Margaret Stroh, the director, and the faculty of the English Department of the College, to assist at the tea. Mr. Wilmer Bennett will be chairman.

Society Awaits Revel Tonight

The day of the bal masque, anticipated for weeks by Capital socity, is here.

This evening the three bachelor secretaries of the Italian Embassy—Signor Bartolomeo Migone, first secretary; Signor Giuseppe Tommasi, and Signor Andrea Ferrero—will be hosts at the celebrated ball, in the beautiful Embassy.

Though the party is unofficial, members of the Diplomatic Corps and official society are among the several hundred guests invited. No period was designated for the costumes, but the members of the Embassy staff, and a number of their close friends will dress as a group representing an Italian opera, and will dine together this evening preceding the ball.

Many dinners have been planned by those attending, and enthusiasm runs high in smart circles.

The ball originally was set for March 3, but was postponed because of court mourning for King Albert of Belgium.

Mr. Wolcott Clarke Waggaman, by profession a mere architect, but an ingenious fellow with costumes, too, has been busy helping his friends plan their attire.

Costumes are coming with out-of-town guests from New York and other cities, many of them having made previous appearances at the Beaux Arts Ball in New York, and the Everglades Club costume ball in Palm Beach.

Miss Eleanor Roosevelt, daughter of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Henry L. Roosevelt, will wear a handsome costume lent her by Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean.

Miss Cummings Wedding Today

Miss Edith Cummings, of Lake Forest, Ill., former golf champion and noted society sportswoman and hostess, and Mr. Curtis Burton Munson, of New York and Edmonton, Alberta, mining engineer, will be married quietly at Chicago this afternoon in the town apartment of Mrs. David Mark Cummings, mother of the bride-to-be, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Miss Cummings, daughter of the late David Mark Cummings, capitalist, has been one of the most popular girls in Chicago society since her debut in 1919.

In 1923 she was United States National women's golf champion and Western champion the next year. She has followed the hounds in Virginia and South Carolina, shot grouse in Scotland, hunted in Hungary and brought down big game in the Yukon.

She also has gone in for interior decorating, having been connected with a New York firm for a year. She is well known in Palm Beach, Jamaica, Arizona and European smart resorts. At home she has been hostess to many well-known people.

The bridegroom-to-be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Munson, of New York, and the grandson of the late Andrew McKee, of Pittsburgh. He was graduated from Yale in 1916 and served as an officer in the World War. He has mining interests in several parts of the country, including southern Illinois and Edmonton, Alberta.

Small Budgets Get Field Day At This Sale

These Household Items Will Delight Housewife's Soul.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

EVERY HOUSEWIFE knows it's the small items that break her budget. Those odds and ends that cost little in themselves average up to a startling amount over the course of a month.

And yet it's these small things that make the household wheels turn smoothly. Because they are essential and they do mount up, a sale on household major and minor items is of first importance to housekeepers.

A local store has cut its prices on all kinds of items. Packages of paper cups, napkins, and soda straws that formerly sold for 10 cents each are now four for 25 cents.

Oil paper, handy for keeping lunches and sandwiches fresh for several hours, are four packages for 25 cents. Baking cups come 100 in a package. These will save an inestimable amount of labor; fitted into muffin or biscuit grooves, they prevent the necessity of greasing and the subsequent washing and scraping. Besides, in the process of cooking and after the tidbits are taken from the oven and placed on top to stay warm, these cups help keep them moist and fresh.

The few odd cents it's possible to save at this sale may not seem a lot, but a list made out at regular prices compared with a list at sale prices will tell the tell.

A Quick Dryer.

Few waves, natural or otherwise, will continue to be well-groomed without care. If a woman will take a few minutes off once or twice a week to set her wave, she will have her reward in its smooth and even appearance.

An F street shop has a wave fluid which dries very quickly, manufactured by an old and reliable concern. This enables a woman to set her hair while she's dressing without having to wait for it to dry before she goes out.

The fluid is neither sticky nor oily, and does not leave a flaky residue. And, according to the manufacturers, it gives the hair a lustrous glow.

* * * *

Simple, but Handy.

One of the nicest little household items we've noticed in a long time is a fruit juice strainer which fits over any size tumbler, and costs only 10 cents.

* * * *

They Sound Ideal.

Shower curtains made of a water-repellent silk not only look good, but are good. They hang in graceful folds from the shower rod by means of concealed bronze hooks which neither rust nor stain. The curtains don't rot or become mildewed as water will not soak into them.

If they become soiled it's a simple matter to put them in the wash tub and give them a thorough rub-down. This won't injure the goods in the slightest.

These curtains are being shown here in a downtown store for the first time. They may be bought in white, orchid, rose or green.

* * * *

Plays Double Role.

Watches which are also clocks are among the most interesting novelties now in town. These are flat enamel disks with hands inclosed inside the glass and numbers printed on the outside rim. They were designed to fit into pockets or purses, or to sit, clocklike on a little stand which comes with them. They're of a well known make and bear the manufacturer's one-year guarantee.

* * * *

* * * *

The Drumstick Line.

The spring cosmetic parade boasts an imported lipstick in red, white and blue case of drum design. It is manufactured by a French concern which has long had a following among women in this country.

The line also carries dusting and talcum powder, these inclosed in drum cases too.

The buyer of the department says many of her customers have found the powders much to their husbands' taste because of the almost imperceptible fragrance.

* * * *

Chipped China Not a Loss.

Chipped china or glassware needn't be a total loss. A local shop specializes in mending and grinding such pieces to restore them to their former glory.

Numerous china closets have in the midst of their splendid collection many plates, platters, pitchers and glasses which are broken or chipped. If the owners will wrap them carefully and bring them to this shop, an expert will be glad to talk the matter over and advise about mending. The prices are reasonable and the results most satisfactory.

Alligator Pear Is Basis Of Many Tasty Salads

By Ann Barrett.

EVEN IF YOU just pit an alligator pear and serve half of it with sharp French dressing in the center—you have an elegant salad. One that rates first with the distinguished Minister to Denmark, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen.

But if you want to make it into more decorative salads, the alligator pear when thoroughly ripe and very cold is most agreeable.

First, in the matter of richness and smooth, compact texture—which offset perfectly the juicy tartness of oranges, grapefruit, lemons, limes and tomatoes. Second, in its delicate coloring—which contrasts so pleasingly with foods of deeper color such as tomato, pimento, orange, shrimp, watercress. Third, in its bland flavor which makes friends instantly with such peppy seasonings as onion, garlic, cayenne pepper and tabasco.

How to Combine.

Just how to combine these ingredients with the pear itself depends on the occasion and your own taste. For example, a half pear—heaped up with orange and grapefruit salad—would be hearty enough for the main dish of a luncheon. But for dinner three or four slices of pear stripped of skin before slicing and the same number of oranges or grapefruit sections would be plenty. And these might be alternated in overlapping slices. Or arranged like the spokes of a wheel. Or the pear might be cut into neat cubes. Or cut into balls with French cutter. Such cubes or balls of pear look especially pretty in the center of a triangle formed by three half-slices of tomato, arranged with the rounded edges out.

French Dressing Best.

As for the dressing to serve on these salads, most people like a good sharp French dressing best, as the pear itself is so rich. Say a French dressing made of half oil and half lemon, lime or grapefruit juice, dash of onion juice and tabasco sauce. The mashed pulp of the pear itself makes a good substitute for oil in this dressing.

Or here's another good dressing: 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons pineapple juice, 2 tablespoons catsup, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 or 4 drops tabasco sauce, ¼ cup drained crushed pineapple and ½ cup salad oil. Just put this into a jar and shake till blended. And don't hesitate about the pineapple and catchup getting together in this blending. It's grand! The best salad I know of to serve that dressing on is: 2 cups cubed alligator pear, 1 cup quartered shrimps, 1 cup celery (sliced very thin).

Avocado Cocktail.

Alligator pears are as delicious in a cocktail as in a salad, and here's how to turn the trick: First peel two pears and cut them into cubes or balls. Mix them with 2 tablespoons lemon juice and ¼ teaspoon salt, and chill thoroughly. Then mix this with the following sauce (also very cold) and serve in cocktail glasses: ½ cup mayonnaise, 2-3 cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ cup chili sauce, ½ teaspoon grated onion, 1 hard-cooked egg (minced), ⅛ teaspoon salt, 2 or 3 drops tabasco.

Cake Receives Week's Prize

At last spring is here. And one of the nicest things about spring is the advent of strawberries.

It is true that strawberries are not always so plump and juicy during the early spring as they are later in the season, but the old familiar flavor is there just the same.

After you've waited all winter for that delicious strawberry short cake topped with lots of cream, almost any kind of strawberries are welcome.

A recipe for old fashioned strawberry short cake received from Elizabeth Owens, of 802 Philadelphia avenue, Silver Spring, Md., has been awarded the weekly $5 prize.

Miss Owens' recipe follows:

Strawberry Short Cake.

2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons butter
1 egg
½ cup milk
1 cup thick cream
1 quart strawberries

Sift and measure flour. Then add salt and baking powder and sift together well. Add sugar and cut in the butter. Beat egg and milk together and add to dry ingredients. Roll out to ¼ inch in thickness and cut into 12 rounds. Brush half of the biscuits with melted butter, and then place the others on top in sandwich fashion. Bake in a hot oven from 12 to 14 minutes.

Wash and pick over the strawberries, crush them and add sugar to suit your taste. Place berries between and on top of the short cake, and pass the cream at serving.

The Dragon Murder Case

By S. S. Van Dine

Chapter XXVI.
The End of the Case.

Vance again sipped his champagne.

"How Stamm inveigled Greeff into the vault is something we'll never know. However, it's a point of no importance, for certainly Greeff was in a frame of mind to acquiesce in any suggestion Stamm might have made. Stamm may have told Greeff that he was able to explain Montague's death if the other would go into the vault with him. Or, it may have been a more commonplace invitation—the expression of a desire to inspect the masonry after the heavy rains. But whatever the means used by Stamm, we know that Greeff did enter the vault with him last night. * * *"

"The gardenia, of course—and the bloodstains," Markham murmured. "Oh, yes; it was quite evident. * * * And after Stamm had killed Greeff and mutilated him exactly as he had mutilated Montague, he took him down to the potholes in the wheelbarrow, over the sandy ground along the foot of the cliff, where he would not attract the attention of any guard that might have been stationed on the East road."

Heath gave a gratified grunt.

"And then he left the wheelbarrow in that bunch of trees and pussy-footed back to the house."

Creaking of Hinges.

"Exactly, sergeant. Moreover, the grating metallic noise that Leland heard was obviously the creaking of the rusty hinges of the vault door, and the other sound which Leland described could have been nothing but the wheelbarrow. And, despite all Stamm's caution on re-entering the house, both Leland and Trainor heard him throw the bolt."

Vance sighed.

"It was not a perfect murder, Markham, but it had the elements of perfection in it. It was a bold murder, too; for if either of the murders were solved, both would be solved. It was a double gamble—the placing of two chips, instead of one, on a selected number."

Again Markham nodded somberly.

"That part is clear enough now," he said. "But why should the key to the vault have been found in Tatum's room?"

"That was part of Stamm's fundamental mistake. As I have said, Stamm wsa overcautious. He didn't have the courage to carry through his plot without burning bridges."

"He may have had the key for years, or he may have secured it recently from Mrs. Stamm's trunk. But really, it doesn't mater. Once he had used it for his purpose, he could not throw it away, for obviously he intended to remove the diving suit from the vault when the first opportunity offered. He could have hidden the key in the meantime; but if the diving suit had been discovered in the vault by some one's tearing down a wall or breaking in the door, suspicion would immediately have fallen on him, as it was his own diving suit.

"Therefore, in an effort to protect himself in this remote eventuality, he probably put the key first in Greeff's room, to point to suspicion to Greeff. Then, when the opportunity to murder Greeff arose, Stamm planted the key in Tatum's room. Stamm liked Leland and wanted Bernice to marry him—which, incidentally, was the primary motive for his getting rid of Montague—and he certainly would not have tried to throw suspicion on Leland."

Stamm Lacked Alibi.

But how, in the name of heaven," asked Markham, "did you first hit upon the idea that Stamm was the guilty person? He was the only person in the house that seemed to have a good alibi."

Vance shook his head slowly.

"No, Markham, old dear; he was the only member of the party who did not have an alibi. And it was for that reason that I had my eye on him from the first—although I admit there were other possibilities. Stamm, of course, thought that he had built up a perfect alibi, at the same time hoping that the murder would pass as a mere departure. But when Montague's murder was established, Stamm's position was really weaker than that of any of the others; for he was the only one who was not standing beside the pool at the time Montague dived in."

* * * * *

It was less than a year after these two sinister murders at the old Dragon Pool, with their sequence of tragedies, that Leland and Bernice Stamm were married. They were both strong and, in many ways, remarkable characters; but the memory of the tragedies affected them too deeply for them to remain in Inwood. They built a home in the hills of Westchester, and went there to live. Vance and I visited them shortly after their marriage.

The old Stamm residence was never occupied again, and the estate was acquired by the city and added to what is now Inwood Hill Park.

The house was torn down, and only the crumbling stones of its foundation remain. But the two square stone posts of the entrance gate, which marked the beginning of the driveway from Bolton road, are still standing. The old dragon pool exists no more. The stream that fed it was diverted into Spuyten Duyvil Creek. Its semiartificial bed has been filled in, and what was once the basin of the dragon pool is now overgrown with wild vegetation. It would be difficult today even to trace the course of the old stream or to determine the former boundaries of that sinister and tragic pool.

After the final tragedy and the breaking up of the century-old traditions of the Stamm estate, I often wondered what became of Trainor, the butler, when the doors of the ancient mansion had been closed for all time. Why the memory of the fellow should have remained in my mind, I can not say; but there was in him something at once ghost-like and corporeal, something both pathetic and offensive, which made a strong impression on me, I was, therefore, glad when I recently ran into him.

Vance and I were visiting a tropical fish shop in East Thirty-fourth street; and there, behind the counter, half hidden by the tanks, was Trainor.

He recognized Vance at once and shook his head lugubriously as we approached him.

"I'm not doing so well with my Scatophagus here," he replied. "Not the proper conditions—if you know what I mean, sir."

Food Reduction in Depression Injured Children, Says Doctor

Those of Families Formerly Having Moderate Incomes Suffered More Than Those Unaccustomed to Any Luxuries.

IT WAS THE CHILDREN of the family of moderate income in boom days who suffered first and most during the depression. The wolf knocking loudest at their door was Malnutrition, which passed up many a houseful of children unaccustomed to luxury.

This statement comes from Dr. Estella Ford Warner, National director of child hygiene, and only woman commissioned officer in the United States Public Health Service, who was interviewed at her office yesterday.

Serious Results.

"The sudden and drastic reduction of rations among children used to good food proved a serious thing," she said. "Devastating effects resulted in many instances. Undernourishment followed generally, reaching a higher curve among this group than among any other.

"Respiratory illnesses flourished. Common colds, bronchitis and pneumonia were found here in greater numbers than among children of poorer families."

Holding the enviable commission of "surgeon" in Federal public health service, Dr. Warner, tall, slim and dark-eyed, is the first woman ever to attain this station. Her rank is equivalent to that of major in the Army. And "Major" she is affectionately called by her associates.

Saw War Service.

Just out of the University of Oregon Medical School, Dr. Warner was suddenly bereaved of her young Navy physician husband in 1918. To forget her sorrow in service to others, she enlisted in public health work. She was sent overseas the same year.

Underwood & Underwood.

DR. ESTELLE F. WARNER holds ranking equal to that of Army major.

In France, under the direction of the Y. W. C. A. health unit, she acted in an advisory capacity to staffs of nurses and physical education instructors. Their work was among war-ridden orphans and expectant mothers.

Son she was able to leave this work in capable hands, and set out alone for Northern Russia. With no professional help she opened a dispensary at Archangel. Organizing a staff of ten lay workers, she gave them a course in practical nursing and began six months of tireless work among the refugees.

Studies Pediatrics.

Then the British evacuated the territory and she returned to London.

In 1920, she was invited to return to her home State as director of child hygiene in the Portland department of health. She accepted. Soon afterward she was promoted to the State department of health.

Soon she moved higher. She was appointed director of the famous Marion County child health demonstration, sponsored by the Commonwealth fund. Her program here was brilliant and original, and the name of Dr. Estelle Ford Warner became a synonym for child health.

In 1931, the U. S. Public Health Service borrowed her as consultant in child hygiene. While here, she took the examinations for a commission service. She emerged with flying colors and the enviable rank of surgeon.

Do-Dads Dead, Industrial Arts Exhibit Proves

Decoration All Utilitarian Now, Where Design Is Concerned.

New York, April 6 (AP).—Do-dads are dead so far as the new thought in design is concerned, and little that is not utilitarian remains on things for the home or office, it is demonstrated at the Industrial Arts Exposition.

Gardens and bathrooms are built in sections so they can be changed at will to suit the needs or whims of the owner.

Swings, chairs, beds and tables are made with metal tubes. Artists say the metal bed of tubes is the last stage in the evolution of the old iron bedstead.

Floor and reading lamps have traveled far in evolving from old gas lamps, a greater distance than the automobile has gone from the horse and buggy.

Little end tables made in metal and glass make the artist rave and the housewife exult over cleaning possibilities.

Dishes are of glass in colors which mass production had not spread over the general market before.

Clocks, a pet field of designers for several years, turned up at the exposition in queer patterns.

Kitchen ware designers apparently have gone through the modern field and returned to the old-fashioned designs, with many utensils of the hand-made and rough-finish type.

One designer presented a set of dishes made from a mold used for casting dishes 60 years ago.

Bars for the home are of fantastic design, far from the simplicity of the other objects in the exposition.

The fever for newness in design goes even to cans and boxes on the grocery shelf; professional designers are persuading merchants they can increase sales merely by changing the traditional carton of their product.

Dealer Obtains Book Bargain

One of Washington's Books Bought at Auction for $7,700.

New York, April 6 (U.P.).—George Washington, methodical as always, inscribed the fly leaf of his new "History of the Reign of the Emperor Charles," with his name in neat, legible script. Largely because of that fact, the four-volume work has been sold for $7,700 to A. J. Scheur, a dealer who was pleased with his bargain. Books from the first President's library rarely appear in auction sales.

The item was one in a long list of valuable documents, books and manuscripts from the library of the late W. K. Bixby of St. Louis, sold at auction at the public galleries.

A presentation copy of Hawthorne's "The Scarlet Letter," brought $2,600. This copy of the first issue of the Hawthorne work was one of the choicest copies which has appeared at auction, having all the required textual points, with the appearance of being unread from the day of publication to the present time.

The copy, presented by Hawthorne to George W. Mallet, evidently was stored away for safety. It was bought by Charles Sessler.

A copy of one of the typographical masterpieces of the nineteenth century, the Kelmscott Press edition of the works of Chaucer bound in white pigskin by the Doves Bindery, went to Lewis Hatch for $1,500.

A fifteenth century French illuminated manuscript, "Book of Hours," was bought by D. A. Crowley for $725. William Cannes gave $675 for a copy of the first edition of Eugene Field's "Tribune Primer."

Women's City Club Chooses Candidates

Candidates for president of the Women's City Club for the next club year are Mrs. John S. Bennett and Mrs. Grattan Kerans. The election will be held May 2.

First vice president, Mrs. Dorothy K. Butler and Mrs. Gladys Ball Middlemiss; recording secretary, Mrs. D. Hugh Mathews and Mrs. Frank G. Stewart; directors (five to be elected), Mrs. Frank G. Birgfeld, Mrs. Clara May Downey, Mrs. Anna Farrar, Miss Helen M. Hawley, Miss Alice M. Heaven, Miss M. Pearl McCall, Miss Ruby Nevins, Judge Mary O'Toole, Mrs. Harry Lee Parkinson, Mrs. Ada Mills Payne and Miss Margaret Vail.

Silent Beauty.

By Katherine Smith.

We are stumbling through the phrases
Mouthed by all the worldly-wise;
We, through many pallid phases
Prattle of a Paradise.

We may prattle now, but later
Words will fail and die as we Find in silence, beauty greater
Than a spoken ecstacy.

Cats Spongers, Men Hate 'Em, Says Terhune

New York, April 6 (Spl.).—"Men hate cats and women love them."

That simple statement, believes Albert Payson Terhune, epitomizes most of the differences of the sexes.

The collier fancier and writer of dog stories then spiced his philosophy of dogs and cats—and possibly of women and men—as follows:

"The cat is the only animal man has never conquered. It is unconquerable. The only way a cat can be trained is by starvation.

"The cat is the only animal that won't do a lick of work. The only work a cat will ever do is something for itself. It is the world's greatest sponger.

"Cats are the most disloyal of all animals. To find a cat with loyalty would be like finding one with five ears. You may have had a cat for years and treated it like a king. I come along with a warmer kitchen and more milk and liver. Your cat will gladly come to my kitchen and desert you."

Asked if dogs were more intelligent than cats, Mr. Terhune replied: "I am an honest man and the answer is 'No.'"

Woman Able to Earn Living Makes Better Wife, Maintains Mrs. Shouse in Radio Broadcast

She Discusses All Careers Except the One of Housewife.

Every day, millions of women read in leading newspapers the doings of distinguished women in Washington who influence the Nation's life and thought. Now The Washington Post, in a new radio feature—"First Ladies of the Capital"—takes these women readers behind the scenes into the secret of how the news is authentically obtained.

Twice weekly, Monday at 11:45 from Station WRC, and Friday at 3 p. m. from Station WMAL, The Post's radio reporter interviews nationally known women over a National Broadcasting Co. network—and the following day the story growing out of that interview is carried on the Woman's Page.

By Margaret Santry.

"CAREERS for women——"

That was the subject under discussion yesterday morning when Mrs. Catherine Filene Shouse was interviewed by The Post's radio reporter over a National Broadcasting Co. network from Station WMAL.

How to be a lady deep-sea diver, a taxidermist, a radio engineer, a horse trainer, a lobbyist, a Congresswoman, an ornithologist, or even a story-teller, were subjects on which Mrs. Shouse spoke with authority, when she appeared as the second personage to be interviewed in The Post's new radio series, "First Ladies of the Capital."

The career of being a housewife, by the way, was omitted. So indeed, was the state of matrimony, regarded by many as the ultimate and only career for women.

Explains Omission.

When taken to task for this, the wife of the former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and executive chairman of the National Democratic committee explained her research in the field of occupational opportunities for women concerned "paid jobs."

"Although housewives," she added, "in expending the family budget probably create most of the jobs discussed in 'Careers for Women' which I have just published."

Mrs. Shouse's appearance before the microphone might have provided a few fashion pointers for her ether audience. She wore a blue worsted spring suit with a white satin Patou blouse and a silver fox. A jaunty red straw hat completed the smart costume.

She proved an able contender with the microphone, although her radio appearance yesterday marked her air debut.

Aiding the "round peg" to avoid the "square hole" has been Mrs. Shouse's purpose in occupational and vocational guidance. Both her new book—a guidebook to the career-ambitious—and her activities in the Institute of Women's Professional Relations, of which she is chairman, are contributions to this purpose.

Only Unequipped Suffer.

When we suggested the unemployment era has changed the question of "choosing" a job to "getting" any job, Mrs. Shouse contended it is only the unequipped who suffer from unemployment.

ASKED IF a career spells happiness for women, Catherine Filene Shouse (above) told The Post's radio reporter that every woman—married or single—should be able to earn a living; it makes her a better wife.

Mrs. Shouse: "Unemployment doesn't affect those who really have something to offer. I think in bad times or good there are more jobs than qualified people to fill them. The greatest unemployment is among those who don't know what they can do, and have no particular training."

Miss Santry: "And the poor, down-trodden consumer eventually bears the burden!"

Mrs. Shouse: "Exactly! And in 80 per cent of the cases this consumer is the housewife who spends the family budget."

Miss Santry: "But, speaking of the availability of jobs for the right people—can you mention some jobs now without people to fill them?"

Mrs. Shouse: "Yes I can. There are not enough teachers of adult education. There are not enough administrators in the educational field, such as school principals, county and State superintendents.

Vocational Guidance Expert Gives Valuable Pointers on Job-Getting.

Also, some of the recovery program projects have been in danger of failure because there were not a sufficient number of qualified women to fill certain positions."

Miss Santry—Such as?

Housekeepers Needed.

Mrs. Shouse—Visiting housekeepers. One city needed 60, and there were not half that many who had training. Also in several cities there is an immediate demand for teachers in nursery schools.

Miss Santry—Those sound like interesting jobs. What are some other fields in which women have a chance for success?

Mrs. Shouse—In the field of dentistry, with excellent remuneration, too.

In explaining how she assembled the material for her book, Mrs. Shouse said she inquired into every field for the name of the most outstanding woman. To this woman she sent an outline which asked her to describe the job, necessary preparation, where such preparation could be obtained, qualifications for success, financial returns and all advantages and disadvantages.

At this point in the interview we felt it time to ask Mrs. Shouse the usual question as to whether she thought a career is the answer to a woman's happiness.

To which she replied, "Every woman, whether married or not, should be able to earn her own living. At least a fling at it will probably make her a better wife."

Does It Help Pensonal Lives?

At the suggestion that many career women are failures in their personal lives, Mrs. Shouse replied this was due to shortsightedness "in allowing all the color to go into their jobs, with none left over for their personal lives."

Which left old debate of career vs. marriage as much an unsolved subject as ever.

But listeners did get a new insight into how to go about avoiding being a "round peg" in a "square hole" in starting out to choose a life work.

Listen Monday at 11:45 a. m. for Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, first woman director of the Mint, who will talk over an NBC network from Station WRC. Read the story the following morning on the Woman's Page.

Her Accurate Prediction of Extraordinary Eclipse Biggest Thrill This Woman Astronomer Ever Had ### Private Observatories Use Statistical Volume She Compiles Yearly.

Home work for the Government is done by few women. But one woman, given opportunity to carry on astronomical computations at home, found time to write scientific articles and books. Now she spends her days in Government service, but still finds time to write.

This is the last in a series of articles telling of women who hold interesting positions with the Government.

By Virginia Lee Warren.

SOME WOMEN writers receive inspiration for their books from travel in exotic lands, from adventures in romance, or from historical events. Mrs. Isabel M. Lewis is probably the only woman who is moved to write a volume every time the sun or moon has an eclipse.

As an astronomer at the Naval Observatory, Mrs. Lewis compiles data to be published by the Government on eclipses and occultations, or the hiding of the stars by the moon. She is also a heavy contributor to a best seller among seamen, aviators and surveyors—the American Nautical Almanac, which is published annually by the Government. In addition, she directs the compiling of a large volume issued every year by the Government, giving detailed information on the positions of the sun, moon and planets, as well as eclipses and occultations.

Private Observatories Use Them.

"There is one of those big books in every privately operated observatory," said Mrs. Lewis yesterday at her office in the Naval Observatory. "Astronomers who are trying to get in touch with Mars and all that sort of thing use our computations."

And it is safe to say all almanacs published in the United States, from heavy, dignified affairs to the ones given away with patent medicines, obtain their data from the large volume compiled by Mrs. Lewis.

The greatest thrill that has come to this woman astronomer was her accurate prediction of the time and path of one of the most unusual eclipses in centuries, the central eclipse of the sun on April 28, 1930, at Honey Lake, Calif.

After elaborate and painstaking calculations, Mrs. Lewis made her predictions. They proved exactly right.

"As the time for the eclipse drew near, I got so excited I decided I would have to go to California and see it," said Mrs. Lewis.

Mrs. Lewis was granted a leave of absence and traveled across the continent to see the sun covered by a shadow for a second or two.

Worried, Then Relieved.

"When I saw all the thousands of people who had gathered in that three-quarters of a pile path to see the eclipse, I thought how terrible it would be if my predictions were wrong. You see, there are many eclipse fans—scientists and astronomers—who come thousands of miles to see the planetary phenomenon. They were depending upon my computations. You can imagine how relieved I was when they proved correct."

Mrs. Lewis' predictions are usually correct. She wouldn't be an astronomer at the Naval Obeservatory if they weren't. But most eclipses are much easier to predict than the very brief one at Honey Lake.

Thousands of Scientists Depend on Her Computations.

She was studying mathematics at Cornell when she became interested in astronomy. She had planned to teach but when she heard the Government was gradually opening up places for women scientists, she enrolled in Cornell's astronomy course.

"I had never been very enthusiastic about teaching anyway," she explained.

After she had received her master's degree in 1905, Mrs. Lewis began looking for a job. She eventually found a place with Simon Newcomb, who was doing research work on the motion of the moon.

Married an Astronomer.

"It was really through his influence I got a place in the Government's Nautical Almanac office," said Mrs. Lewis. She entered that office in 1909 as a computer. Three years later she married Clifford Lewis, an astronomer at the Observatory. Soon after her marriage the computer was promoted to assistant astronomer and was given piecework, which meant she could do most of her work at home.

"That made things very pleasant since I was trying to keep house," said Mrs. Lewis. "It also gave me time to do some writing." First she wrote scientific articles for the New York newspapers. Then she produced three books, "Splendors of the Sky," "Astronomy for Young Folks" and "A Handbook of Solar Eclipses."

She Still Writes.

When Mr. Lewis died in 1927, Mrs. Lewis was given his position at the Observatory. But she still finds time for writing.

Her son, Ray, is now at Cornell and, like his father and mother, is greatly interested in mathematics.

"He thinks he might like to become an astronomer," said Mrs. Lewis. "Of course it would make me very happy if he should decide to go into the work that has given me so much satisfaction and pleasure. And I should certainly advise him to work for the Government if he possibly can. I've enjoyed every minute I've spent at the Naval Observatory."

Feminine Jealousy Drawback To Women Artists, Says Critic

Forbes Watson Believes "Parasites" Resent Workers But That Artists Are Gradually Overcoming This Heavy Handicap.

(By Associated Press.)

THERE HAVE BEEN no feminine Michael Angelos because women are jealous, believes Forbes Watson, art critic.

Not that women artists are jealous of their sisters, but "parasitic" women are jealous of women workers, he says, and on that belief he is willing to break a lance for women painters and sculptors.

Watson does it because he believes serious women artists seem headed for a "new deal" of their own. He is serving as technical director for the CWA art project.

Women Are Emerging.

This flood of new and varied art, and several recent exhibitions, led him to believe women artists are emerging from their burden of handicaps.

Those "handicaps" are other women. Watson lists the types:

"First, the girl art student who marries the boy art student," he says. "They have a struggle and the woman becomes a combination wife, hostess, mother and drudge. She puts off art for middle age and then can not recapture it. In order to justify the loss she adopts the slogan, 'Woman's place is in the home.' This type has no mercy for women who are interested deeply enough to advance in a profession.

"Second, the once pretty girl who marries an artist. Soon she begins to consider herself an art critic. She thinks women impertinent who dare compete with her 'lord and master.' Women's art she may consider 'gay,' but she will never admit it is 'profound.'

The Lady Amateur.

"Third, the lady amateur. She has been to art school. She lives in a studio and flits from tea to tea. She joins associations and gets appointed to committees. She is chipper in her judgment of other women's work.

"Fourth, the women who do work of no kind. They feel, as loungers, an enmity for women workers. They want to keep their excuse for a parasitic life, and women workers seem to dilute their ability to worship their males with adequate fervor."

Against these hordes of foes the serious woman artist must battle, Watson says, in addition to facing the normal obstacles of competition.

Burdens Are Heavy.

"All these burdens are almost too much," he says. "And being too much, it frequently implants in the art of women too high an expression of the will power. Art should be a balance between will and exuberance. Yet, all women artists are forced ot strain their wills to the utmost.

"That is not true of women in other professions. It would take courageuos obtuseness to patronize such writers as Willa Cather and Edna St. Vincent Millay.

"But, in recent group art exhibitions I have seen work by women which has stood out among the best things shown. Possibly the age of patronizing women artists is waning, and in doing so, freeing the women for a purer expression of art.

"Every true artist enriches the world in which he lives, and if there lies in the minds and hearts of women an ability to enrich the world they must be freed from this old prejudice and biased criticism."

Women's Clubs Now Practical, Leader Reports

Members No Longer Culture Chasers and Busybodies.

Club women, once culture yearners who joined poetry societies, and who gradually evolved—at least in the eyes of men—into busy-bodies promoting reform movements, have now become students interested in modern practical problems.

This is the way in which the club woman's evolution has been traced by Mrs. Effie Marine Harvey, club leader, who recently came to Washington to accept a position as educational director of a radio station.

"Modern women's organizations have become universities for the housewife and for all women," she said. "No longer designed merely to interest the individual who already has a cultural background, they now offer something to every woman."

MRS. EFFIE M. HARVEY thinks women's clubs housewives' university.

Wide Club Experience.

Mrs. Harvey should know, for few women have had such wide experience in club work. Besides serving on several State boards of women's clubs, she has written many articles on such organizations for magazines and newspapers. More recently she has devoted most of her time to adult education, as it is carried on both by women's clubs and by radio.

"A woman interested primarily in the training of children and in housekeeping can gain help along her lines of interests," said Mrs. Harvey, "Problems of child rearing, child guidance, housekeeping or interior decoration can be speedily solved through this channel."

Interested in Child Education.

Mrs. Harvey is particularly interested in the adult education phase of women's organizations. A member of the American Association for Adult Education, she has traveled extensively in the interests of this work.

Returning to this country, she became educational director for the Chicago studios of a National network. She was, also, made a member of the corresponding advisory committee of the American Academy of Arts and Letters, which makes annual awards to radio announcers having the best diction.

While some students of American life are predicting the demise of clubs, Mrs. Harvey, who has long made a study of the benefits of women's organizations, is of the opinion they will expand as educational agents, and become an even more important part in the life of the wide-awake woman.

Middle-Aged Run Country, Asserts Pitkin

New York, April 6 (Spl.).—The United States is rapidly becoming a world for the middle-aged, in the belief of Prof. Walter B. Pitkin, author of "Life Begins at Forty."

Prof. Pitkin, addressing the Advertising Club here, said that between five and eight million young persons, not listed among the "ten and a half millions of unemployed," represent in this country "about the same percentage of dispossessed youth on which Hitler, in Germany, built his power."

The professor, a member of the faculty of Columbia University School of Journalism, added that he saw no "pre-Hitler" signs as yet, but added that a group in size equal to the largest plurality ever given to any Presidential candidate in this country has become a "lost group of citizens and consumers without incomes," and in danger of becoming content with mere existence.

"The United States is no longer a young man's world, demanding hard work and long hours," he said.

Jeweler Aims For Originality

Hopes to Create Typically American Kind of Jewelry.

Even crazy originality in dress or adornment is preferable to standardized beauty, in the opinion of H. Hillman, who in his Washington shop plies the ancient trade of jewelry making.

Mr. Hillman hopes through his experiments in design and technique, to foster the development of a typically American jewelry, and to revive interest in handmade jewelry.

"Handmade jewelry has a distinction machine-made jewelry never can have," he said. "The desire for handmade jewelry has never gone out. The only trouble is factories make jewelry so much cheaper than the man who works by hand that he can not compete. Why, jewelers who were real artists often worked six years on one piece of jewelry. Naturally the jewelry was expensive, but the people were willing to pay the price because of its distinction.

"The things I make are not always beautiful according to the popular conception of beauty, but at least they are my own ideas and each piece is different in design and technique. And after I have experimented a long time I may develop a jewelry typical of America."

Mr. Hillman expressed his regret that jewelry is treated entirely from the commercial standpoint in this country, and not as an art, as it is in other countries.

"If art museums here would show jewelry, and the colleges and universities would teach it as an art, people would appreciate how truly beautiful jewelry can be," he said.

Each piece in Mr. Hillman's shop has some symbolism in it. One ring, showing the battle of an octopus and a sea monster, has fine gold wires twisted to show the winding arms of the octopus strangling the monster. One of the wedding rings is engraved with symbolic figures.

West Virginia Relief Garden Head Appointed

Charleston, W. Va., April 5 (Spl.).—The appointment of George Argabrite, of Greenbrier County, as State garden project officer of the West Virginia relief administration, is announced by Francis W. Turner, director of the State welfare department.

Mr. Argabrite will supervise the establishment of 100,000 subsistence relief gardens.

Mr. James Don Juan Casanova Durante Arrives—Premiere at National April 23

Comedian Met By Crowds and A Band Escort

Debs Honor Ozzie Nelson; "Jig Saw" Opens Here; Theater Chat.

(Reprinted from yesterday's last edition.)

By Nelson B. Bell.

So four drowsy young men, representing three newspapers and a theater, boarded the Congressional yesterday afternoon at 4 and slept their way over to Baltimore, arriving in the Monumental City at 4:55, en punto, as we say in the pure Castilian.

JIMMY DURANTE.

Keeping themselves awake with stiff flagons of black coffee until the arrival of the 5:27 from New York, they contrived to single out Stateroom A, Car 272, and sure enough, there he was. Jimmy Durante, I mean.

And was he having himself a time!

When we discovered the Durante, Washington-bound for a week of personal appearances at Loew's Fox, beginning today, he was regaling a carload lot of the feminine enrollment of St. Timothy's Seminary, on the outskirts of Baltimore, at Catonsville, Md., with a few of his favorite songs and pet anecdotes—much to the discomfiture of the prim preceptress under whose chaperonage the young ladies, returning from their Easter holidays, seemed to be.

The Perfect Host.

Daunted no whit, Signor Jimmy Don Juan Casanova Durante, the great lover, proceeded at once to introduce us to the young ladies, whom he knew intimately by such names as "Southern," "Checkers," "Bed," "Blondie" and other fragments of inspirational nomenclature that seemed to add nothing whatever to the afternoon's pleasure of the horrified but helpless preceptress. There isn't much you can do about Mr. Durante.

After the seminary had alighted at the Catonsville stop, however, things began to become a little more rationalized. For one thing, everybody sat down—which was a great help.

Happening to be seated next to Mr. Durante for the remainder of the ride into Washington, this column was able to ascertain such scattered facts as:

That Jimmy has never permitted the old team of Clayton, Jackson and Durante to reach a state of dissolution. Lou Clayton is along with him on his present trip and acts continuously as his business manager and personal representative. Jackson was with them in Hollywood until he tired of it and now is doing a single in New York, but soon will return to the Coast, where all three will be together again.

That of all the pictures he has made, he likes best "The Phantom President," with George M. Cohan, and "Palooka," recently seen at RKO-Keith's.

That he resents the productional method that persists in tossing him in as "comedy relief" with other stars of whose box-office "pull" there might be reasonable doubt.

That he wants to be "built up" as a star in his own right—and that certainly is his own right!

That Lupe Velez is a grand trouper and easy to work with, despite all the disquieting things one hears about her temperament. During the run of "Strike Me Pink" in New York, when the comedy seemed to lag a bit for a moment, Jimmy dropped her playfully into the orchestra pit and she proved she could "take it." He believes her to have been, in that musical—seen here as "Forward March," without either Mr. Durante or Senorita Velez in it—the best feminine foil he has ever had.

That no two shows he gives on the stage ever are alike. He usually begins an engagement doing about 12 minutes on the stage and ends by doing 30 or more.

That he has never been in the Capital before, although he has played as nearby as Baltimore.

That—and this is a tip to Phil Lampkin—any time an orchestra ever manages to play straight through his act without being stopped half a dozen times, his act is ruined.

Going on the Air.

That, beginning April 22, he goes on the air for 22 weeks on a famous radio hour in which he will follow Eddie Cantor. His material is now being prepared and, according to Harry Donnelly, his accompanist, will prove a riot.

That his picture contract has three more years to run.

That he wants to make about three pictures a year and spend the rest of the time on the stage, where, one suspects, he feels, down in his heart, he belongs. The stage has been his life ever since he broke in as a piano player down on Coney Island 20 years or so ago.

That prosperity and a swarm of autograph hunters on his neck continually have not changed him one iota from the good guy he has always been.

Jimmy Durante is no whale of a man physically. I should say he is not over 5 feet 7 or 8 inches tall and doubt if he can tip that beam above 140-something.

His eyes are set close together, it is no joke about that "schnozzle" and his thin hair gives the perpetual impression of being "frizzed" all over his head.

High Pressure.

When he becomes enthusiastic over any topic he can work up a greater head of steam to the square inch than any other player I know, with the single exception of Al Jolson. Both are human dynamos that you would think would have blown up from internal combustion long ago.

Jimmy and his party were met at Union Station last evening by a large delegation of theater and newspaper representatives, film executives, bystanders innocent of everything but seeking autographs, the Loew's Theaters Cadet Band and a police escort.

At seven an informal press reception was held at the Carlton.

Hot-cha-cha! It was colosseal!

Mr. Durante's evening levee was not the only social event on yesterday's calendar. At 4 in the afternoon at the Racquet Club, Ozzie Nelson and Harriet Hilliard, headlining at the Earle with Ozzie Nelson's orchestra, beginning today, were tendered a rout by a group of Washington debutantes that will be remembered as one of the smartest affairs of its kind of the season.

A World Premiere.

A bulletin from Russel Crouse, of the Theater Guild of New York—recently here as coauthor of Joe Cook's "Hold Your Horses"—yesterday afternoon confirmed rumors hinted at in this space yesterday morning that "Jig Saw," a new comedy by Dawn Powell, with Ernest Truex and Spring Byington, will have its world premiere in the National Theater on Monday night, April 23.

This will be the final play of the Theater Guild's season. The guild already has completed its subscription season in Washington, having presented "Mary of Scotland, with Helen Hayes, Helen Menken and Philip Merivale; "Biography," with Ina Claire, and "The School for Husbands," with Osgood Perkins and June Walker.

However, Mr. Crouse advises, subscribers will be able to obtain their regular seat locations at reduced prices for "Jig Saw" by ordering them at once.

Sophisticated Story.

The play is described as a sophisticated story of New York apartment hotel life. Its author, Miss Powell, wrote "Big Night," which was produced last season in New York by the Group Theater, and is also the author of "The Story of a Country Boy," a novel which recently took its place on the best-seller list.

In addition to Mr. Truex and Miss Byington, the cast includes Helen Westley, Elliot Cabot, Cora Witherspoon, Gertrude Flynn, Harold Moffett, Shepperd Strudwick and others.

The play has been staged by Philip Moeller and the settings are by Lee Simonson.

The National engagement will be for a single week, preceding the run of the play in New York, and necessarily will defer the opening of the tenth season of Mr. Stephen E. Cochran's National Theater Players at least one week.

The demand for seats has been so brisk, and the week so curtailed by the one-night engagement of the Hasty Pudding Club from Harvard University, Wednesday, that Manager L. Stoddard Taylor of the Belasco Theater announces a special Sunday night performance of "Her Majesty, the Widow," starring Pauline Frederick. This extra performance will complete the total of eight scheduled for every week and afford another opportunity to attend for those who had planned to see "Her Majesty, the Widow" on Wednesday night.

Mae West Again.

Admirers of Mae West will be afforded an opportunity to see their favorite actress on the screen when Paramount's production of "Night After Night," with George Raft, Alison Skipworth, Constance Cummings and Wynne Gibson, begins a downtown return engagement at the Strand Theater today. It was this picture that started Miss West on her way to individual stardom and the triumph she has since enjoyed.

The new Strand bill will be augmented by John Wayne in "The Lucky Texan" and the customary short subjects also will be shown.

Addendum.

I would be willing to wager very elegant odds that the young ladies of St. Timothy's are still all a-twitter!

State Endeavor Group To Hear Dr. D. A. Poling

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Daniel A. Poling, of Boston, president of International Christian Endeavor Society, will attend opening sessions of the West Virginia Christian Endeavor Society here. Guy H. McKee is president of the Berkeley County Union.

Dr. Poling will speak at a banquet and at the opening meeting which will follow, June 5.

Some Who Sit Down in "Stand Up and Cheer!"

There are said to be, by actual count, 1,001 beautiful girls in the forthcoming Fox production of "Stand Up and Cheer," made under the working title of the Fox "Follies" and an unmitigated boost for the Administration. Here are a few of the 1,001, engaged in a sort of "ride 'em cowboy" enterprise, complete in every detail except the minor matter of horses. This will be coming along in due course, despite some consternation among its backers at the political reaction it has caused.

Straight From the Studios

Seek New Vehicle for Marlene Dietrich and Gary Cooper; Mary Astor Wins Increased Public Favor; Fresh News From Film Capital.

By Edwin Schallert.

Hollywood, April 5.—Looking around for a match-up of personalities suitable for pictures, the nabobs are reported deeply considering themes and material which may effectively bring Marlene Dietrich and Gary Cooper back together again. Reason is that this would possibly recapitulate that early success of the pair, "Morocco." The Paramount story department is engaged in the quest, and it is reported that even Josef von Sternberg is agreeable, if the right subject can be discovered.

MARLENE DIETRICH.

Miss Dietrich has nothing definite on her program to follow "The Scarlet Empress," which version of the story of Catherine of Russia, a highly-stylized affair, will soon be released. That it will be put forth without qualms is hardly to be assumed, since Elizabeth Bergner in the same type of picture is scoring a decided success. My personal opinion would be that the appearance of two features of the same character with these particular actresses will only serve to whet the interest for both, and Miss Dietrich will possibly be the greater beneficiary of the moment.

Anyway, a Cooper-Dietrich (or vice versa) picture is something that would have its points of appeal.

Not for Kay at the Moment.

Although some rumors hereabouts have connected the name of Kay Francis with a new and very striking story, called "The Lost Beauty," it is understood that she has too many other commitments to be considered for it at the moment, and also it is not 100 per cent suitable to her.

This feature concerns the story of a painting. A beautiful woman who is its subject endures a tragic marriage, which brings her to a New England town where she is much misunderstood, and after the marriage breaks up she goes the pace in Paris. The story was written by John Van Druten, author of "Young Woodley." The actress who looks most likely for it at the moment is Barbara Stanwyck.

New Talent Being Sought.

The restless urge to discover new talent is leading far and wide, as usual, but chiefly to the stage in New York. Columbia has just found a young character actor there, by name Raymond Walburn, who has been appearing in "The Pursuit of Happiness" and "Ah, Wilderness." They feel he is a genuine discovery.

The company, which is seeking twelve players in all, is sending its casting director East for further survey. He will leave in the next day or two. Already engaged per this program are Arthur Rankin, who has been in Hollywood quite some time and who is distantly related to the Barrymores; Richard Heming, Geneva Mitchell and Patricia Caron.

• • • •

It Might Have Been.

Even though Constance Bennett has the star role in "The Green Hat" cinched, it is said that if things had gone right this famous opportunity might have belonged to Katharine Hepburn. She was under deep consideration for quite a while, but arrangements for the deal could not be made. It is believed in some quarters that she would have made an ideal Iris March.

• • • •

New Arrival For Warner Lot.

Arrival of Josephine Hutchinson of the Eva Le Gallienne company who has been touring the country in Ibsen plays, is programmed for middle of May. It is considered likely that she will do several pictures during the summer at Warner Brothers, and then return to the Civic Repertory Theater in New York in the fall.

(Reprinted from yesterday's last edition.)

By Grace Kinsley.

Hollywood, April 5.—Mary Astor had more than one good reason for a happy Easter. Most important of all is the support she is receiving from her screen fans from all over the country since her mother and father filed suit against her in Superior Court charging her with failing to support them.

MARY ASTOR.

The thing most feared by Miss Astor from this family dispute was unfavorable public reaction. News of the legal complaint against her was widely broadcast. She answered it by saying her father, as her one-time business manager, swept away a $500,000 fortune by bad investments and an extravagant scale of living.

Her fan mail has increased twofold in the past ten days. I chanced to see a representative group of the letters, and the writers of each counseled her that her public will stick by her. Hence, Miss Astor's courage is a great deal stronger and becomes more so as the daily mail brings additional letters to her.

• • • •

More Good Tidings!

These for Mae Clarke, once Hollywood's hard-luck girl. Miss Clarke and Sydney Blackmer have kissed and made up after a spat of a week or so. In addition to that, Miss Clarke was in possession yesterday of a nice new long-term contract from M-G-M. Now she really believes all clouds have a silver lining.

Hats Off To Lowe.

Edmund Lowe, an old friend of mine, slipped quietly back into Hollywood over the week-end, following the sudden and sad death of his wife, Lilyan Tashman, in New York. It was a bit difficult for him to return to their old home in Beverly Hills. Here are his own words: "Everything in it breathes of Lilyan. She built it for me, and it's a sort of monument to her. So I am going to stay right in it."

Lowe wasn't feeling any too well after the long trip back home alone. He said Miss Tashman's courage was the most remarkable thing he had ever seen. She didn't want anyone to know she was ill, and kept right on, in the true tradition of the trouper, right up to the very last, even though in desperate pain.

"I'll never forget her spunk and spirit as long as I live, and it will always be a guide to me," said Lowe.

• • • •

He Wasn't Spanked.

Everybody at MGM wondered how so many strange kiddies were gaining entrance to the "Treasure Island" set. Jackie Cooper was quizzed and he confessed. All the kids in his neighborhood wanted to see some real pirates, and he "just couldn't resist the temptation.' No, he wasn't scolded.

Church's Attitude On Liquor Flayed

Brethren Conference Told Stand Was Weak.

Roanoke, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—After urging the church to gird itself for a new temperance crusade, the three-day conference of Brethren Churches in this district closed today.

Speakers yesterday included C. S. Ikenberry, Douglas Nininger, J. N. Via, Mrs. J. S. Crumpacker, D. P. Hylton, Dr. Paul H. Bowman, J. J. S. Showalter, C. M. Key and W. M. Kahle.

F. E. Williar, of Daleville, declared the church had shown a weak, disinterested and vacillating attitude during prohibition, and that church members not only drank but sold liquor.

FERA Conference Maps Relief Plans

6 West Virginia Counties Organize Work.

Lewisburg, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.).—A group conference for District No. 2 of the FERA was held here yesterday to complete details for furnishing relief.

The meeting was attended by officials from Greenbrier, Pocahontas, Nicholas, Summers, Webster and Mercer Counties.

An advisory board of laymen and John L. Campbell, in charge of the headquarters office here, supervise the work.

Storer College Play Presented in German

Harper's Ferry, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Two plays were presented by students of German this week at Storer College, "Afterwards," a plea for world peace, and "Wie Man Macht in Amerika," a performance given in German.

Players were James Gray, Mamie Bell, Ruth Mills, George Hancock, Raymond Tatten, Laura Moorehead, Evelyn Harvey, Eleanor Gordon David Francis and Nettie Phillips.

"ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT." Universal reissue of its picturization of the novel by Erich Maria Remarque, featuring Lew Ayres, with "Slim" Summerville, Louis Wolheim, John Wray and William Bakewell. Directed by Lewis Milestone. Reviewed Thursday afternoon by W. A. Whitney.

Four years ago Carl Laemmle brought to the screen, then particularly addicted to war pictures, his version of "All Quiet on the Western Front," a picture no less stark in realism and vitriolic indictment of war than the Remarque book on which it was based.

Yesterday that picture again was placed on public view—and the verdict of press and public in 1930 still stands. Indeed, the aura with which memory haloes such an experience as "All Quiet on the Western Front" today enhances, rather than detracts from, the vivid power of the grim drama depicting the utter futility of war.

A review of this picture is not now needed. The public, knowing either the picture or the book, or both, needs no urging to experience again the gruesome eloquence of one of the finest films ever made. That small segment of the population knowing neither requires little incentive, other than the announcement of the picture, to witness the spectacle.

Suffice it to say, Lew Ayres' work becomes the more impressive with the passage of time; no more potent, however, than the contributions of the other featured players—Russell Gleason, Scott Kolk, Walter Browne Rogers, Owen Davis, jr., Beryl Mercer, Ben Alexander, the late Louis Wolheim, and a host of others in the lesser parts.

An Oswald Rabbit cartoon, "Wolf! Wolf!" based on the nursery yarn, and a release of the Universal News complete the bill.

Rotarians Hear Japanese Scribe

Speaker at Martinsburg Deplores Communism.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.).—If the United States and Japan were to go to war, both nations would go down together helpless before a wave of Communism similar to that which is striving to inclose continental Asia in its grip, declared Minosaku T. Yamamoto, United States correspondent of the Japan Times, who spoke at the Rotary Club luncheon here yesterday.

"Communism in Asia is spreading like fire," he said. "China is overrun, and it is the presence of Communism there that is hindering the unity of that country. Japan is free from such organizations and intends to remain that way.

"The succession of revolutions in China compelled Japan to protect her interests in Manchuria and it was through Japan's aggressive protection of that area that the state of Manchukuo was born."

Universities Plan Debate by Radio

Virginia and Alabama to Compete Today.

Charlottesville, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—The University of Virginia will hold a radio debate with the University of Alabama over Station WRVA in Richmond tomorrow from 11 a. m. to noon.

The question is "Resolved that a Federal Department of the Consumer, ranking with the Departments of Commerce and Labor, should be established."

The Virginia debaters will be Edwin C. McClintock, jr., Clarendon; William S. Mundy, jr., Lynchburg, and David Yentis, Jackson Heights, N. Y., all undergraduates.

Death Car Driver Sued for $10,000

Cumberland, Md., April 6 (Spl.).—Asking $10,000 damages for the death of their son, Mr. and Mrs. Luke Bosley have sued Samuel De Luca, son of Frank De Luca, South End bandmaster.

The parents say their son, Victor Carl Bosley, was killed October 13, 1933, by De Luca's car on the McMullen highway.

They say De Luca was driving recklessly.

Richard Gunter Dies In Frostburg at 71

Frostburg, Md., April 6 (Spl.).—Richard Gunter, 71, of a pioneer Welsh family, a brother of Charles Gunter, of Washington, D. C., died here yesterday.

He was a member of the Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias. Three sons and one daughter survive.

D. C. Board Will Study Tuberculosis

Committee of Doctors Named to Conduct Survey Here.

High Mortality Rate in City Brings Order by Commissioner.

A study of tuberculosis in the Capital will be undertaken by a committee of prominent surgeons appointed yesterday by the District Commissioners for the purpose of making suggestionns to curtail spread of the disease and reduce its high mortality rate.

Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer, heads the committee and was asked to make a thorough survey of methods of treatment, facilities for hospitalization, and submit recommendations to the Commissioners.

Other Members.

Other members of the committee are Dr. Joseph W. Peabody, superintendent of Tuberculosis Hospital; Dr. Prentiss Willson, president of the District Medical Society; Dr. William C. White, president oof the Tuberculosis Association of the District, and a member to be selected from the Board of Public Welfare and one from the U. S. Public Health Service.

The committee was appointed as a result of a report by the public health committee of the District Medical Society, which called attention to the unusually high death rate in the Capital, and urged erection of a 250-bed hospital in nearby Maryland to care for hopeful cases.

$2,000,000 Sought.

The Commissioners have asked Secretary Ickes for a grant of $2,000,000 for the construction of a hospital for tubercular children near Buena Vista, Md. This request has not been granted, but the Commissioners are hopeful it will be obtained.

In a statement yesterday Dr. Fowler replied to criticism of the spread and treatment of tuberculosis.

"I think it is fair to state the District Health Department has nothing at all to do with the management or control of the Tuberculosis Hospital, the Children's Tuberculosis Sanitarium, Gallinger oHspital or any other hospital. This control rests with the Welfare Board. The Health Department has some measure of control over the tuberculosis dispensary.

Jewish Aid Drive Will Seek $35,000

3 Week Campaign Starts April 25.

Thirty-five thousand dollars for Eastern European relief and Palestine rehabilitation will be sought in a United Jewish campaign to be launched here April 25, it was announced yesterday at the Jewish Community Center.

Edmund I. Kauffmann and Isidore Hershfield are cochairmen of the drive, which will last three weeks. Louis E. Spiegler is director.

Participating organizations include the local branch of the American Joint Distribution committee, the Zionist Organization, the Hadassah, the Mizrachi and Poale Zion societies. Part of the funds raised will be devoted to relief of German Jewish refugees.

Dairy Delegates Back.

Charles Town, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.).—B. Heath Holden, Jefferson County agent, and G. W. Myers, jr., county dairymen's representative, have returned from a hearing in Philadelphia on the proposed AAA dairy adjustment program. The program, if adopted here, will mean curtailment of dairy production.

Seniors Give Play.

Charles Town, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.).—The senior class of the Charles Town High School present "The Antics of Andrew," a three-act play, last night and tonight for the benefit of the class annual.

"Lifer" Secures Error Writ.

Petersburg, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—T. J. Hamilton, colored, sentenced to life imprisonment on his conviction of murdering Leonard Morgan, colored, here, last year, was granted a writ of error yesterday by the Supreme Court of Appeals.

Gets Results From Post Ad

When her advertisements in two other newspapers appeared for several weeks without results, Mrs. M. V. Junghaus, 1100 Queen Street northeast, ordered a small two-line ad in the Classified Section of The Washington Post.

On the fifth day this ad appeared, the room was rented. But since The Post's rate was so reasonable Mrs. Junghaus permitted the ad to run for seven days, until the roomer had moved in. ## Drive Nears Half of Quota

Mission Probes Appeal for Summer Camp to Aid Children.

Beginning a second week of campaigning for a permanent summer camp for under-privileged Washington children, volunteer teams of Central Union Mission yesterday renewed efforts to make a creditable financial report at Monday's report meeting.

E. H. Degrott, jr., campaign chairman, was hopeful more than half of the $15,000 objective would be raised by Monday and that the final windup April 16 would find the campaign over the top. Headquarters at the Children's Emergency Home, 624 Indiana avenue, has furnished nearly 250 canvassers with names of prospective contributors, including more than 5,000 regular supporters of the Central Union Mission.

A score of churches furnished volunteer teams. Women's organizations, including the Women's City Club, the Soroptimist Club, the Business and Profesional Women's Club and the Business Woman's Council, are cooperating. Many workers have reported they already have collected more than their quotas.

F. and G. No-Parking Conference Called

Elimination of day parking on F and G streets, between Fourteenth and Seventh streets northwest, will be discussed shortly at a conference by Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer and business men in that area.

Yesterday, Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen and Van Duzer suggested that parking be banned on the thoroughfare for a 30-day period as a test.

Hiking Clubs Plan Trips Tomorrow

University, Wanderbirds on Joint Outing.

The University Hiking Club will hold a hike jointly with the Wanderbirds, sponsored by The Post, tomorrow along Northwest Branch. The jaunt will start at Four Corners, about 11 a. m.

Those going by bus should take the Four Corners bus of the Sixteenth street line, passing Sixteenth and U streets at 10:32. The route will be along Northwest Branch to Blair road, thence to Old Bladensburg road and back to Four Corners.

The Red Triangle Outing Club will meet at Seventeenth street and New York avenue northwest, tomorrow at 10 a. m. for a trip to Chesapeake Beach. The Wildflower Preservation Society will meet at Rosslyn, Va., at 9:45 a. m. for a trip to Bullneck Run and Scott Run, in the upper Potomac region.

Church Will Celebrate.

Danville, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Plans are being formulated by the First Baptist Church for the celebration of its centennial during the week beginning June 28.

Doctors Hear College Head.

Bristol, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Dr. Thurman D. Kitchen, president of Wake Forest College, in North Carolina, addressed 40 members of the Sullivan-Johnson County Medical Society in its April meeting here last night. He spoke on "Physiology and Rational Medicine."

Bands Invited to Contest.

Charleston, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.). J. Henry Francis, chairman, is sending invitations to 45 high school and junior high school bands for the annual State band contests here May 5.

Things of Beauty Are Joys Forever, Is Motto of Park Service.

Following closely the official arrival of spring, the Office of National Capital Parks has opened its annual cleaning program. Every man, woman and child who plays tennis, looks at statues, goes to picnics or otherwise utilizes the out-of-doors will benefit.

Under the direction of C. Marshall Finnan, superintendent, maintenance crews will recondition playing fields, clean statues and memorials, renovate park lodges and field houses, clean and improve roads, walks, gutters, water mains, road traps and sewers, repair drinking fountains, repaint traffic lines on park highways, and perform numerous other duties.

Several weeks will be required to remove the scars of winter and restore the parks to their most pleasing appearance. Finnan hopes to have the major portion of the work completed before blossoming of the Japanese cherry trees.

Baseball diamonds, hockey fields, archery greens, picnic groves, tennis courts and children's playgrounds will be serviced and ready for use early next month, it was announced.

Husband Captured After Killing Wife

Roanoke Pair Estranged; No Motive Given.

Roanoke, April 6 (Spl.).—Fugate Craig, of Roanoke, was jailed today following the fatal shooting of his estranged wife, Mrs. Elsie Graham Craig.

The shooting occurred on a viaduct over the Virginia Railway tracks.

Mrs. Craig had been visiting her daughter in Roanoke Hospital, and was returning to her home when the shooting occurred.

Aged Man Meets Death, One Hurt, in Car Crash

Tazewell, Va., April 6 (AP).—C. West, 75, of Greenville, S. C., was killed and his son-in-law, A. C. Campbell, 24, of the same city, was severely cut and bruised when their automobile struck a stone wall of an underpass under a road about 8 miles from here this morning.

War in Two Years, Far East Warning

Norfolk Club Hears Army Chaplain's Forecast.

Norfolk, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Maj. A. N. Jones, United States Army chaplain, speaking before the Norfolk Civitan Club today, said war in the Far East would come within two years. He has just returned from China, where he was stationed for seven years.

He declared that 50 years ago the United States was 18 times larger than Japan, but now is only four times as large. The Japanese, he said, are annexing so much territory that it is becoming the greatest empire in the world. He said unless the United States is prepared for all emergencies it might find itself as helpless as China in time of war.

Mrs. Virginia Carey, 73, Dies in Lynchburg

Lynchburg, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Mrs. Virginia M. Carey, 73, widow of William Carey, died at her home in Fairview Heights yesterday.

She is survived by a brother, William Carey, and the following sons and daughters: Oscar and Edward Carey and Mrs. Mattie Smith, of Lynchburg; Robert Carey, of Baltimore, and Lee Carey, of Campbell County.

Danville Legion Scores Byrd, Glass on Bonus

Danville, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Resolutions deploring the attitude of Senators Byrd and Glass and Representative Thomas G. Burch in the recent bonus vote were adopted by the Danville American Legion Post last night.

The resolutions also assailed the Rev. Walter Russell Bowie, of New York, for condemning the Legion lobby at Washington.

Guard Units Observe Army Day in Roanoke

Roanoke, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—National Guard units observed Army Day here today with a parade which was reviewed by State Adj. Gen. S. Gardner Waller, and by an exhibition of night firing of machine guns. The program also included a reception to the Adjutant General by Reserve and Guard officers.

Horse Racing Here Fought By McCarron

Senator Says Courses 45 Minutes Away Close Enough.

Committee to Consider Bills Affecting District at Session Today.

Declaration of war on the bill to legalize horse racing in the District was made yesterday by Senator Patrick A. McCarran (Democrat), Nevada, chairman of a Senate District sub-committee, to which the bill has been referred.

"If they wait for horse racing in the District until it has my approval, they will wait a mighty long time," the Nevadan declared. "I do not know how the majority of the committee feels, but if the measure is favorably reported there ll be a minority report that will go along with it and a fight on the Senate floor, if necessary.

"I believe that when persons who wish to do so can drive to one or more race courses in 45 minutes that is all they need."

Plan Meeting Today.

Senator Robert R Reynolds (Democrat), North Carolina, and Senator Robert Carey (Republican), Wyoming, are the other two members of the racing bill subcommittee which has not had a formal meeting.

Senator McCarran's opposition to the measure was expressed on the eve of a full committee meeting at which Senator William H. King, (Democrat), Utah, chairman, hoped to get action on several measures so they could be placed on the Senate calendar and stand a chance of enactment before adjournment of the session.

The committee is to meet in open session at 2:30 p. m. today in the committee room in the Capitol to consider measures on its calendar.

Among the measures expected to come up for consideration is one introduced by Senator Arthur Capper, (Republican), Kansas, ranking minority member, clothing the District Commissioners with power to authorize opening of graves in the District. Under present law a special act of Congress is required.

Seek Broader Powers.

Broader powers for the District Commissioners, so tha Congress will be relieved of some of the purely municipal and often trivial functions it must now exercise, is provided in another measure which may be acted on. Senator McCarran is chairman of a special subcommittee to which that measure has been referred and a new bill is being drafted by the legislative counsel of the Senate. If the counsel draft is completed in time, Senator McCarran said, he would lay it before the full committee.

Opinion of Senator Thomas P. Gore (Democrat), of Oklahoma, is awaited on measures requiring operators of private and public motor vehicles to guarantee their financial responsibility in case of accidents. Both Senator McCarran and Senator Hamilton F. Kean (Republican), of New Jersey, favor enactment of the responsibility measures.

Other Bills Pending.

Favorable report is expected to be voted by the committee on a measure authorizing the District Commissioners to make regulations for government of the Washington water front. Other measures on which action may be taken include bills lessening the fire escape requirements on small apartment houses, increasing the fees which may be charged by the recorder of deeds, and the King bill revising procedure incident to foreclosure of mortgages in the District.

Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), of New York, has been pressing for favorable action on his bill designed to help blindness prevention work, but several protests against the measure have been lodged with the committee, and action may be delayed.

Ministers to Organize West Virginia Church

Franklin, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.). A commission of Lexington Presbytery, composed of the Rev. William C. White, of Churchville, Va.; the Rev. William E. Hudson, of Staunton, Va.; the Rev. H. J. Womeldorf, and the Rev. Leslie H. Patterson, with Elders O. S. Cunningham and A. C. Bowers will meet Sunday, April 15, at Seneca Rocks, near here.

They will organize a Presbyterian congregation into a church.

Bankers in Maryland Meet to Decide on Code

Frederick, Md., April 6 (Spl.).—About 70 bankers representing Group 2 of the Maryland State Bankers Association, composed of Frederick, Carroll, Howard and Montgomery Counties, met here yesterday to adopt a bankers' code.

The code, if approved by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, will become effective in 30 days.

Fire Destroys Table Made of 5,000 Pieces

Harrisonburg, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—A table which was being made from 5,000 pieces of wood by George Smiley, jr., Mount Crawford cabinetmaker, was destroyed by fire when flames razed his worshop. The table was nearly completed.

The fire did several hundred dollars damage.

HighCourt Upholds Land Title Decision

Virginia Suit Involves Oil Station Site.

Harrisonburg, Va., April 6 (Spl.). The Virginia Supreme Court has upheld the Shenandoah County Circuit Court in the suit of R. Lee Wilson against the Standard Oil Co., and indirecily the town of Mout Jackson, for the recovery of a small plot of land upon which the company erected a service station under a lease from that community.

Wilson claimed title under a conveyance made to his father, but the original boundaries were intertwined with original deeds to early settlers, some more than a century old. The county court ordered that the case be heard in chancery and denied a jury trial.

In addition to Wilson and Mount Jackson, the trustees of Union Church and Shenandoah County School Board claim color of title, and the question of adverse possession by Mount Jackson was set up also in the pleadings. Upon this question a jury trial may be had. Monetary damages, in addition to the possession, are asked for by Wilson.

Caroline Increase In Taxes Adopted

5-Cent General Levy Gain Needed for Expenses.

Bowling Green, Va., April 6 (Spl.). The tax levy of 25 cents for general county expenses and 80 cents for school expenses, tentatively agreed on by the supervisors in March, was officially adopted by the board after a public hearing.

The 5-cent increase in the general county levy will accommodate additional county expenses.

Miss Virginia Anderson, Caroline County FERA director, proposed to have the relief agency undertake the care of paupers, if the county would provide the money, about $2,500, now spent in pauper care. The board postponed action.

Caroline Will Get Forest Fire Shaft

Bowling Green, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—A steel forest fire lookout tower, costing $1,600, will be constructed in Caroline County by the State Forest Service.

During 1933, county forest warden organizations, directed by Douglas Coleman, Penola, reported nine forest fires, which burned only an average of 3½ acres and cost the county only $4.20 and the State $108.24.

Virginia Forest Service officials point out that, although Caroline is one of the larger counties, this is one of the best records in the State.

Veterans in Roanoke Will Hear Van Zandt

Roanoke, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Recent veterans' legislation will be explained by James E. Van Zandt, National commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, at a meeting Wednesday. It is his first visit here.

Veteran Employe Retired.

Elkins, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Samuel Goodwin, 65, has been retired on a Baltimore & Ohio pension after 39 years of service as section foreman and track supervisor.

Greeters to Meet In Fredericksburg

200 Will Be Guests of Hotel Operator.

Fredericksburg, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—More than 200 members of the Hotel Greeters Association from Virginia, Pennsylvania, North Carolina and the District of Columbia will be guests of C. A. Abbey, local hotel man, tomorrow.

Levin Houston, Miss Betty Abbey, Lenon Canelis, Miss Ann Martin Carter, George Ferguson Augustus Watts, Frank Parker and James Ferguson are on the entertainment program. Proceeds will be used to entertain delegates to the National convention in Baltimore May 21 to 24.

D. Earl Coffman, president of Washington Charter 31; Leonard K. Baber, president of Virginia Charter 46; Mayor and Mrs. Payne, of Fredericksburg, will be among the guests.

Prerepeal Legal Costs Held Valid

Staples Rules on Arrest Under Layman Act.

Richmond, April 6 (AP).—Attorney General A. P. Staples has ruled that costs in liquor cases assessed under the Layman act could be collected in criminal cases if they were incurred before that measure was repealed, but that after that date they were no longer operative.

A Waynesboro arrest brought the opinion. A man was arrested there for driving while intoxicated during the period covered by the Layman act.

The attorney general ruled that the sheriff could collect his $10 fee under the Layman act. The Commonwealth's attorney was not, however, entitled to the $25 provided in the Layman act, since the prosecution took place after that law was repealed, the attorney general ruled.

Mrs. Cox's Services Set for Tomorrow

Falmouth, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Funeral services for Mrs. Ella Laura Cox, 61, who died here Wednesday, will be conducted Sunday at 2 p. m., from Hull's Chapel, by the Rev. P. H. Clements.

Mrs. Cox is survived by six sisters, Mrs. Mattie Boutchyard, Mrs. Fannie Coakley and Mrs. Mary Boutchyard, of Falmouth; Mrs. Henrietta Snellings, Mrs. Belle Smith and Mrs. Annie Reeves, of Fredericksburg; two brothers, Wellford Snellings, of Fredericksburg, and Oscar Snellings, of Washington, and a half-brother, Leevon Snellings, of Stafford Courthouse.

CWA Spent $100,000 In Stafford County

Stafford Courthouse, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—More than 800 Stafford County residents received approximately $100,000 in wages from the CWA, James Ashby, clerk of the Stafford Circuit Court, who resigned recently as CWA administrator, announced.

The Stafford office disbursed $49,026.03 to more than 400 employes over a period of 17 weeks, and a larger sum was distributed from the Federal project at Quantico.

Milk Inquiry Is Indorsed By Wallace

Nation-Wide Probe by Senate Group Is Favored.

McCarran, Sponsor of Plan, Predicts Early Action.

Indorsement of the McCarran resolution providing for a Nation-wide investigation of the milk and dairy industry by a special Senate committee was expressed in a letter made public yesterday from Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace to Senator Ellison D. Smith (Democrat), South Carolina, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

The Secretary's letter was written in response to an inquiry made by the chairman before whose committee the McCarran resolution has lain dormant for several weeks. It was the second time the Secretary of Agriculture has indorsed the proposed inquiry. His first expression of approval was voiced in a letter to Senator Patrick A. McCarran (Democrat), Nevada, its sponsor.

Introduction of the resolution followed an inquiry into local milk and dairy conditions lasting several months. The inquiry was made by the Senate District Committee which enlisted the services of Elwood Seal, assistant corporation counsel. Senator McCarran wants Mr. Seal employed by the special committee of five Senators who would make the National inquiry under his resolution.

Criticism of the local situation was made in the report and Senator McCarran is planning to introduce measures which he believes will offer remedies. It is his contention that the existing distribution system is wasteful and adds materally to the cost without benefit to producer or consumer.

Hearing on the National investigation resolution has been promised for next week by Senator Smith, it was announced yesterday by Senator McCarran, who predicted the committee would make a favorable report and the Senate would authorize the inquiry.

Wage Ruling Issued On Aged and Disabled

Persons handicapped by advanced age or disability may be employed at less than minimum wages provided in the code of fair competition for the retail trade, it was announced yesterday by the retail code authority for the District.

In no case, however, can the wages be less than 75 per cent of the minimum, it was said. Object of the provision is to encourge establishments employing aged or handicapped persons to continue them on the pay rolls.

Funeral at Moorefield For Isaac Seymour, 84

Moorefield, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.) Isaac Van Meter Seymour, 84, lifelong resident of Hardy County, who died at the home of A. S. Fisher where he has resided, was buried here.

For some years he taught in Hardy County and was superintendent of schools. He was a skilled violinist.

Five Named to Rotary Ball.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.).—T. W. Martin, Harry H. Bryer, Dr. A. W. Armentrout, L. A. Roberts and James G. Maples were elected directors of the Rotary Club yesterday.

Good morning! Schloss Brothers have surprised us and we have surprised Washington men. We are a favorite Schloss retailer and they have given us the advantage of being about to offer Washington men a collection of hundreds of new suits at $22.75, that would be splendid values at $32.50 and $39.50. None of them is worth less than $28.50. We urge immediate selection; such an opportunity is unheard of these times.

Jockey Jacobs Rides Five Winners in Sensational Bowie Performance

New Orleans Boy Takes Feature

Chrysmute Comes From Behind Under Ride of Star Apprentice.

Trails Porter by Two for Year and Tops Bowie Meeting.

By Walter Haight.

APPRENTICE JOCKEY JOE JACOBS, an 18-year-old boy from New Orleans, turned in one of the finest riding exhibitions seen in Maryland in recent years when he rode five winners at the nearby Bowie track yesterday. Jacobs, who started riding only last fall, chalked up victories in the first two races and then came back to take the last three. He had six mounts for the day, failing to ride Patrice Runyon into the money in the fourth race.

Jacobs began his string with Our Mae in the first race at a $5.20 mutuel. In the second, he booted home Sun Shadow at $19.70. He won the fifth, the day's feature, with Chrysmute at $6.20, the sixth with Parity at $6.50 and the seventh with Chat Eagle at $6.30.

The sensational performance puts him second in the race for National honors. He is trailing Earl Porter by 2 winners, the present score being 81 to 79. Jacobs has 8 winners for this meeting and is tied for the lead with Silvio Coucci, who turned in one triumph yesterday.

Rider of Long Shots.

It was under the guidance of Mose Goldblatt, trainer of a division of the Whitney Stable, that Jacobs struck his true stride early in the winter. He quickly earned a reputation as a "long shot" rider with Louisiana race followers.

When he accompanied Goldblatt to Maryland, Jacobs was facing his real test as a jockey. He was to tackle Porter, Jones, Workman, Coucci and the other leading saddle artists. It was in this kind of company that Joe ran up his string of successes yesterday.

Jacobs led the riders at the Fair Grounds with 54 winners and had scored 17 previously at Jefferson Park.

7,000 See Feat.

Some 7,000 fans saw the performance and witnessed his victory on Chrysmute in the feature. He brought the daughter of Transmute home a length in advance of Trillium which in turn had an advantage of a half-length over Thoughtless. Chrysmute broke slowly and Jacobs did not hurry her as Thoughtless and Trillium went to the front to battle for the pace. The top pair fought it out to the turn for the stretch where Chrysmute began her move. Coming to the outside, Jacobs sent the filly flying after the leader. He caught them a quarter from the finish and pulled out in front to glide over the line for the purse. Chrysmute ran the 6 furlongs in 1:15 1-5.

There was a delay at the post in the opener while Whoa Back put on a mile exhibition. The well-played Ziegler colt unseated Jockey Tipton and circled the course before deciding to report back to the starter. At that, Whoa Back ran a good race and was third. Our Mae, consistent filly from New Orleans was an easy winner with Cheka, promising Widener gelding second.

Jacobs rode his second straight winner in the second race, bringing Damon Runyan's Sun Shadow, an 8-year-old, home in front of Transen, the favorite, and Esperanto. It was Sun Shadow's first outing of the year and his odds climbed steadily.

Alaric is Winner.

The Greentree-Coucci combination accounted for the purse in the third race when Alaric, a gelded son of Wildair, put up a courageous finish to defeat the favored Hilise by a head. Four lengths away came Miss Firefly to take the show. Hilise passed Alaric to get to the front soon after the break and led to the quarter pole where Coucci moved up on the Robertson-ridden juvenile. Coming along on the rail, Alaric was batted a foot or so into the lead and held his margin to the end. The winner paid $9.40.

Star Queen, away from the races since the Charles Town meeting, triumphed at the first asking under a brilliant ride by Earl Porter. Bungalow, another Charles Towner, was second, and the favorite, Waterset, was third. Porter came out of the clouds with the filly to the tune of a $34.10 mutuel.

Jacobs took the sixth by a nose with the heavily backed Parity, which paid $6.50. He outrode the veteran Tommy Malley, who was up on Spartan Lady, in the closing strides after his mount apparently was a beaten horse. Kindacorn was beaten three lengths for the place. Parity was sent into a lead of half a dozen lengths in the first quarter mile and then given a breather. Spartan Lady rushed up eminously around the upper bend and Jacobs went to the whip. His mount lost the lead at the eighth pole, but the Crawfish Kid rode and whipped like fury and regained command right near the end.

Jacobs put up a million-dollar ride to win the last event, his fifth of the day, with Chat Eagle, the $6.30 choice. It was a blanket finish, with War Tide and Pencader noses behind.

This was believed to be the first time a jockey has ridden five winners in one day in Maryland since Jockey J. Guerra accomplished a similar feat in 1931.

Old Line Victor Over Cornell Nine, 5-0

Vic Willis Is Effective in Pinches; Errors Aid in Terp Victory.

MARYLAND'S baseball team blasted Cornell's apparently impregnable defense yesterday for a 5-to-0 victory to gain an even break in their two-game series. Blame can be placed on Maryland's timely hitting, Cornell's untimely errors, or Vic Willis' pitching.

Willis, son of Vic Willis, whose feats with the old Pittsburgh Pirates are now sports history, made his bow in collegiate baseball, and a wobbly start it was. They were warming up a new hurler every inning, but somehow young Vic managed to wiggle out of the holes that threatened to engulf him. Only six hits were gleaned from his offerings. He walked four and fanned three.

Three in First.

Maryland ganged the visitors in round one, scoring three runs on one hit. Wolfe and Love walked, but Buscher and Nelson were retired easily before the gaunt figure of "Spider" Chase was espied ambling to the plate. Chase bumped the third out toward second, but it rolled through Jack Frost's legs into right field while Wolfe scampered home and Love went to third.

Benner coaxed a pass from Bill Hartnett, whose southpaw heaves were curling around but not over the pan, arranging the trappings for Lyman McAboy. And Mr. McAboy smacked a two-baser to center field, scoring the second and third runs.

Nipped at Plate.

Another score was imminent in the third when Bucky Buscher whipped a triple to deep left field, with two gone. He was nipped at the plate two pitches later, however, attempting to steal home.

Hartnett experienced difficulty locating the plate throughout the entire afternoon, though only five Terps drew free transportation to first. Maryland's revamped line-up, Love batting third, Nelson fourth and McAboy seventh, didn't help him any either.

A. A. U. Swim Meet Favorites Advance

Columbus, Ohio, April 6 (U.P.)—Favorites in the 220-yard free style and 220-yard breast stroke had little difficulty in qualifying for the finals in the preliminaries of the A. A. U. senior indoor championships here today.

Finals in those events and in the 400-yard relay were to be held tonight.

Jack Medica, University of Washington, and Walter Spence, New York Athletic Club, favorites in the 220-yard free style, won their trial heats easily. Medica's time was 2:15 and Spence's 2:16.8.

Others qualifying for the 220-yard free-style finals were Taylor Drysdale, University of Michigan; Baker Bryant, Ohio State freshman; Matt Chrostowski, Providence, R. I., and Tom Haynie, Detroit Athletic Club.

Leonard Spence, New York Athletic Club, world record holder in the breast stroke, led qualifiers in that swim with a time of 2:46.3. Other qualifiers were Jack Kasley, University of Michigan freshman; Donald Horn, Northwestern University; John Schmieler, Detroit Athletic Club; John Higgins, Providence, R. I., and Al Gilsdorf, Columbus Athletic Club.

Ossie Bluege to Use "Specs" at Bat Only

Memphis, Tenn., April 6 (Spl.).—Ossie Bluege has discarded his spectacles for fielding duty, the veteran third baseman of the Nats announced here today.

He will continue to wear the glasses at bat in view of his success at the plate during the spring training games, but he has discovered that perspiration on the glasses clouds his vision in the field.

Va. Trackmen Defeated by Dartmouth

Cavaliers Bow by 84-42 Despite Three Firsts by Everett.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Dartmouth track team completed its Southern track invasion here today by defeating Virginia, 84 to 42.

The big Green squad captured all but five of the first places and gathered all but three of the second places to win its third meet within a week in the South.

Joseph Donovan's quarter and the work of another Indian sophomore, Donald Sutherland, in the half were the highlights of Dartmouth's performances. Donovan's 50.3 second was his best mark since he started to run the event less than a week ago.

In the half, Sutherland came from behind in the last 200 yards to defeat Carey and Dudley, among the best half-milers in the South.

Grover Everett, of Washington, Southern Conference champion in both hurdles events and the broad jump, won these three contests, while George Coles, of Charlottesville, conference shot-put champion, remained undefeated in his specialty.

Stephen Woodbury, Dartmouth high-jump star, cleared 6 feet 5 inches for his best outdoor mark.

The Indians got off to an impressive lead by sweeping both dashes and finishing one, two in the mile and maintained their early advantage, despite the fact that Virginia took 14 of the 18 points in the hurdles.

The summaries:

100-yard dash—Won by Colton (Dartmouth); second, Button (Dartmouth); third, Hine (Dartmouth). Time, 10.2s.

220-yard dash—Won by Button (Dartmouth); second, Neff (Dartmouth); third, Hine (Dartmouth). Time, 22.6s.

440-yard dash—Won by Donovan (Dartmouth); second, Vesaie (Dartmouth); third, Moore (Virginia). Time, 50.3s.

840-yard run—Won by Sutherland (Dartmouth); second, Cary (Virginia); third, Dudley (Virginia). Time, 2m.9-10s.

One-mile run—Won by Quimby (Dartmouth); second, Brigham (Dartmouth); third, St. Johns (Virginia). Time, 4m. 31.9s.

Two-mile run—Won by Johnson (Dartmouth); second, Putnam (Dartmouth); third, Briggs (Virginia). Time, 10m. 22.2s.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Everett (Virginia); second, Embry (Dartmouth); third, McDonald (Virginia). Time, 15.2s.

220-yard low hurdles—Won by Everett (Virginia); second, McDonald (Virginia); third, Kimball (Dartmouth). Time, 25s.

High jump—Won by Woodbury (Dartmouth), 6 ft. 5 in.; second, Lindstrom (Dartmouth), 5 ft. 10½ in.; third, Tucker (Virginia), 5 ft. 9½ in.

Broad jump—Won by Everett (Virginia), 22 ft. 7¾ in.; second, Colton (Dartmouth), 22 ft.; third, Stowe (Dartmouth), 21 ft. 10½ in.

Pole vault—Won by Brister (Dartmouth), 12 ft. 6 in.; second, Maxam (Dartmouth), 12 ft.; third, Armstrong (Virginia), 11 ft. 6 in.

Shot put—Won by Coles (Virginia), 44 ft. 9 in.; second, Hooper (Dartmouth), 41 ft. 8½ in.; third, Johnson (Virginia), 40 ft. 7¾ in.

Discus—Won by Carpenter (Dartmouth), 129 ft. 5 in.; second, Coles (Virginia), 125 ft. 8 in.; third, Newell (Dartmouth), 117 ft. 9 in.

Javelin—Won by Stipe (Virginia), 166 ft. 10 in.; second, Kingsbury (Dartmouth), 161 ft. ¼ in.; third, Rand (Dartmouth), 156 ft. 9 in.

William-Mary Faces Carolina Track Team

Chapel Hill, N. C., April 6 (Spl.).—The University of North Carolina track team, 32 strong, left by bus this morning for Williamsburg, Va., where it will engage the strong William and Mary team tomorrow afternoon in its second stiff meet of the week.

The Southern Conference champions dropped their first dual meet in three years to Dartmouth on Tuesday by a score of 66 to 60 and may be in for another defeat at Williamsburg. William and Mary held Dartmouth to a 67½-to-58½ score and has one of the strongest nonconference teams in this section.

Dunlap Victor In Pinehurst Tourney

Champion Wins, 4 and 3, Over Chapman After Close Battle.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 6 (AP).—Battled to a standstill over half the route, George T. Dunlap, jr., the National champion, set a hot pace on the third leg of the 36-hole final round, and conquered Richard D. Chapman, jr., of Greenwich, 4 and 3, to win his third title to the annual North and South amateur tournament here today.

The champion and the contender started off with an ordinary brand of golf, in contrast to the par-breaking game both had demonstrated in the earlier rounds. Dunlap went out in 38 strokes, 2 over par, to stand 1 up at the end of the first nine. Chapman, who was New England champion in 1930, needed 39 strokes.

Coming in, Chapman tightened up to traverse the nine holes in 35, even par figures. He squared the match on the twelfth, with a par 4, against a 5 for Dunlap, and went ahead with a birdie deuce on the seventeenth. Dunlap's medal score for the nine holes was 38.

Three Birdies Help.

The defending champion put on a burst of speed on the next round, winning six of the nine holes, three of them with birdies, and going 5 up. He was out in 34. Chapman slumped to a 40.

On the last lap, the Connecticut player braced, after losing the twenty-eighth with a 5 against Dunlap's 4. The next two were halved, and Chapman won the thirty-first and thirty-second, the last bl holing a 30-foot putt from off the green for a birdie 3. Dunlap halved the next with a par 3 to close out the match.

The day's play saw Dunlap go over par figures for the first time since the tournament opened last Saturday with an 18-hole qualifying rounds, which the slender Long Islander won with a 67. His higher score was largely due to a lapse in the uncanny putting that featured his previous rounds.

Chapman was bothered with a bad hook in his afternoon rounds, and he could not get his putts to drop consistently.

Dombosky Beats Neely In Fight Card at Luke

Luke, Md., April 6 (Spl.).—Andy Dombosky, Cumberland welterweight, a veteran among amateur boxers of this region, stole the spotlight by outpointing Bill Neely, captain of West Virginia University's boxing team, in one of a series of nine bouts that featured the Devon Club's third amateur fistic carnival of the season.

Other results:

Ralph Brant 170, Cumberland, won decision over John Hanna, 167, Westernport.

Junior Kirk, 127, Barton, won decision over Jack Morrison, 126, Westernport.

Gabe Nasser, 155, Westernport, won decision over Pete Chikzie, 155 Zan A. C., Morgantown, W. Va.

Tracey Riggins, 167, Westernport, knocked out Gene Rizer, 162, Hyndman, Pa., in first round.

Frankie Wills, 120, Zan A. C., Morgantown, W. Va., won decision over Roy Sisk, 121, Cumberland.

Abe Curson 155, Cumberland, won decision over Al Madero 157, Frostburg.

Denver Welch, 128, Zan A. C., of Morgantown, W. Va., won decision over Delton Parker, 127, Cumberland.

Jack Rorick, 135, Cumberland, won decision over Woody Boord, 138, Zan A. C., Morgantown, W. Va.

Preston County Sets Field Day on May 4

Kingwood, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Preston County's annual field day has been arranged for May 4 in this city, and the athletic program is to be completed at a meeting of county coaches called for the night of April 9. District field days are to be held in the eight districts of the country April 27 as preliminaries for the county-wide meet.

Competition in scholastic events is to be held in the morning of May 4 in the Kingwood High School auditorium. These will be followed by calisthenics, drills, a musical program, a Maypole dance and a parade. The athletic events will be held in the afternoon.

Rippy Takes Rock Creek Golf Title

Defeats Oliver, 6 and 5, in Finals; Winner Is One Over Par.

Annexes 4 Holes in Row; Seay Wins Honors in Second Flight.

CLAUDE RIPPY, the lanky Tarheel, with a bagful of shots, won the Rock Creek Open golf championship yesterday at Rock Creek's course after turning in the most spectacular exhibition any municipal player displayed since the days George Voigt blazed a conquering trail o'er the local links.

Rippy defeated Andy Oliveri, a tough customer on any man's course, in the finals, with little or no difficulty, 6 and 5, but his victory over Oliveri is beside the point. The point is that the "Carolina Ripper" had to travel only 43 holes in his four matches, so quickly did he snuff out his opponents.

And, when he ran down his putt on the 168-yard thirteenth for a birdie deuce, Rippy had ripped par to shreds for these 43 holes, finishing 4 under orthodox figures.

Rippy eliminated C. Garland, 8 and 7, being 1 under par, for his opening match. He was 2 under in beating Bob Leapley, 5 and 4. Yesterday morning in the semifinals he walloped Serge W. Folk, 8 and 6, and licked par by 2 shots, after shooting a brilliant 33 on the first nine, and starting back 4—2—4.

Finishes 1 Over Par.

Rippy was out in 35 against Oliveri, and as the match officially ended on the thirteenth, he was 1 over par. To convince himself that he could continue along the even tenor of his way, Rippy played the full 18 against Oliveri, and finished with a 69, a muffed putt on the sixteenth preventing him from leveling par for the route.

Oliveri entered the finals by crushing Eddie Stolark, conqueror of the medalist, Russell Hoag. The margin was 8 and 6. Andy also was in fine fettle in this tilt, as he was only 2 over par when he climaxed the battle on the twelfth green. But the fat boy fell before Rippy's withering fire in the afternoon. He carried "Rip" even through the third, but the Carolinian went 1 up on the fourth with a par, 2 up on the sixth, 4 up at the eighth by making a birdie 4 and 5 up at the turn—4 holes in a row he won.

Rippy succeeds John Connelly as champion. Connelly forfeited his semifinals match to W. W. Seay in the second flight, and Seay won the flight by defeating Jack Higgins, 4 and 3.

Gordon Berkheimer and Earl Bean forged into the third flight finals, and will meet this morning.

Results of Flights.

Championship flight—Andy Oliveri defeated Eddie Stolark, 8 and 6; Claude Rippy defeated Serge W. Folk, 8 and 6. Rippy defeated Oliveri, 6 and 5.

Second flight—W. W. Seay won by default from John Connelly; Jack Higgins won by default from B. F. Kong. Seay defeated Higgins, 4 and 3.

Third flight—Gordon Berkheimer defeated C. W. Beall, 3 and 2; Earl Bean defeated W. W. King, 5 and 3.

3 Contests Today For Navy's Teams

Lacrosse, Tennis, Baseball Squads to Compete.

Annapolis, Md., April 6 (Spl.).—The Naval Academy lacrosse and tennis teams will stage their inaugural contests here tomorrow, the former entertaining Penn and the latter stacking up against Haverford College. A third event of the afternoon will be baseball with the University of Vermont.

The Middie tossers pried off the lid Wednesday when they bowed to a clever Cornell aggregation in a five-inning battle, played under the adverse conditions of drizzling rain and chilly winds.

The lacrosse team of St. John's College also will make its formal bow tomorrow, meeting Mount Washington Club in Baltimore.

Imposing Card Listed By Woodberry Forest

Woodberry Forest, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—The spring athletic schedules for Woodberry Forest teams present an imposing array of opposition, which includes eight baseball games, seven track meets, ten tennis engagements and four golf matches, with four others pending.

In the following schedules all contests are at home unless otherwise noted:

Baseball.

April 14, St. Albans; 21, Augusta Military, at Fort Defiance; 25, Staunton Military; 28, Virginia Episcopal, at Lynchburg.

May 5, Randolph-Macon; at Front Royal; 9, Fishburne Military; 12 St. Christophers, at Richmond; 19, Episcopal High.

Track.

April 7, Fork Union Military-St. Christophers-Randolph-Macon; 14, Virginia Episcopal and Staunton Military, at Staunton; 21, John Marshall High and Lynchburg High; 25, Virginia Freshmen.

May 5, State Prep School meet, at Charlottesville; 12, Episcopal High, at Alexandria; 19, "C" Club meet, at Washington.

Tennis.

Ship Suicide of Satoh Is Seen Killing Japan's Net Cup Hope

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP).—The suicide off Singapore of Jiro Satoh, 26-year-old Davis Cup ace, came today as a tragic shock to the tennis world, which saw in his death the end of Japanese hopes for success in cup play this year.

The little Japanese player leaped into the sea from the liner Hakone Maru, on which he and the other members of the Nipponese team were bound for Europe to prepare for the coming International tennis campaign, leaving behind a note announcing his intention to die. Search of several hours brought no trace of his body.

Friends in Tokyo, where his death was announced, said the physical and mental strain induced by a hard international campaign which carried him through the French, Wimbledon and United States championships and a summer of Davis Cup play had brought on a nervous collapse.

Was an Orphan.

His fiancee, Sanaye Okada, herself a well-known player, blamed school difficulties, his lonesomeness—he was an orphan—and his poor prospects for getting a job, as contributory factors.

"Jiro did not want to go to Europe," she said, "but the Japanese Tennis Association officials persuaded him to make one more Davis Cup expedition."

Satoh left the ship at Singapore, announcing his intention of returning home, but was persuaded to resume the trip. Shortly after the ship left port his absence was discovered and then the note.

Fred Perry, England's leading player in defense of the cup, who recently returned from a tour of the Far East and the Antipodes, described Satoh as "one of the finest players and best sportsman who ever walked on a court," and said his loss killed Japan's chances.

"He was their spearhead," Perry said, "a veteran who would have been given a good chance to win at least one singles match and possibly two. His loss leaves Japan only youngsters who are capable but lack Satoh's experience."

Similar sentiments were expressed by Walter Merrill Hall, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association; H. W. (Bunny) Austin, England's No. 2, and Maj. E. R. Larcombe, secretary of the English Lawn Tennis Club. Helen Wills Moody also paid a tribute to Satoh's ability and contributions to tennis.

Mourned By Austin.

Austin, who said it was always a pleasure to play Satoh, was deeply affected.

"It's a terribly tragic thing," he said. "He always gave the impression he would be the last man on earth to do such a thing."

Satoh, a student at Waseda University, made his first bid for international fame in 1930 when he was a finalist for the Japanese title. The next year he won it, made his country's Davis Cup Team and was picked as No. 9 player of the world by A. Wallis Myers, international tennis authority. Last year he again played a hard international tennis campaign and was selected by Myers as the third ranking world star, behind Jack Crawford and Perry. He was defeated in the fifth round of the American Nationals by Gregory Mangin.

Annual P. G. A. Match Play Proposed

Open Event to Take Place of Medal Grind Seen Boosting Crowds.

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP).—A movement has been undertaken by the Professional Golfers Association of America to stage an annual national open match play championship in place of the regular P. G. A. fixture held each year in the fall.

Willie MacFarlane, the tall Scottish pro with a burr in his voice and a punch in his shots, said today that the plan, after being under discussion for a number of years, was given official approval and impetus a few weeks ago by George R. Jacobus, progressive young president of the P. G. A.

"We were playing together in Bobby Jones' tournament at Augusta," Willie said, "when I brought up the subject with George. He took to the idea enthusiastically and authorized me to seek the sentiment of the other pros.

Would Settle Issue.

"I have talked to scores of professionals about it and they leaped at the prospect of such a tournament, because, for one thing, they agreed, it would settle the question of match play supremacy. After each P. G. A. tournament some one always raises the point that some amateur is a better match player than the P. G. A. champion. Well sir, an open match play event would settle that question from year to year."

There's another aspect to the proposition that accounts for the sudden revival of interest in such a tournament. The past few years, the P. G. A. championships have been financial flops.

"It is easy to visualize several thousand golf fans turning out to see Gene Sarazan meet Johnny Goodman or George Dunlap play Paul Runyan in an open match play tournament," MacFarlane said.

The lanky Scot, who learned the rudiments of the driver and the mashie back in old Aberdeen, doesn't figure such a tournament would be a run-away for the professionals.

Chance to Win.

"Any dozen amateurs," he opined, "can walk on the first tee with any dozen professionals and feel confident that they have a chance of beating them at match play.

"In my opinion, George Dunlap and Johnny Goodman have a fifty-fifty chance against any of the leading pros. In medal play, I'd say that, with the exception of Dunlap and Goodman, the chances of the amateurs decrease some 20 to 30 per cent.

The tournament, as proposed, would involve sectional qualifying rounds and 64 qualifiers. Low-scoring amateurs would be seeded along with the pros. Two 18-hole matches would be played on each of the first two days and on the remaining four days matches would be over the 36-hole route.

In addition to Dunlap and Goodman, MacFarlane includes in his list of 12 amateurs Gus Moreland, Johnny Fisher, Charlie Seaver, Maurice McCarthy, Jess Sweetster, Francis Oiumet, Billy Howell, Jack Westland, Jesse Guilford and Max Marston.

Barefooted Punter.

Henry Oana, Phillies' outfielder, can punt a football 85 yards in his bare feet.

Strife Rumor Leads Nats To Laugh

Battle of Bluege, Travis Is Far From Causing Split in Ranks.

Rained Out at Memphis, Team Opens Series With Cubs Today.

By Shirley L. Povich.
(Sports Editor, The Post.)

CHICAGO-BOUND With the Nats, April 6 (Spl.).—The Nats made good their escape from the South tonight under the cover of darkness, withdrawing from the banks of the Mississippi, where they had won the championship of Memphis this afternoon by default, as a result of the consistent work of the veteran Jupiter Pluvius, whose moist delivery produced a no-hit, no-run, no-game performance.

Tonight, the employes of Clark Griffith were headed for Chicago and a return to metropolitan America, after five weeks of repose and fitful barnstorming hops in the South, there to engage the Cubs tomorrow and Sunday in the two games that represent the Washington club's only chance to recoup its spring training expenses.

Retire to Lobby.

The no-game announcement early in the day inflicted terrible punishment on the hotel lobby upholstery, as the ball players, as is their wont, retired to the recesses of the armchairs and spent three weeks this afternoon gazing at the same familiar faces that had formed their little world since March 4.

Later in the afternoon there was detected an uncommon amount of buzzing and raucous laughter among the players, and our Operative Z-892 was dispatched to the scene to determine the wherefore of this undue commotion. Listen, dear readers, and you shall hear:

It seems that Joe Cronin had innocently picked up an afternoon paper, turned to the sports pages, extracted them, kicked the remainder of the paper in the general direction of the waste basket, as ball players do, and proceeded to read where his Washington club was torn by interna strife and dissension that threatened the success of the 1934 campaign.

Bluege-Travis "Row."

The Bluege-Travis situation was the kernel of the controversy on the Washington club, according to the dispatch, which emanated from New York, and which rambled on to the effect that such Washington stalwarts as Buddy Myer and Earl Whitehill were violently opposed to the displacement of Bluege at third base by the rookie Travis.

So open and flagrant was the opposition to Travis by certain members of the Washington club that Cronin was finding his team divided into opposing factions and the club virtually an armed camp.

Cronin laughed, Whitehill laughed and Myer laughed. Bluege smiled. The author of the piece was recognized as the same fellow who had said last summer that Bluege was a fair third baseman with a weak throwing arm, and then they laughed some more.

One Happy Family.

Cronin refused even to dignify the report by a denial that there was friction in the Nats, and unless my eyes fail me and my ears are playing me false, you may say for this correspondent that Mr. Cronin's club is the proverbial happy family.

They sent Monte Weaver to his Lansing (N. C.) home tonight, there to rest until the team returns to Washington on Monday, when such vital cogs as Heinie Manush and Luke Sewe aso wil rejoin their colleagues.

Four Duke Teams In Contests Today

Track, Diamond and Golf Varsities in Action.

Durham, N. C., April 6 (Spl.).—Four Duke University spring sports teams see action tomorrow afternoon.

The Blue Devil cinder path aggregation will hold forth on the home front, meeting the Flying Cadets of V. M. I. in the opening track meet between Southern Conference teams. Reynolds May, stocky right-hander, is slated to get the mound call for the baseball team against Elon. The golfers will meet North Carolina State in Raleigh. Cliff Perry, sophomore, and Jake Sullivan, veteran, will hold two of the posts for Duke.

Coach Herschel Caldwell takes his freshman baseball team to Wake Forest for its opener. George Barley, promising right-hander, will start on the mound for the Imps.

14 Boys Get Letters.

Cumberland, Md., April 6 (Spl.).—Fourteen boys were awarded letters and certificates for basket ball at Greene Street Junior High. Karl G. Perry, principal, made the presentation. The boys receiving awards follow: Frank Jordano, Donald Bowersox, Charles Haller, Brown Shircliffe, Bernard Gehauf, Edward Meconi, Eugene Stein, Fred Mills, Kenneth Smith, George Minnicks, Charles Cubbage, Sam Graham, Charles Rhind and Manager Allan Hirsh.

60 Entries Vie for Honors in Annual Hunter Trials at Potomac, Md., This Afternoon

Team Event Scheduled 1st Time

Col. Patton, Mrs. Winmill and Mrs. Guggenheim Among Exhibitors.

Hukupu and Keanakolu Included in List of Star Horses.

MANY of the outstanding hunters of Virginia, the District of Columbia and Maryland today will provide the most spirited competition ever known to the Riding and Hunt Club hunter trials, it is evidenced by the entry list for the third annual hunter trials to be held at Bradley Farms, Potomac, Md., at 1:45 o'clock. The 60 entries in this year's events constitute by far the largest and best list the club has ever had.

Most prominent among the exhibitors are Lieut. Col. George S. Patton, M. F. H. of the Cobbler Hunt at Delaplane, Va.; Mrs. Robert C. Winmill, of Warrenton, and Mrs. M. R. Guggenheim, of Washington. The tussle for highest honors, in all probability, will be between these three owners.

Hukupu, Lieut. Col. Patton's Hawaiian-bred chestnut gelding, will be a hot contender for the Riding and Hunt Club plate for hunters owned by members of recognized hunts and Army officers. The Hawaiian carried off the championship trophy a year ago at the West Point Horse Show, and last Monday won the Marshall Motor Co. cup at the Cobbler trials. Plenty of competition will be given the chestnut by Miss Beatrice Patton's Keanakolu, bay gelding that captured the Joint Masters' Cup at Delaplane last Monday, and Mrs. Patton's Quick Silver, second in the same event. Lieut. Col. Patton also has entered his Little John and Egoist, both of which are good hunters. Mrs. Winmill's Sin Quidado and My Toy, and Mrs. Guggenheim's Firenze Nosiree also are among the competitors for the plate.

Eight Teams Entered.

The hunt team event, for the National Capital Horse Show trophy, has attracted eight teams of three hunters each, and includes the teams of Lieut. Col. Patton, Mrs. Winmill and Mrs. Guggenheim. A large number of post entries is expected in this event, which marks the initial appearance of a team event in the Riding and Hunt Club trials.

The Master's Trophy for Riding and Hunt Club members boasts the entry of Mrs. I. T. Wyche's capable hunter, Swiftly Home, which is consistently in the ribbons in the local events. Battalion, William C. Hanson's chestnut gelding that placed as reserve champion hunter at the Riding and Hunt Club's March show, will be up in the ribbons if he goes as well as he usually does. Mrs. Guggenheim's Firenze Red and Miss Louise Herron's Papoose, both consistent winners, are other interesting entries.

Fort Myer Horses.

Fort Myer has entered seven Cavalry mounts, including Craftsman and Pot Gilbreath, horses that were prominent in the ribbons last Monday at Delaplane. Craftsman and Pot Gilbreath will compete for the Washington Times Trophy against three more of Lieut. Col. Patton's hunters and three more of Mrs. Winmill's.

The course is laid out in front of the clubhouse this year, instead of in the rear, where it stood for the two preceding trials. An important improvement in the course is that all of the ten obstacles can be seen from the lawn of the clubhouse. The course, shorter than that of last year, is about a mile and a half.

The horses entered in the trials are, in almost every case, animals regularly ridden to hounds, and most of the riding will be done by amateur owners.

Two Pitchers Signed.

Corrigansville, Md., April 6 (Spl.). A hard-hitting outfielder in the person of Harry "Spike" Dunn, of Midland, and Wilbert Wilhelm, right-handed pitcher of Wellersburg, Pa., have been signed by the Corrigansville Hustlers of the Inter-State Baseball League, according to announcement by "Vic" May, manager.

Not every freak is of interest to science, but the case of the wingless, flightless rooster in the National Zoo in Washington is strange even to scientists. The fact that the rooster was born without wings is of less importance than the fact that he has neither the courage nor the desire to fly.

Somewhere in the line of evolution this rooster lost what scientists call the flying instinct. Other birds whose wings are underdeveloped try to fly, even though flight for them is impossible. Scientists interested in evolution have the bird under observation, hoping to find some clew as to why this natural instinct has been lost. It may be an indication that in the distant future no chickens will fly.

At the Post . . .

with Bill Bennings.

Dear Al: Bowie Race Track, April 7.

The loudest rooter for Jockey Joe Jacobs yesterday was "Jockey No Boy" Jacobs. The latter is the handy man around the pressbox and Washington theater offices. When he learned that a jockey with his name was arriving from New Orleans, "No Boy" went right out to meet him. It was a case of friendship at first sight and now the rider looks upon "No Boy" as a luck charm. The Washington Jacobs was a close friend of the late Buddy Hanford, and the latter had him stand by the rail where he could see him on the way to the post. Hanford rode many a winner in those days and he contended that "No Boy" helped. BILL.

First race—Fake, a daughter of Morvich, ran a fine race the other day and for the fact that she was forced to run on the outside of the field she might have scored. Draws an inside post today and clear sailing should start us off with a winner. Synod was educated in Florida. Herendeth for the show.

Second race—Hawk Moth did everything asked the first time out, coming from behind to take a purse. Picks up a little weight here but the presence of Jacobs in the saddle off-set that item. Texas Tommy was forced to yield to the closing rush of My Boss last out. Will be a factor in this field. Appomattox for the show. Merrie Marie is a rank outsider with a fighting chance.

Third race—Lough Port appears to be a standout in this sprint. Showed real speed in his first try of the year. Manager Bill has had the benefit of a race and should take the place award from the unreliable Fred Almy.

Fourth race—Up and Up showed a liking for this track, coming through with a victory the first time in action. More stoutly opposed today, but I'm stringing along. Angelic, a slow beginner, is a dangerous contender. Westy's Duke, a Florida winner, for the show.

Fifth race—Soon Over gets the call over the field in the feature. The Greentree representative has had the benefit of two hard races at Hialeah, finishing fourth in the Derby. He will have condition on the stars of the field. Coucci, of course, will do the riding. The Immortal II comes over from Benning recommended by fast trials. Jack Low's light weight assignment may help. Herowin is cheap but has a fighting chance.

Sixth race—Gloritone has worked smartly and may surprise the customers with a win at the first shot. Irene's Bob for the place and Range Finder for the show. The last-named was a paddock tip last out.

Bridgewater Is Beaten By Trenton Nine, 4 to 3

Harrisonburg, Va., April 6 (Spl.). The University Club of Trenton, N. J., defeated Bridgewater College, 4 to 3, this afternoon in a five-inning contest, halted by rain. The New Jersey nine tallied 4 more runs in the sixth, but these were nullified by the rain.

Each nine registered eight hits, Pancost and Perina clouting triples for the visitors. The two teams play at Bridgewater again tomorrow.

The score by innings:

| | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|
| University Club. | 0 2 2 0 0—4 | 8 | 2 |
| Bridgewater..... | 1 0 0 2 0—3 | 8 | 1 |

Virginia U.'s Golfers Meet W. & L. April 17

Charlottesville, Va., April 6 (Spl.). Virginia's golf team, which opened the season by defeating Boston College, 14 to 4, has nearly two weeks more of practice before playing the second match of the spring against Washington and Lee on April 17 over the Farmington Club course.

Three local residents, Warren Elliott, Tommy Shepherd and Jimmy Twyman, are likely to have places on the team, which is the first to represent Virginia in intercollegiate golf play in two years.

Cavalier Netmen Play.

Charlottesville, Va., April 6 (Spl.).—Virginia's tennis team has added a match with the Oakwood Club of Lynchburg to make 20 court engagements for the season. The Hill City netters will come to play on the courts here tomorrow afternoon.

Chart of Bowie Races

WEATHER, CLEAR. TRACK, FAST.

FIRST RACE—Four furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:32. Off at 2:39. Winner, E. K. Bryson's ch. f. (2), by Our General—Mae Quince. Trained by O. R. Bryson. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third $50; fourth $25. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48 2-5.

| PAY RACK | 112 | 6 | 4 | 5h | 6½ | 6½ | Erickson | 43.30 |
| SEXTON | 112 | 7 | 7 | 7 | 7 | 7 | Lowry | 34.20 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—OUR MAE, $5.20, $2.80, $2.20; CHEKA, $2.90, $2.20; WHOA BACK, 2.20.

OUR MAE settled in her stride quickly after the beginning, sprinted into an easy lead when reaching the home stretch and, kept under pressure, had enough left to withstand CHEKA. Latter, prominent and saving ground during the late stages, was slowly wearing the winner down nearing the end. WHOA BACK unseated his rider before the start and run off a mile. He dropped back after breaking quickly, responded to pressure and closed gamely. MOTLEY showed speed in spots. PHYLLIS ANN was held safe. PAY RACK raced greenly. SEXTON went wide.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:10. Off at 3:15½. Winner D. Runyon's br. g. (3), by Sun Briar—Edwina. Trained by H. Jacobs. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:14 4-5.

| BRAD | 117 | 6 | 9 | 9 | 9 | 9 | 9 | Mergler | 89.20 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUN SHADOW, $19.70, $8.10, $4.30; TRANSEN, $3.90, $2.50; ESPERANTO, $2.60.

SUN SHADOW, rated close to the leaders in the early stages swung to the outside when approaching the home stretch, wore TRANSEN down and came out slowly at the end. TRANSEN raced AQUARIUS into submission in the first five furlongs, gained a brief lead, but could not withstand the winner. ESPERANTO, slower than usual to reach her best stride, circled her field and finished with a rush. CHIEF'S TROUBADOR was unable to threaten seriously at any stage. SUSPICIOUS saved much ground the entire trip and had no excuses. CABOCHON was hard ridden the entire journey. The others were outrun.

THIRD RACE—Four furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:40. Off at 3:42. Winner, Greentree Stable's b. g. (2), by Wildair—Rowage. Trained by M. C. Lilly. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 1-5, 0:48 1-5.

| ON OUR WAY | 112 | 3 | 5 | 7½ | 8 | 8 | Lowry | 40.10 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ALARIC, $9.40, $3.70, $2.60; HILISE, $2.90, $2.50; MISS FIREFLY, 5.80.

ALARIC, hustled into a forward position directly after the start, responded strongly on the inside during the stretch drive and, closing gamely, was up in the last fifty yards. HILISE, rushed around her field at the first turn, displayed good speed and held on well when challenged. MISS FIREFLY could not improve her position and just lasted to stall off EXHIBIT. Latter, crowded back shortly after the start, secured racing room in the final quarter mile and closed gamely. BACK FENCE was outrun. DUNFOX lacked early speed. ROCKMEN went wide.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:13. Off at 4:14½. Winner, Mrs. T. J. Donohue's br. f. (3), by Queen's Guild—Little Star. Trained by T. J. Donohue. Value to winner $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth $25. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:15 2-5.

| TUMBLE IN | 105 | 8 | 3 | 5h | 7h | 9 | 9 | J. Renick | 121.40 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STAR QUEEN, $34.10, $15.20, $5.80; BUNGALOW, $7.00, $3.80; WATERSET, $2.40.

STAR QUEEN, showing nice speed, was given a mild breathing spell when unable to outrun BUNGALOW, responded stoutly when reaching the home stretch and, closing strongly, was up in the last sixteenth. BUNGALOW hurried to the front and saving ground, held, on with excellent courage under stiff punishment. WATERSET, placed forward, made up some ground during the final drive. Her saddle slipped and Coucci could not give his mount full justice. PATRICE RUNYON, away slowly, improved her position while taking a wide course. LIGHT BREEZE was taken very wide from the beginning. She closed a big gap. THE GEN weakened. CURENA had early speed.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:46. Off at 4:51. Winner, C. O. Wenley's b. g. (3), by Transmute—Chrysalid. Trained by J. A. Rennie. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 2-5 0:48, 1:15 1-5.

| PLATEAU | 105 | 6 | 2 | 2h | 8h | 8½ | 9 | Dabson | 184.90 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHRYSMUTE, $6.20, $4.00 $2.80; TRILLIUM, $8.30, $4.60; THOUGHTLESS, $4.60.

CHRYSMUTE, working her way up on the outside after settling in her stride, wore the leaders down when straightened into the home stretch and was kept under urging until the end. TRILLIUM, fractious at the post, secured racing room on the inside and continued stoutly during the final drive. THOUGHTLESS raced PLATEAU into submission early and then fought it out with good energy in the closing drive. LITTLE CORPORAL closed some ground during the last half mile. DESERT SANDS went wide most of the trip. BLUE FOAM went well placed but was unable to stay when put to a drive. PLATEAU showed speed in the first half mile.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse $900; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:16. Off at 5:17. Winner, Mrs. H. D. Cox's b. or br. g. (4), by Terry—Disparity. Trained by H. D. Cox. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:14 3-5 1:42, 1:47 2-5.

| CHANGEABLE | 106 | 7 | 4 | 4½ | 6h | 7 | 6h | 7 | Weir | 84.60 |

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PARITY, $6.50, $4.00, $3.60; SPARTAN LADY, $6.40 $6.20; KINDACORN, $7.40.

PARITY sprinted into a commanding lead at once, was placed to intermittent punishment when challenged at the final turn, came again after being passed and outstayed SPARTAN LADY right at end. SPARTAN LADY squeezed back going to the first turn, went to the outside for racing room, gained a brief lead at the final furlong pole, but hung badly nearing the finish. KINDACORN moved up strongly approaching the home stretch, but appeared to weaken inside the closing furlong. AZENTEA saved ground all the way and raced in good form. SOUTHARD lacked speed and trailed far back most of the trip. CHANGEABLE tired.

Stocks Crawl Up Four-Tenths In Quiet Sales

Rail Issues Stand Out in Advances; Trading Cut to 1,042,250 Shares.

New York, April 6 (AP).—Stocks traveled through a quiet market today, still maintaining a slight balance on the upside, though turnover barely exceeded a million shares.

Further delays in connection with the exchange regulation bill were accompanied by indications that the final committee draft would contain some concessions to critics of the measure as it has stood for the past few weeks.

The market, however, looked rather cold to the prospects of revision.

Rail Issues Stand Out.

Rail issues tended to stand out in the dull session. Some of the Van Sweringen shares, notably Chesapeake Corporation, Chesapeake & Ohio and Alleghany preferred, rallied, accompanied by moderate improvement in New York Central, Pennsylvania, Santa Fe and Baltimore & Ohio, among others. Union Pacific rose 3 net.

Copper shares made a little progress, while gold mining issues were quiet. Motors held back at times, doubtless because of labor difficulties at an accessory company plant, but hardened later.

Nash improved a major fraction. American Telephone was apparently undisturbed by the Splawn report; it finished nearly a point higher.

Powers Point Lower.

Power company representatives tended lower in the wake of yesterday's recovery, presumably because the New York State Senate, although it defeated two of Gov. Lehman's utility bills, passed eight others, including one which would give the State public service commission authority to reduce rates temporarily to a 5 per cent return basis.

Stocks that figured in the exchange's inquiry into recent market transactions were subdued; some of them during the last fortnight have been unusually active.

Sales for the five hours reached a total of 1,042,250 shares, the smallest volume this week.

Reports on retail trade noted a let down in some directions as the stimulant of Easter shopping was withdrawn, but improvement was said to have occurred in others. Freight loadings were off 19 cars last week; an increase would have been more in line with seasonal tendencies.

Robey's Review

Finance Economics Business

Problem of Marginal and Submarginal Farmers Provides a Good Example of the Difficulties Involved in a Planned Economy.

By Ralph West Robey.

Nothing is much more certain about a planned economy than that the "solution" of one problem will create other problems that have to be solved. Perhaps this is the reason the whole idea of a planned economy is so attractive to a "brain trust." If it were a question of simply overhauling an economic system and getting an organization that would run by itself the work soon would be done and the "brain trust" could go back to its classes. With a planned economy, however, there is no danger of this. One solution after another has to be devised. There can be no end—at least not until the public gets tired of this trend.

All of this is beautifully illustrated in connection with the agricultural program of the last year. Through the AAA the Government has distributed some hundreds of millions of dollars. By so doing it has caused, according to reports, some scores of thousands of families to be thrown off the land they were cultivating. Hence, we have a new problem—the taking care of those that heretofore have not been dependent upon Government support to keep body and soul together. In the language of the "brain trust" this is the problem of the marginal and submarginal farmers.

Are Marginal and Submarginal Producers in All Lines?

Now, of course, we always have had a marginal and submarginal farmer problem. This means nothing more than that some farmers have found the cost of production has been equal to, or greater than, the market price of their product. In economic terminology the former—those whose cost of production just equals market price—are marginal producers, and the latter are submarginal producers.

We also have the same problem throughout the industrial and business field. In fact, in the strict sense of the term any business organization that does not make more than a reasonable return on its capital investment falls in one or the other of these categories. Granting that 5 per cent is a reasonable return on capital, a business that makes only 4 per cent is submarginal.

Theoretically, too, the same situation prevails in labor. Anyone who works for less than a subsistence wage is a submarginal laborer. There is nothing strange or unique, therefore, in the fact that we have marginal and submarginal farmers. We always have had such farmers and we always will have such farmers.

Agriculture Problem Is Unique for Other Reasons.

What is unique in the case of agriculture, aside from the purely political aspect, is the reason the problem has become so pressing. So long as the marginal and submarginal farmers could get a livelihood from the land they occupied it was not imperative for the Government to come to their rescue. They might not be making a good living, or even a living that "liberals of the heart, but not of the brain," would consider acceptable, but they were not starving.

When the AAA started passing out money, however, the situation was changed. Then it became profitable for landlords to kick their tenants off the property and leave the land fallow. In this way the landlords are the sole recipients of the Government's generosity.

How extensive this has been is an open question. One private estimate—and I do not know what percentage of error it may contain—is that in the State of Texas alone there are 30,000 families that have been turned off the land for this reason. In any case the number is great enough to have started an investigation by the Government.

Ill. Cen. Ry. Net Of $158,901 Halts Losses

Santa Fe Road's Income of $3,698,671 Is Lowest Since 1898.

Chicago, April 6 (AP).—The Illinois Central System closed the year 1933 with a net income of $158,901 after all charges, contrasted with a deficit of $3,505,942 in 1932.

The railroad's business on the whole was less than in the previous year. Operating revenues declined from $89,305,278 to $87,958,483, but operating expenses were trimmed from $66,504,096 to $61,939,472. Total income, before deducting fixed charges, was $17,965,691 against $14,430,034 in 1932.

The Illinois Central reported a 12.2 per cent gain in revenue passengers per mile, but a decrease of 11.97 per cent in average revenue per passenger mile because of reduced rates.

The balance sheet put current assets at $31,061,601, including $6,074,582 cash and $2,000,000 time drafts and deposits, while current liabilities were $13,764,313.

Net income of the Missouri Public Service Co. for 1933 was $23,428 compared with $46,195 in 1932.

Gross earnings were $1,316,904, a decline of $74,900 or 5.4 per cent, of which 5 per cent was in electric revenues. F. H. Luecke, president, said there was some improvement in business in the last months of the year.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Co. today reported a net corporate income of $3,698,671 for 1933, the lowest since 1898.

The figure compared with $7,545,007 in 1932 and $61,036,803 in its best year, 1929.

Drought in the Southwest and lack of purchasing power in Santa Fe territory were blamed by S. T. Bledsoe, president of the line since William B. Storey retired in May, for the dwindling revenues of the last year.

New York, April 6 (AP).—Directors of Phillips Jones Corporation declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock of the company, payable May 1 to stock of record April 20.

Stromberg Carlson Telephone Manufacturing Co. reports 1933 net loss of $331,128, against loss of $777,592 in 1932.

Net loss of Thompson-Starrett Co., Inc., for the nine months ended January 25, 1934, was $133,112, compared with net earnings of $5,488 for the nine months ended January 26, 1933.

Ingersoll-Rand Co. and subsidiaries had 1933 net profit of $164,184 against net loss of $2,935,919 in 1932.

United Light & Power Co. reports 1933 net income of $1,455,956, equal to $2.42 a share on the $6 first preferred stock. This compares with $4,171,925, equal after preferred dividends to 16 cents a share on the combined class A and B common stocks in 1932.

Bonds Drive To New Highs; Close Is Mixed

Profit-Taking Occurs in All Categories; Sales, $15,311,000.

New York, April 6 (AP).—Although the upward movement in bonds encountered some resistance today, and prices were a little mixed at the close of the market, "new highs" were again recorded by a number of issues.

There was considerable profit-taking apparent in all categories, but trading dwindled on the intermittent declines and transfers totaled only $15,311,000, par value, compared with $17,365,000 yesterday.

The average for 60 domestic corporate loans edged up one-tenth of a point to 86.1, another peak since 1931.

Federal Loans Decline.

Traders in the Government department showed a disposition to cash in some of their substantial gains and the majority of the listed Federal loans declined one-thirty-second to seven-thirty-seconds of a point. The turnover here amounted to only about $2,800,000.

Liberty Fourth 4¼s yielded three-thirty-seconds of a point at 101.10, despite word from Washington that holders of the series, which is to be retired April 15, were responding satisfactorily to the Treasury's conversion offer of 3¼ per cent long-term bonds for the maturing issue.

Neither secondary nor prime investment bonds exhibited much of their recent buoyancy. There were scattered strong spots, however, such as in the Alleghany Corporation group, where relatively heavy transactions brought gains of 3 to 4 points. Chesapeake Corporation 5s also were active at an advance of 1 point.

Among Moderate Gains.

Elsewhere moderate gains were held by issues of Santa Fe, Rock Island, Chile Copper, Consolidated Gas, Erie, Goodyear, Goodrich, Great Northern, Hudson & Manhattan, Illinois Central, International Telephone, Milwaukee Electric, National Dairy, New Orleans Public Service, North American Edison, Postal Telegraph, Shell Union Oil, Union Pacific, U. S. Rubber and Warner Bros.

Bonds of Western Pacific, Standard Oils of New York and New Jersey, Norfolk & Western, Hudson Coal, Detroit Edison, Denver & Rio Grande, Chicago & North Western, St. Paul and Baltimore & Ohio drifted lower.

The foreign section was steady to firm. Advances of 1 to around 2 points were registered by obligations of Japan, Germany, Argentina, North German Lloyd, Lataro Nitrate and Sao Paulo.

The Markets at a Glance

What the Stock Market Did.

| | Fri. | Thur. |
|---|---|---|
| Advances | 296 | 335 |
| Declines | 280 | 276 |
| Unchanged | 152 | 183 |
| Total issues | 728 | 794 |

Stocks—Quiet trading was the rule and stocks managed to chalk up an average gain of four-tenths of a point. Rails tended to stand out in advances. Sales dropped to 1,042,250 shares.

Bonds—Upward movements in bonds encountered some resistance, but gains averaged one-tenth of a point higher. Profit-taking was apparent in all categories. Sales decreased in volume to $15,311,000.

Curb—Narrow irregularity marked trading at the curb. Speculative interest waned, and the session was dull and featureless. Sales volume decreased to 255,000 shares.

Wheat—Closing prices were unchanged. All grains, except rye, nearly stood still. Rye advanced 1⅛ to 1½. The rise was laid to likelihood of a higher import duty on that grain. May wheat sold at 88⅛; July, at 86½.

Cotton—Prices rallied after early declines. The general market finished firm at net advances of 1 to 11 points. July closed at 12.18. May sold at 12.09.

Rubber—Crude rubber futures closed easy, 3 lower to 3 higher. May sold at 11.58; July, at 11.88.

Sugar—Raw sugar declined 10 points to the basis of 2.85; refined was unchanged at 4.50.

Coffee—Spot coffee was quiet. Santos No. 4 sold at 11¼; Rio No. 7, at 10¼.

Silver—Bar silver was easy. It sold in New York ⅛ lower at 46⅛ cents per ounce.

Gold—Bar gold sold in the U. S. at $35.00 per ounce. It sold in London at 135 shillings and 1 penny.

Dollar—The United States dollar was lower on foreign exchanges. It stood in New York, with reference to other currencies, $5.16½ to the English pound; 6.60 cents to the French franc, and 39.80 cents to the German mark.

U. S. Dollar Yields On Foreign Marts

(Associated Press.)

Foreign exchanges were quiet and changes small today. The dollar yielded slightly in foreign centers, but principal currencies failed to carry through the advance in New York in later trading.

In London the dollar declined ¾ of a cent to close at 5.15½ to the pound sterling. In New York the British unit was unchanged in later trading at $5.15½.

In Paris the dollar yielded nearly a centime to finish at an equivalent of 6.60 to the franc, while in later trading in New York the French currency declined a minor fraction of a cent to 6.60½ cents.

Gold advanced 4½ pence to 135 shillings 1 penny in the London open market, at which price approximately $1,505,990 was purchased at an equivalent of about $34.83 a fine ounce.

Wool Market.

Boston, April 6 (A.P.). (U. S. Department of Agriculture).—The demand for finer quality Western-grown wool showed a slight improvement over the extreme dullness that has prevailed for the past two weeks. An occasional house received a call for ungraded Western wool. Original bag territory lines of mixed grades, comprising 64s and finer and 58s, 60s, half-blood of fair combing length brought 80 to 83 cents, scoured basis. Twelve-months' Texas wool in original bags brought around 85 cents, scoured basis for choice staple, and 82 to 83 cents for average.

Rubber Closes Easy.

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—Crude rubber futures closed easy, 3 lower to 3 higher. May, 11.58@11.59; July, 11.86@11.90; September, 12.17@12.18; October, *12.29. Smoked ribbed spot closed *11.62.

*Nominal.

Irregularity Marks Price Shifts on Curb

Speculative Interest Wanes as Sales Total Drops to 255,000 Shares.

New York, April 6 (AP).—Narrow irregularity marked the close of curb dealings today. Speculative interest lagged as trading assumed a dull and featureless character.

Transfers declined to approximately 255,000 shares compared with 394,000 for yesterday. Mixed changes were shown by metals, specialties and oils. Utilities were a shade easier.

Greyhound Corporation (new) was an isolated active feature, advancing 1⅝ points. Lake Shore nearly recovered yesterday's 2-point drop. Other gold shares, however, showed little change.

Ford of Canada A and Mead Johnson were fairly firm but Aluminum Co. of America, Gulf Oil, Novadel Agene and Pan American Airways reacted a point or more each.

Swift & Co., Standard Oil of Indiana and Electric Bond & Share were about steady but American Gas & Electric, Hiram Walker, and Hollinger Gold worked a little lower.

Heavy Export Gain Laid to Dollar Slash

By Claude A. Jagger.

New York, April 5 (AP).—The devalued dollar, despite tariffs, import restrictions and other barriers to world trade, is being reflected by a brisk expansion of the dollar volume of our exports.

Exports in February, the first full month of the dollar of 15 5-21 grains of gold, at $162,805,000, were 60 per cent over February of last year, when sales of our goods abroad were reckoned in terms of the old gold dollar, of 25 4-5 grains, nine-tenths fine.

Old and New Dollars.

Actually, the old dollar was 69 per cent higher than the new dollar, so in terms of gold our exports last February were not quite up to the level of that month a year previously.

But as our costs and profits are reckoned in the new dollar, which will buy almost as much as it would a year previously, barring the small reduction in purchasing power resulting from rising costs, the 60 per cent increase is a real increase.

The Federal Reserve index figures indicate that the dollar cost of living rose only about 8 per cent between February this year and that month of 1933.

Cost to Foreigner.

The cost of our goods to the foreigner, save insofar as his own currency may have fluctuated, and our prices have risen, is some 41 per cent under what it was a year ago. This varies, of course, in individual commodities and products. Retail prices of a number of manufactures has risen scarcely at all. Some have risen moderately, and a number of raw materials have advanced sharply.

The general American commodity price level has increased only about 9 per cent from February to February.

Some foreign currencies have declined. The sterling group has come down a short way with the dollar, but both this factor and the rise of the dollar price level have by no means offset the advantage to the sterling bloc countries of the lower dollar, when they buy American goods.

Employment Peak Is Made in Detroit

Workers Engaged in March Gain 157 Per Cent Over '33 Period.

Detroit, April 6 (U.P.).—Employment in Detroit during the month of March has shown an increase of 157 per cent over the same period in 1933 and is the highest since May 1930, according to the employment index released today by the Detroit Board of Commerce.

The index for March is 107.7, an increase of 8½ per cent over the latter part of February, as against the index for May, 1930, which was 109.2.

It is believed the rise is caused by automobile plants increasing employment under the new 36-hour week. The final effect of the new hour provisions, it is said, will not be felt until the latter part of April.

The highest index in Detroit history was 137.8 on March 15, 1929.

Work to Be Given 450 By Wheeling Steel Plant

Wheeling, W. Va., April 6 (Spl.). Announcement was made yesterday by the management of the Wheeling Steel Co. that 450 more men would be employed Monday at its Benwood plant.

Operations will be resumed at two Bessemer converters, one blooming mill and one skelp mill, all idle since January.

Foreign Markets.

(Associated Press.)

London—Owing to the settlement day tomorrow, business on the stock exchange was restricted. Gold mining shares were buoyants on rumors of tax concessions in South Africa, but gilt-edged securities and home rails eased on realizing. Trans-atlantic issues and industrials hardened. The market closed irregular.

Paris—Profit-taking brought to a halt the upward surge on the bourse. Rentes and gold mining shares, however, were exceptions, and continued to improve. The closing was heavy and inactive.

Berlin—A general improvement was registered on the boerse in early dealings, with iron shares leading the way on optimistic iron reports. Prices, however, reacted later and closed dull.

Goods Markets.

New York, April 6 (A.P.).—Cotton goods were steady and quiet today with more inquiries reported for gray and colored cottons. Wool goods sold moderately for prompt delivery. Sheer silk materials were in demand. Printed lines are being cut up more freely. Rayon yarns for June delivery were sold. Burlaps were firm. Some shipment business was done at unchanged prices.

Transactions on N. Y. Bond Market

(Associated Press.)

Total sales of bonds yesterday, $15,311,000; previous day, $17,365,000; week ago, holiday; year ago, $9,532,000; two years ago, $15,799,000; January 1 to date, $1,244,164,000; year ago, $739,822,000; two years ago, $831,945,000.

Cotton Prices Climb After Early Losses

May Closes at 12.09 as General Market Rises 1 to 11 Points.

New York, April 6 (AP).—Trade demand for May contracts, causing relative firmness of that position, accounted for a rally in cotton today, following early moderate declines under a continuation of foreign selling.

July recovered from 12.05 to 12.19 and closed at 12.18, with the general market finishing firm, at net advances of 1 to 11 points. May closed at the maximum gain of the range and March but 1 point over last night.

Opening at losses of 2 to 4 points, the market eased about 2 to 4 points further, in sympathy with relatively easier cables and continued Liverpool selling of the late months.

Market Is Quiet.

The market was quiet and responsive to moderate pressure from abroad, as well as to some selling credited to the South, wire houses and liquidation of May. After the foreign offerings had tapered off, toward the middle of the morning, prices turned steadier on scattered buying through commission and spot houses.

Buying of the near-month by trade and spot interests, attributed partly to reports of a tight spot situation in the South, became more noticeable during the afternoon and differences between May and new crop deliveries narrowed considerably.

Trading otherwise was on a rather restricted basis, with the market apparently awaiting definite developments on the conference of House and Senate committees to iron out differences in the Bankhead bill. May sold up from 11.93 to 12:10 and October from 12.18 to 12.29, and final prices were at or within a few points of the highs.

The closing difference between May and October was 19 points, as compared with 26 points at the close on Thursday. A statement by the manager of the cotton producers' pool of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration regarding policies in marketing 1,950,000 bales of pool cotton after July 31 was regarded as reassuring, but apparently was without market influence.

Exports today, 22,462 bales, making 6,277,239 bales so far this season. Port receipts, 16,765 bales. United States port stocks, 3,061,708 bales.

Futures Price Rrange.

| | High. | Low | Last. |
|---|---|---|---|
| May | 12.10 | 11.93 | 12.09 |
| July | 12.19 | 12.05 | 12.18@12.19 |
| October | 12.29 | 12.18 | 12.28 |

| January | 12.42 | 12.34 | 12.42 |
| March | 12.32 | 12.41 | 12.52 |

Spot steady; middling, 12.30.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was steady today on scattered covering and commission house buying promoted by the steadiness of lard and cotton with the market closing unchanged to 5 points net higher. The trade appeared to be watching the Senate discussions on the tax bill relative to import taxes of 3 cents per pound on all vegetable oils. Sales were 31 contracts. Bleachable spot nominal; May closed 5.35, July 5.59, September 5.80, October 5.89.

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Anthracite—The trade hears that some leading operators will cut prices on certain sizes 75 cents to $1 a ton, effective April 10.

Zinc—Sellers appear more confident on the trade outlook, although current buying is limited. Prices are firm at 4.30 cents a pound, East St. Louis, and 4.65 cents, New York.

Burlap—Stocks in Calcutta at the end of March titaled 85,000,000 yards, compared with 80,800,000 yards at the end of February and 89,500,000 yards a year ago.

Tin—Prices are in new high ground for the year, reflecting, according to trade interests, belief that the international tin committee this week will agree to hold production around present quotas.

Dyestuffs—Benzol prices have eased about 1½ cents a gallon during the past few weeks. The lower prices apply to deliveries over the second quarter.

Sales Set New Record.

Chicago, April 6 (AP).—M. J. Roberts, vice president of the Timken Silent Automatics Co., reported March sales had set a new record for this month.

Freight Loads Decreased to 608,443 Cars

Week's Shipments Decline 19 Units as All Areas Rise.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended March 31 totaled 608,443 cars, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced today.

This was a decrease of 19 cars under the preceding week, but an increase of 110,087 cars above the corresponding week in 1933 and 63,482 cars above the corresponding week in 1932.

Miscellaneous freight loading for the week of March 31 totaled 226,922 cars, a decrease of 1,286 cars below the preceding week, but 50,159 cars above the corresponding week in 1933, and 34,387 cars above the corresponding week in 1932.

Merchandise Less.

Loading of merchandise less than carload lot freight totaled 166,125 cars, a decrease of 417 cars below the preceding week, but 6,550 cars above the corresponding week in 1933. It was, however, a decrease of 20,360 cars below the same week in 1932.

Grain and grain products loading for the week totaled 27,512 cars, a decrease of 2,372 cars below the preceding week, 6,815 cars below the corresponding week in 1933, and 1,664 cars below the same week in 1932. In the Western districts alone, grain and grain products loading for the week ended March 31 totaled 17,311 cars, a decrease of 4,653 cars below the same week in 1933.

Forest products loading totaled 23,962 cars, a decrease of 848 cars below the preceding week, but an increase of 6,689 cars above the same week in 1933, and 4,776 cars above the same week in 1932.

Ore Loads Decrease.

Ore loading amounted to 4,199 cars, a decrease of 179 cars below the preceding week, but 1,538 cars above the corresponding week in 1933 and 2,016 cars above the corresponding week in 1932.

Coal loading amounted to 138,558 cars, an increase of 4,942 cars above the preceding week, 49,438 cars above the corresponding week in 1933 and 43,777 cars above the same week in 1932.

Coke loading amounted to 7,624 cars, an increase of 230 cars above the preceding week, 3,857 cars above the same week in 1933 and 3,216 cars above the same week in 1932.

Live Stock Declines.

Live stock loading amounted to 13,541 cars, a decrease of 89 cars below the preceding week, 1,329 cars below the same week in 1933, and 2,662 cars below the same week in 1932. In the Western districts alone, loading of live stock for the week ended March 31 totaled 10,564 cars, a decrease of 1,040 cars below the same week in 1933.

All districts reported increases for the week of March 31 compared with the corresponding week in 1933. All districts also reported increases compared with the same week in 1932 except the Central Western which showed a slight decrease.

Richmond Markets.

Richmond, Va., April 6 (A.P.).—The Richmond Market—(Note prices quoted are for small lots sold by commission merchants to small buyers and retailers. Large wholesale deals and carlot sales are not quoted. Steps on live stock.)

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—Receipts liberal and market steady. Northern and Western-grown potatoes in 100-pound sack packs a shade lower. Virginia white potatoes, 1.00@1.15 a bushel. Virginia sweet potatoes in bushel basket packs, 1.00@1.25 a bushel. Cabbage in 50-pound crate packs, 1.25; tomatoes in 30-pound lug packs, 2.25@2.75; kale, 90@1.00 bushel, spinach, 1.25 a bushel; oranges, 3.00; grapefruits, 2.75@3.00 a box; lettuce, 3.50; celery, 2.00@2.25 a crate. Virginia apples No. 1 saps, 1.75@2.00; few, 2.25; utility grade, 1.35@1.60; unclassified, 1.00@1.25.

BUTTER—Receipts liberal and market steady. Virginia creamery in pound carton packs, jobbing lots, 30 pounds to the case, 26c pound; 25-pound packing stock not quoted, as without dependable outlet.

EGGS—Receipts liberal; market steady and unchanged; cash buyers paying net 14, commission basis mostly 15 with a few Kennery whites at 16. Small eggs and dirty eggs as to weight and quality.

POULTRY—Receipts fairly liberal. Market steady and unchanged. Bulk of sales, Leghorn hens, 11@12; colored hens, bulk, 14@15; few best rocks at 16; good and choice spring rock broilers, 28@25; other chickens, 16@22; turkey hens, 22@25 pound; toms, 19@20. Guineas, 40 to 50 each.

HOGS—Receipts moderate. Market quotable, steady and unchanged, with top at 4.50 paid for choice butcher stock of medium weight. Other classes and grades as to quality and weight.

CATTLE—Receipts moderate and market quotable, steady. Veal calves, 3.00@6.00; cows, 1.25@3.50.

SHEEP—Receipts light. Ewes quotable, 1.50@4.00. Yearling lambs, 4.00@8.50; spring lambs, 8.00@11.50.

Baltimore Grain Prices.

Baltimore, April 6.—WHEAT—Receipts, 1,008 bushels by car. Shipments from elevators, 7,400 bushels; stock in elevators, 1,001,275 bushels. Opening prices were: No. 2 red winter, garlicky, spot, domestic, 91. April delivery, domestic, 91. Receipts of wheat running freer, principally from the West Coast, but demand rather quiet for No. 2 red winter, garlicky. Off grades especially hard to move.

CORN—Receipts, 902 bushels by car. Shipments from elevators, 986 bushels; stock in elevators, 14,254 bushels. Receipts of corn from the nearby sections have recently been running light. For yellow and high-colored mixed there is a fair domestic demand.

OATS—Receipts, 2,016 bushels by car. Shipments from elevators, 4,266 bushels. Stock in elevators, 92,821 bushels. Receipts of oats show some increase here. Demand is fair in a jobbing way. Choice, heavy weight oats command a good premium over the average run and lighter weights. No. 2 white oats, 45@48 per bushel, as to weight and location.

RYE—Receipts, 7,407 bushels by car. Shipments from elevators, 166 bushels. Stock in elevators, 22,770 bushels.

HAY—General hay market is quiet. Supplies on good timothy and clover mixed prices range from 12.00@14.00 per ton. The poorer grades of hay are hard to sell at any price. Market irregular on everything below 3 timothy.

LEGAL NOTICE
SATURDAY,—APRIL 7 wfmdlC
CERTIFICATE.

We, PETER BECKER, Jr., and JOSEPH H. NEWELL, do hereby certify that we are the President and Secretary, respectively, of the Typothetae of Washington, D. C., Inc., a corporation organized under the laws of the District of Columbia, and we do hereby certify that a special meeting of the above corporation was held at the Raleigh Hotel on Monday, March 26, 1934, for the purpose of passing a resolution changing the name of this corporation, such change being recommended by the Board of Directors; that ten days' written notice of the aforesaid meeting was given to all of the members of this corporation, said notices being duly mailed in a sealed wrapper, postage prepaid, properly addressed to each of the members at their usual place of business; and we further certify that at the special meeting aforesaid, by a unanimous affirmative vote, there was duly and regularly passed and adopted a resolution, which has never been repealed or amended, which is still in full force and effect, of which the following is a full, true, perfect and complete copy, as taken by us from and compared by us with the original of said resolution recorded in the minutes of the said meeting, to wit:

"Whereas, by reason of the increased duties placed upon the Typothetae of Washington, D. C., Inc., in the administration of the Graphic Arts Code, the public business of this corporation has increased to such an extent, particularly among those persons formerly in direct contact with this organization, it is desirable that a name be adopted that is more understandable, pronounceable, and descriptive of the functions of this corporation; Therefore, be it

"Resolved—That the name of the Typothetae of Washington, D. C., Inc., be and is hereby changed to 'The Graphic Arts Association of Washington, D. C., Inc.'".

Address, 624 Tower Building, Washington, D. C.

In witness whereof, we have hereunto set our hands and affixed the corporate seal of this corporation at Washington, District of Columbia, this 26th day of March, 1934.

(Seal.) (Signed) PETER BECKER, Jr., President.

(Seal.) (Signed) JOS. H. NEWELL, Secretary.

District of Columbia, ss:

I, GERTRUDE C. BOSWELL, a notary public in and for the District of Columbia, do hereby certify that on this 28th day of March, 1934, personally appeared before me in the District of Columbia, Peter Becker, Jr., and Joseph H. Newell, being personally known to me as the President and Secretary, respectively, of the Typothetae of Washington, D. C., Inc., named in the certain instrument bearing date on the 28th day of March, 1934, and hereto annexed, and by virtue of and in pursuance of the authority conferred upon them, acknowledged said instrument to be the corporate act and deed of the said Typothetae of Washington, D. C., Inc.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto affixed my hand and seal this 28th day of March, 1934, at Washington, District of Columbia.

(Seal.) (Signed) GERTRUDE C. BOSWELL,
7.14.21.28 Notary Public.

1931 Studebaker 6-Cyl. Sedan $309

A beautiful 4-door Sedan with very fine-grade mohair upholstery; good finish and a dandy motor. Heater, too.

Actually this car conditioned with three new tires, wheels refinished; will sell for at least $350, but it has just been traded in and due to the rush now as a result of trying to condition about 40 recent trades, this car has simply been put on the floor just as it came in for quick sale to some thrifty buyer. The body has been polished and came out beautifully.

Walt Mason, Himself

Friendship.

True friendship is delightful, and it is rather frightful when friendship wilts and dies, when friendship tried and tested goes down, severely bested, and never more to rise. When dark and bleak disaster comes like a sticking plaster, it's good to have a friend, who will rear up beside you, and comfort you and guide you, and boost you to the end. True friends will stand around you, when evil fates confound you, your interests to guard, unless in bygone seasons you have for divers reasons, been working them too hard. It's sad when friends address you, in words that must distress you, "You have become a bore; for every time we meet you it seems we have to treat you to fifty cents or more. You're always asking favors, which sort of conduct savors of superhuman nerve; no friendship can survive it, in public or in private—it is a fatal curve." How many friendships wither, and to the junkyard slither, all full of holes and rents! How many friends have parted because one friend has started to borrow fifty cents!

IT'S JUST HERMAN AND ME. WE THOUGHT WE'D DROP OVER AND SORT OF APOLOGIZE FOR THE WAY HERMAN INTERFERED ABOUT THE BOY.
INTERFERE? HERMAN? OH MRS. BUZZER, WE DON'T FEEL THAT...
COME RIGHT IN.
FRANKLY, HERMAN HAS AN OBSESSION FOR GETTING INTO SCRAPES THAT SHOULD CONCERN ONLY THE POLICE.
WELL EVERYTHING TURNED OUT ALL RIGHT.
AHEM!
AHEM!
EACH TIME ANYTHING LIKE THIS HAPPENS HERMAN PROMISES FAITHFULLY TO GIVE UP ALL THAT SILLY DETECTIVE BUSINESS.
AHEM! WELL GEORGE, WHAT DO YOU SAY IF WE...
GO INTO THE OTHER ROOM! FINE, HERMAN.
